NAZIS STILL FIRE GUNS IN BASE OF YANK HELD FORT

Tribune Man Sees Fights in City.

BY JOHN THOMPSON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CHERBOURG, France, June 26.—From the shattered casemates of Fort du Roule captured yesterday by Americans we are looking down on Cherbourg's streets which now are almost entirely in our hands.

But as we look we hear the jarring roar of the Germans' last big guns firing 100 feet below us from this huge bastion's subterranean chambers which are still in enemy hands.

Up from the streets rattles occasional fire from the few remaining German machine gun nests. And out on the northwest side of the military port comes still more fire from other Germans who have fired all the warehouses and magazines.

Prepare to Blast Arsenal.

Their position is hopeless. Tonight our western column, which occupies that section of the city, was preparing to blast its way into the arsenal positions.

[Capture of all Cherbourg was announced early today by supreme allied headquarters. British troops at eastern end of the Normandy line gained more than ¼ miles on a 3½ mile front. Story on page 6.]

Below us sealed away by concrete and steel many feet thick, other Germans still man three powerful guns which fire on our soldiers in Cherbourg's streets from this height, which dominates the entire town as well as all its approaches.

Never has there been such a strange dilemma for our soldiers. They captured this fort and its network of pillboxes, key to the city's entire defense, after a bitter all day fight yesterday. Yet we have so far been unable to blast our way down into its bowels where fanatical Germans, all stocked with food and ammunition, still defy us with their guns.

Set in Face of Cliff.

These guns are firing thru huge cement apertures in the rock face of a sheer sided cliff rising 500 feet at the southern edge of Cherbourg on the east bank of the Divette river. Atop this dominating plateau is the original French fort built in 1857 to which the Germans added many modern improvements.

Among the latter were these subterranean rock tunnels constructed apparently on the same lines as the Maginot line. This inner network connects with the opening in the rock face thru which the guns can fire, protected from counter-battery shelling by five feet of concrete jutting out from the rock.

Since yesterday afternoon when the fort was believed firmly captured we have been trying to dig out the enemy below us.

Drop Grenades Over Side.

A brigadier general and a colonel aided in dropping hand grenades and a type of dynamite charge used in assaulting pillboxes over the face of the cliffs just in front of the gun openings. One charge exploded prematurely as they watched. It knocked off their helmets at the same moment a sniper fired from below and the blast punctured one of the general's eardrums.

It was quiet when I reached the fort this afternoon. In the midst of its shambles wandered our grimy, rain soaked doughboys, their eyes red rimmed and leaden from fatigue and constant fighting. Their commander looked just like one of them. Because of snipers he had removed his insignia of rank.

"This is the damnedest situation" were his first words. "We captured this fort yesterday and took 106 prisoners. On the approach we had taken about 450.

"Then this morning when we were searching thru its tunnels and rooms and dugouts we took in 150

Reds Capture Both Anchors of Nazi Line

LONDON, June 27 [Tuesday]—(AP).—Massive Red armies yesterday captured Vitebsk and Zhlobin, northern and southern anchors of the German Fatherland line in White Russia, a soviet bulletin announced last night. It added that the Russians, plunging forward at a mile an hour clip, were well on the way toward encirclement of three remaining bastions of the German defenses along a 250 mile front.

More than 1,700 populated places had been liberated by the gigantic offensive as four Red armies left Vitebsk and Zhlobin to be mopped up and plunged westward toward Germany.

10,000 Slain in 24 Hours.

Of perhaps 45,000 Germans believed to have been in Vitebsk, the Russians said they had killed 6,000 and captured 1,000. The others presumably were being mopped up. Including those at Vitebsk, according to a supplemental Russian bulletin, the Reds had killed 10,000 Nazis and captured 1,500 in the last 24 hours. Moscow said 2,000 were slain at Zhlobin and 900 near Rogashev.

Nazi Escape Routes Cut.

Red troops storming toward Orsha, 47 miles south of Vitebsk, took the town of Pishchalovo, less than two miles north of Orsha, and a process of encirclement was under way. Other troops were 23 miles northwest of Orsha, and other columns cut the Orsha-Borisov and the Orsha-Lepel highway and railway lines, Nazi escape routes to the west of the city.

Mogilev, another German stronghold, also was being encircled. The Russians took Mostok, six miles northeast of the city, and were astride the railway 18 miles east of the base.

Soviet forces also plunged more than 40 miles beyond Zhlobin.

The town of Brozha was captured, placing Red troops 12 miles southwest of the German stronghold of Bobruisk as the Russians began another encircling movement.

Finns Again Pushed Back.

On the Finnish front the Red army captured 40 localities east of Lake Onezhskoe [Onega], including the district center of Olonets, 10 miles beyond the lake and 115 miles northeast of Leningrad. Another section of the Leningrad-Murmansk railway was freed above lake Onezhskoe. In the gulf of Finland, the bulletin said, the Finns had been cleared from the fortified islands of Koivisto and Tuirinsaari, south of captured Viipuri.

The Russians also announced that the entire length of the Baltic-White Sea canal was in Russian hands and that warships up to light cruisers and merchant vessels would be able to sail from the northern shores to Leningrad.

[The German war bulletin said: "In the central sector of the eastern front the defensive battle has been continued with undiminished violence. The soviets were repulsed in most sectors. The enemy, nevertheless, made some breaches south and east of Bobruisk. The enemy after tough fighting in the area east of Mogilev also gained ground in a western direction."]

Army Sends Out First Invasion Casualty List

Washington, D. C., June 26 (AP).—The army began distributing today, for publication next Monday, a report containing the first list of American casualties in the invasion of France. The list includes the names of 245 soldiers who were wounded in Normandy.

Yanks Win Peninsula and Control of Bay on Saipan

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., Pearl Harbor, June 26 (AP).—American marines have scaled Mount Tapotchau, dominating height on Saipan Island, and battered their way deeper into the Marianas capital of Garapan. They also won complete control of Magicienne bay, major anchorage on the eastern side of the island, by capturing the Kagman peninsula.

A carrier task force, supporting these advances announced today by Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, pounded the Japanese on Guam and Rota Islands, to the south.

Nine more enemy planes were destroyed in the various actions. That raised to 756 the number of aircraft sacrificed in Japan's futile efforts to stem the Saipan invasion.

Rout Foe from Caves.

Marines had to rout the enemy from caves and cliffs on 1,554 foot Tapotchau. When the going got too tough they called up artillery, which shelled isolated nests of resistance.

Adm. Nimitz made no direct claim of capture of Tapotchau, a key position in the center of Saipan. From its summit American observers can spy on the enemy's every move, direct artillery fire and bombing, and emplace big guns to fire down the enemy's throat.

A dispatch from Howard Handleman, representing the combined American press, said the height had been captured and held against an enemy counter-attack. Handleman, aboard a flagship of the joint expeditionary force at Saipan, reported the troops had extended their positions about the base of the peak.

80 Tanks Knocked Out.

In the hazardous ascent the marines fought up the southern slope, slowed not only by steep terrain but by enemy groups dug into commanding positions.

Attempts by the defenders to use tanks in the operation steadily squeezing them into the northern end of the island proved fruitless. Nimitz said 36 of these machines had been destroyed and 44 captured.

BATTLE FOR GARAPAN

BY HAROLD SMITH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SAIPAN, Marianas Islands, June 24 [Via navy radio]—[Delayed].—From a perch on a height overlooking Garapan this correspondent had a bird's-eye view of the beginning of the fight today for the possession of this village directly in the path of our infantry supported by planes, tanks, artillery and mortars. Our troops laboriously slashed their way into the southern outskirts and seized the first of several heights to the east.

The assault opened with a heavy gunfire concentration in the gully leading into Garapan from the mountainous terrain to the southeast, and an almost solid wall of mortar fire was creeping forward only a few yards ahead of the infantry. As the fire let up, line troops moved forward, approaching via double flanking movements on enemy strong points such as pillboxes and machine gun nests.

Advance Under Barrage.

To our right the line hugging the wall of a steep ridge advanced rapidly into areas softened by heavy mortar barrages. The middle of the line went ahead more slowly but with steady progress. It was the left side which encountered the heaviest going from strong enemy positions guarding the south approaches to the village.

As the barrage wall swept northward, our men moved ahead in an approximately even line, the main body not even hesitating as their comrades fell. The line halted short of huge pillboxes while our engineers worked them over.

CHERBOURGERS HIDE CHICAGOAN, 3 MORE IN HOME SINCE D DAY

New York, June 26 (AP).—American patrols in Cherbourg discovered four United States airmen who had landed near the city on D-day and had since been hidden by French patriots. The story was told tonight by B. B. C. reporter Colin Wills in a London broadcast. He said the men were Lt. Harvey W. Doering Jr., Wakarusa, Ind.; Lt. Thomas Westbrook, Harlan, Ia.; Tech. Sgt. James Smith, Chicago, and Sgt. John Delistovic, Hoboken, N. J.

"When an American patrol fought its way into Cherbourg yesterday," Wills related, "a Frenchman suddenly ran out from a gate. He shouted: 'Friend. I have four Americans here.' Four more figures approached. It was true. These four Americans had been in Cherbourg right thru the attack by their countrymen."

The airmen said they were in a plane which dropped parachutists. On their return journey they were caught by heavy flak and forced down near Cherbourg. They set fire to the plane and most of their equipment and hid in a ditch until morning, when they accosted a French maid, who brought food and wine and found a hiding place for the men in a haystack. After a few days, members of the French underground took the men to a home in the city.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 26.—Any one who is interested in making a robot bomb in his basement can get specifications for two flying torpedoes invented more than 25 years ago. All he has to do, the office of war information says, is to write to the United States patent office and send a dime for each specification.

The OWI's interest in robots was piqued when German robots were sent against England, and it discovered that Dr. Charles F. Kettering of the General Motors Research corporation invented a flying torpedo in 1919 and Lawrence Burt Sperry of the Sperry Gyroscope company invented one in 1918.

The OWI didn't say what use, if any, America's military leaders made of the two inventions, for which patents were issued in the late 1920s, but it said the National Inventors' council, of which Dr. Kettering is chairman, observed there is nothing new or secret about robot bombs.

KEYNOTE PLEDGES 'A JOB FOR PEOPLE;' 15 GOVERNORS AT PLATFORM DEBATE

Seek Information on Planks to Aid Own Campaigns.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

The post-war foreign plank was the chief debatable subject last night with the Republican platform makers. The drafting committee of the resolutions committee went into a late session in an effort to finish a draft of the platform by this afternoon or tonight. Controversy was in the air.

Fifteen Republican governors, after a caucus, visited the drafting committee to answer questions, advise, and otherwise serve as consultants. Gov. Baldwin of Connecticut, their spokesman, said the visit was by invitation, but there were indications that the governors themselves were getting restless over some of the proposed planks on both domestic and foreign matters. Only two governors are on the full resolutions committee which prepares the platform. Seven senators and two representatives are on the committee.

As the governors trooped into the committee room at 11 p. m., Gov. Baldwin said:

"We are not a group of insurgents, by any means. We're interested in a Republican victory and we want to see the platform and give our opinions on it."

Governors Seek Information.

No especial views the governors might present were disclosed, but the general idea seemed to be that they wanted to know what was going into the party's declaration of principles. Many of the governors are heads of the party organizations in their states, and have deep interest in the platform on which the campaigns will be made in their states. The governors months ago were regarded as one of the most important groups in the convention.

As they went into the committee room, at least some of them were expected to protest against any ambiguity in the foreign policy plank. There was a lurking surmise that the governors, as a group, were against giving congress members a predominant voice in the platform making.

Make States' Rights Plea.

The meeting broke up at 1 a. m. today after the governors had completed their suggestions. One was for a strong statement for states' rights.

Sen. Taft said their ideas would be fully considered in adopting the final form of the platform.

"We are mainly interested in getting a platform which is clear, says what it means, and means what it says," said Gov. Baldwin. "We are particularly interested in a strong statement concerning the sovereignty of the states to administer government on a state level."

Taft said the foreign policy plank was not shown the governors.

"It has been rewritten twice, is being written a third time and may have to be rewritten again tomorrow," he said.

There was discussion, it was revealed, on a proposed insertion

AUSSIES DID MOST TO DEFEND COUNTRY, SAYS PREMIER CURTIN

BRISBANE, Australia, June 26 (AP).—It is clearly realized in both the United States and Britain, Prime Minister John Curtin told a press conference today, that the heaviest contribution for the defense of Australia against the Japanese was made by Australia.

"During the greater part of the Japanese offensive against Australia the bulk of the fighting forces came from Australia," he said, adding that they have much fighting left to do.

Warren Gains Wide Support for 2d Place

BY WALTER TROHAN.

Gov. Earl Warren, personable keynoter of the Republican convention, last night was far in advance of a crowded field of possibilities for the Vice Presidential nomination.

Altho the silver-haired governor hasn't said yes to importunings that he accept the second place, he was careful to point out Sunday that he hasn't said no.

On the strength of this implication of willingness, the California delegation has called a caucus this morning for the purpose of drafting Warren.

It is expected that he will be nominated by acclamation, as it is considered likely that no other name will be placed in nomination even tho a number of Republicans would leap for the post.

Green May Nominate Him.

As a demonstration of party harmony, it is expected that Gov. Green of Illinois, who advanced himself strongly as a Vice Presidential possibility by his stirring address of welcome, will place the Californian in nomination.

Consideration of Green for this role drew wide support thruout Republican ranks. If the governor should shy away from making two major speeches in the convention, it was believed that the Warren nominating speech would be delivered by Sen. Wayland Brooks [R., Ill.], one of the party's best orators.

Address Brings Support.

Green had been considered for the post solely because it was felt that a midwestern governor would add immeasurably to the strength of the Republican ticket in November. After his address of welcome, he won heavy support for himself as a leader of personality and vigor.

Another possibility, if Warren should drop out, is Gov. Bricker of Ohio, who has single handedly fought to stem the Dewey tide. His supporters were certain that he would take the No. 2 spot as a demonstration of party unity.

Other names mentioned were Lt. Comdr. Stassen, former governor of Minnesota, and Eric Johnston, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

A late starter for the Vice Presidential nomination is Gov. Griswold of Nebraska, who is to place Gov. Dewey's name in nomination.

Sen. Brewster [R., Me.] said Sen. Byrd [D., Va.] had been approached as a Vice Presidential possibility by a Republican leader, but the delegates showed no enthusiasm for a coalition ticket.

Dewey's Majority Now Expected to Exceed 300.

TEXTS OF SPEECHES.
Highlights of Gov. Green's welcoming address at the Republican convention yesterday and of Gov. Warren's keynote address last night, will be found on pages 2 and 4, respectively.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING

In a setting of wildly cheering delegates and spectators Gov. Warren of California, delivering the Presidential campaign keynote speech last night in the Republican national convention, dedicated the G. O. P. to the accomplishment of a "job for the American people."

That job, said Warren, is "to get our boys back home again—victorious and with all speed," to open the door for all Americans not only to employment but to opportunity, and to construct a peace that will make this war America's last war.

The keynote was one of the most masterly presentations of issues in the history of convention oratory, the kind that stampedes a party to the nomination of the orator, as it did to Garfield in 1880 and Bryan in 1896.

Brings Delegates to Feet.

Again and again the magnetic Warren with free swinging gesture and vehement delivery brought the perspiring, coatless delegates to their feet cheering and waving delegation standards as he portrayed the Republican mission to save the country from the autocracy and regimentation of the Roosevelt regime. Again and again he rocked the convention with laughter as he ripped into New Deal administration or punctured New Deal theories with witty epigram and metaphor.

With Gov. Green of Illinois welcoming the delegates at the morning session in a speech indicting the New Deal dictatorship which stirred the party conclave to a rare pitch of enthusiasm, and with Gov. Warren installed at the night session as temporary chairman, the temporary organization of the convention was completed.

Elect Martin Chairman Today.

Today the convention will achieve permanent organization with Rep. Martin of Massachusetts, minority leader of the national house of representatives, taking the gavel as permanent chairman and doing some more keynoting. At the night session the convention will be addressed by former President Hoover and Rep. Clare Boothe Luce of Connecticut.

While the party's 23d national convention thus was getting under way the tide of support for Gov. Dewey of New York for the nomination for President was mounting higher, assuring his choice on the first ballot tomorrow by an overwhelming majority.

At the same time it became virtually certain that Gov. Warren will be drafted to be the party's nominee for Vice President.

Dewey Gains Continue.

After the caucuses of California, which gave its 50 votes to Dewey, and of a dozen other delegations, the tally of prospective votes on the first call was 841 for Dewey, 312 more than the 529 necessary to a choice. For Gov. Bricker of Ohio 94 votes were pledged or claimed; for Lt. Comdr. Stassen of Minnesota 36, for Gov. Willis of Kentucky 22, for Gen. MacArthur 1, and 63 delegates remained unpledged and unclaimed.

As the delegates rushed for places on the Dewey bandwagon, Gov. Bricker and the representatives of Lt. Comdr. Stassen were subjected to great pressure to withdraw from the race and make the choice of the candidate unanimous even before the calling of the roll for the first time. Late last night, however, the Bricker and Stassen headquarters said that the names of their respective candidates would be presented to the convention.

It is generally expected, however, that when the first ballot is completed Gov. Bricker will cause his representatives in the convention to move the unanimous nomination of Dewey.

Gov. Griswold of Nebraska will make the speech presenting the name of Gov. Dewey for the head of the ticket at the first session tomorrow.

May Hear Dewey Tomorrow.

Gov. Dewey is scheduled to come to Chicago on Thursday to deliver his speech of acceptance, tho if the nomination should be made sufficiently early tomorrow he may come by plane in time to address the convention tomorrow night.

In setting forth the basis of a just and lasting peace Gov. Warren loosed a shaft at the brand of internationalism that subordinates American interest to that of other nations and assailed the power politics that President Roosevelt is accused of playing whereby Poland and other small nations have been exposed to subjection by Russian Dictator Stalin.

"We want a peace," he said, "that is based upon realities and not upon the insecure foundation of mere words or promises. That means a peace which, being mindful of the interest of other nations, does not neglect or sacrifice the interests of our own nation.

Assails World Power Politics.

"None of these aspirations can be realized under a leadership that plays power politics on a world-wide stage. They cannot be achieved under a leadership which neglects the interests of America, no such leadership can hope to keep the world's respect or to unite America in helping to solve the world's problems. Nor can they ever be achieved by a leadership which holds itself superior to the wisdom of the people."

The Republican party, the keynoter reminded the convention, enunciated at the Mackinac conference the principle that international coöperation of the United States, Great Britain, Russia, and China is esential. And if we are to maintain our own commitments and "compel recalcitrants to keep theirs, we must keep America ever strong and self-reliant."

To hearten our military leaders, said Warren, we must keep the war out of politics and politics out of war. Once the war is won the soldiers coming home will want jobs in industry, not the "made jobs" which constitute the New Deal panacea. The Republican party will see to it, the keynoter promised, that young people will get real jobs and a chance to own a farm or a business.

Assails Roosevelt Autocracy.

Gov. Warren held up to scorn Roosevelt autocracy and the New Deal's theory of a mature economy and an economy of scarcity.

"A climate that is friendly to production," he epigrammed, "requires a government that is friendly to production."

The New Dealers, he said, seek to perpetuate themselves in power by capitalizing each succeeding crisis—first the depression, then the recession, then to keep us out of war, now to achieve peace. There will be more crises in the future and the "indispensable man will still be indispensable."

Gov. Green not only welcomed the convention to Chicago on behalf of the state of Illinois, but fulfilled the role of spokesman for the middle west on the program of speakers selected by the national committee to address the party gathering.

So much did the Green speech partake of the nature of a party keynote for the 1944 election canvass and so impressively did it evoke the approval and enthusiasm of the delegates that the Green performance had the aspect of stealing the show, particularly as it came within 48 hours after the Illinois governor started the Dewey bandwagon rolling. Green beat the California and Pennsylvania delegations "to the draw" by calling a caucus of the Illinois delegation which declared for Dewey in advance of the other big states and touched off the Dewey stampede.

Pledge to Benjamin Franklin.

A wave of tumultuous applause and cheers was heard as Gov. Green concluded his peroration with a word picture of Benjamin Franklin emerging from the constitutional convention in 1787 and facing an anxious crowd and the inquiry as to what kind of government the framers of the charter had given to the people of America.

"We have given you a Republic," answered Franklin, "if you can keep it."

"Ladies and gentlemen of this national convention," said Green, "we give Franklin his answer now. We WILL keep the Republic, and we will keep it by nominating and electing a Republican President and Vice President of the United States."

Gov. Green prefaced his speech with the announcement of a purchase of 5 million dollars in war bonds by the Illinois state treasury.

People Awakened to Perils.

Green said that the "glorious news" from France, and the Pacific bears impressive testimony to the fact that under the Constitution of 1787 "we have built the strongest nation on earth." Republicans united to preserve and protect this Republic approach the election with the confidence that Americans are becoming increasingly aware of the "pitfalls and perils of the fascist minded federal burocracy," he went on. He thought that accounted for the recent "mighty upswing of power," in the by-elections.

Green asserted that the Republican party will win the 1944 election because it is the only major political force standing forthrightly for the Republic and the Constitution. The most serious threat to our liberties, he added, emanates from the attempt of a "domineering burocracy" to exercise "arbitrary power" over the legislative and judicial branches of government. This burocracy "tries to convey the impression that it alone hates hunger and poverty and that all who do not favor its perpetuation in power are unpatriotic exploiters and enemies of society."

New Declaration of Independence.

The governor called for a new declaration of independence freeing us from the burocracy which seeks to destroy the rights for which Americans are fighting and dying on battlefields overseas.

The winning of the war, said Green, is uppermost in the mind of every American. Republican victory in November "will strike dread into the hearts of the enemy," for "they will know that the government of this nation has passed into the hands of men not only determined upon victory, but men determined to cut all the red tape and burocratic interference" with our army and navy commanders.

With veiled reference to the boss ridden Democratic party and to the fourth term, Green said that the Republican ticket will be nominated by delegates "undominated by federal subsidy, patronage, or favor," uncontroled by political machines, and unswayed "by the weird pretense that an 'indispensable man' exists." The candidates will not limit their objectives to Mr. Roosevelt's four freedoms, but will strive to reëstablish the 33 freedoms guaranteed by the Constitution, he said.

Stays on Job

Albany, N. Y., June 26 (AP).—Despite mounting certainty that Gov. Dewey would be nominated for President Wednesday on the first Republican ballot, he has had to date no official voice in drafting of the party platform, the executive office said today.

Last Thursday, Dewey, who repeatedly has professed he is not a candidate, said he would "be glad" to discuss his views by telephone with Sen. Taft, head of the resolutions committee.

Dewey has not been consulted directly, however, his office said, adding that his views "undoubtedly" are known by New York leaders.

LIST 841 VOTES FOR DEWEY AND 94 FOR BRICKER

A state by state check on Presidential choice as revealed by Republican delegation caucuses, informal caucuses, and instructions by state party conventions and primary voters, last night gave Gov. Dewey 841 pledged or claimed votes out of a total of 1,057 delegates. Only 529 votes are necessary to assure nomination.

Results of many caucuses showed a few delegates still loyal to Gov. Bricker of Ohio, but in most of those states the Dewey delegates expressed the opinion their units would be unanimous when roll call starts tomorrow.

California's 50 delegates swung into line for Dewey yesterday. Two delegates voted for Bricker when their names were called at the state caucus, but switched to Dewey before the roll call was completed.

Silent on Gov. Warren.

Gov. Warren of California, who has been suggested as the nominee for Vice President, spoke after the caucus vote. Both he and the delegates avoided mention of his possible entry for that nomination. The governor praised the delegates for their action, which was taken without speechmaking or other preliminaries, and commended Gov. Bricker and Lt. Comdr. Stassen "for the great campaign of Republicanism they are carrying on."

State Chairman Edward H. Tickle said the delegation decided to caucus on Vice President today and agreed not to discuss its position in the meantime. It was reported the Californians believe some other state should make the first move if their governor is to be an entry for Vice President.

Minnesota Backs Stassen.

Minnesota's 25 delegates decided at a caucus yesterday to nominate and support their former governor, now Lt. Comdr. Stassen, and six of Nebraska's 15 delegates stood fast for Stassen.

Kentucky's 22 votes are committed to Gov. Simeon Willis, but Dewey supporters were claiming 19 of them last night.

Elsewhere the commitments were for Dewey or Bricker and the standings as available last night were:

Gov. Green Greets Delegates with Vow to Save Republic

Nineteen forty-four is America's year of decision—a year which will stand out historically as a turning point in human progress. The decision which will be recorded by American voters at the polls next November, their choices of national leadership—in the executive as well as in the legislative departments of government — will determine the fate of our constitutional liberties and the course of our economic life for at least a generation.

As Republicans, as loyal and patriotic American men and women who are united under a great political party for the purpose of protecting and preserving this Republic and for proving our undying faith in its institutions and traditions, we can approach the coming election with well warranted confidence—a confidence based not only on faith in the patriotism and foresight and judgment of American citizens, who are becoming increasingly aware of the pitfalls and perils of a fascist-minded federal burocracy, but a confidence that arises from events which show a mighty upswing of Republican power, a mass movement of voters from one end of the United States to the other to those principles for which the Republican party has always stood, and for which its stands now more firmly and ardently than ever before.

Seven Victors Nominated Here.

In the many Republican national conventions held in Chicago, seven Presidential candidates have been sent forth to popular victory. Among them were the immortal Lincoln, the beloved Grant, and the great Theodore Roosevelt. The Republicans of Illinois, who welcome you here today, are firm in the conviction that the eighth Republican President will be nominated here this week.

For months I have been declaring thruout Illinois that 1944 is a Republican year. In the stark reality of war, the people of America are turning from the fallacies of the New Deal to the Republican party and its devotion to the Constitution and the American way of life.

This trend is indicated in every poll—and it is indicated more definitely in by-elections, in the increase of Republican congressional strength, and in the rapidly expanding Republican control of municipal, county, and other local governments. It is a trend which announces that there can be no doubt of the crystalized opinions of the American people. They are awaiting the coming of November to record those opinions by what I have no hesitancy in forecasting now as the greatest victory for the Republic and for the Republican party this nation has ever witnessed.

Supreme Issue Is Human Liberty.

Like the delegates who gave Lincoln to the nation, we must face the present task with the same calm courage and boundless faith in a freedom loving people. We, too, will win on the same supreme issue of human liberty, because that rich heritage is precious to every American. We will win because the Republican party emerges again as the only major political force in the United States which stands forthrightly and four square for the Republic and for its Constitution.

Powerful forces have undertaken to remodel that system of government which Lincoln prayed shall not perish from the earth. Those hallowed institutions, which were molded in the blood of our founders and which have become, and now are the envy of all liberty loving people, are being despoiled and desecrated.

The most serious threat to our liberties is the assumption by a small group that it possesses a monopoly on wisdom, goodwill, and social justice—a group that seeks to exercise arbitrary power over the legislative and judicial departments of government by its concentration in a domineering burocracy—that challenges the motives of those who differ with it on public issues—that appeals to the prejudices of the underprivileged and the unthinking, and tries to convey the impression that it alone hates hunger and poverty, and that all who do not favor its perpetuation in power are unpatriotic exploiters and enemies of society.

New Deal Theft Rebuked.

The winning of the war is uppermost in the mind of every American. From the moment of the treachery at Pearl Harbor, the American people have been entirely united as never before in the determination to crush completely the enemies who would destroy us. There is no "Win the War" party in America, and public opinion has so properly rebuked the attempts of the New Dealers to grab that slogan that they have almost completely abandoned it.

Republican victory in November will strike dread into the hearts of the enemy. They will know that the government of this nation has passed into the hands of men not only determined upon victory, but men determined to cut all the red tape and burocratic interference with the trained leaders of the United States army and navy. Those officers, worthy of the tradition of our great soldiers of the past, will have in the conduct of war the unstinted support of the Republican administration, free from the political meddling of second string burocrats.

Even before the end of armed conflict, however, even before the establishment of a just and permanent peace in which we shall participate within our fullest sovereign and constitutional privileges, another victory must be won—not only a victory that frees those crushed under axis heels, but a victory which will release the people of the greatest nation on earth from the constantly tightening shackles of burocratic regimentation—not only a victory to insure freedom of speech, assemblage and religious worship, and to maintain unobstructed channels of commerce and social intercourse for all, but a victory to rescue our own civil liberties now submerged beneath the cross-currents of executive directives promulgated by small group government.

Sane Government Vital.

The tremendous primary task confronting national government in the critical years which are upon us is to place government again upon a basis of sane, sound, and economical operation.

Unless we would court social and economic disaster, government must be saved immediately from the overwhelming confusion of the unproven and helterskelter trial and error methods employed for more than 11 long years by a hybrid offspring of socialism, communism, totalitarianism, and autocracy.

At this free and open convention, the patriotic men and women who represent the highest American ideals—the delegates, undominated by federal subsidy, patronage or favor—uncontroled by political machines and free from fear of reprisals by a ruthless and dictatorial burocracy—unswayed by the weird pretense that an "indispensable man" exists—those who revere the American Republic and who are guided only by the best interests of their country have assembled to nominate Republican candidates for President and Vice President of the United States.

From this historic conclave we will send forth the candidates who are truly Republicans—devoted Americans—statesmen whose records are a pledge that the cause of their country will be well served during their terms of office—men whose moral principles are an assurance that they will abide by the platform of the Republican party, and will not seek dictatorial power, selfish gain, or unlimited tenure of office; men who will not confine their labors only to the heralded objectives of the so-called "four freedoms," but who are resolved to reëstablish, here in America, the 33 freedoms guaranteed to all citizens under the Constitution of the United States.

Patriotis to Supplant Ideologists.

In short, we will send forth men who are unshakable in their conviction that a single ounce of patriotism is worth many, many pounds of amateurish theorization and reckless experimentation based on dangerous ideologies—those who adhere so faithfully to the concepts of their forebears that genuine patriotism is as vital a virture in peace as in war. No hero on the field of battle is a greater patriot than he who serves the public welfare with unselfish and unflagging loyalty to the fundamental precepts of the American form of free government.

The eyes of the nation are focused upon this meeting, and the American people are eagerly awaiting the selection of our candidates. For nearly 12 years, the constructive elements of this country have been confused and hampered by broken promises, wild spending, unscrupulous subsidization, reckless experimentation, and unprecedented favoritism in federal government. Not begrudging their last dollar for the war effort, the people realize that the taxation and regimentation they are suffering today would be unnecessary had not the foundation for high taxes and inflation been laid by peace time spending which loaded the largest debt in world history upon their backs.

Burocracy Must Be Halted.

They realize that the parasitic growth of a burocracy which is rapidly absorbing the last vestiges of their civil liberties must be halted abruptly if America is to be saved from the very fascism which their sons are fighting to destroy on foreign soil.

When the founders of our newly born nation began building the structure of free government upon the foundation of the independence they had won, the way ahead was obscure and the past gave them little to rely upon. History had not proved that a people once free would remain free against jealous internal strife and the ambitions of selfish men.

When the constitutional convention of 1787 was in what seemed hopeless deadlock and years of privation and fighting about to be sacrificed for naught, the stature of Benjamin Franklin as a statesman and patriot showed its full greatness. It was he who by persuasion and force led the way to the adoption of that Constitution which has withstood every attack and every effort to ignore or circumvent it.

When he stepped wearily forth from the trying days and nights of parliamentary struggle, Franklin was asked what kind of government the convention had given the people of America, and Franklin replied:

"We have given you a Republic, if you can keep it."

Ladies and gentlemen of this national convention, we give Franklin his answer now. We will keep the Republic, and we will keep it by nominating and electing a Republican President and Vice President of the United States.

HALT TUGWELL MANIA, IS PLEA BY PUERTO RICO

BY WILLIAM SHINNICK.

Puerto Rico's delegation to the Republican national convention came to Chicago with a definite program: They want a real pledge in the platform for Puerto Rican statehood.

They seek this, said Sen. Jose A. Balseiro, delegation chairman, as a first step toward ending un-American rule by administrative edict, as exemplified by the present New Deal governor, Rexford Guy Tugwell.

"Our people have been American citizens since 1917," said Balseiro, former professor of romance literature at the University of Illinois. "Tugwell has been governor nearly three years. It is time to bring an end to his period of mad experimentation."

Tugwell Gets Revenge.

The senator recalled that the Puertò Rico house of representatives had petitioned President Roosevelt to remove Tugwell. The governor got even by sending to Washington a confidential memorandum, urging that fertilizers for the island's principal crop, sugar cane, be denied the growers.

"The advice was taken," Balseiro asserted. "The fertilizer was withheld. As a result, production of sugar this year was 750,000 tons instead of the anticipated 1,500,000 tons. In this way, Tugwell punished the farmers and reduced the pay of 135,000 workers in sugar industry by 18 million dollars.

Money for School Books Slashed.

"Tugwell poses as the friend of the under privileged, but he reduced the expenditure for school books by $125,000 about the time he spent $30,000 in nine months for food, drink, and entertainment in his magnificent palace, Fortaleza.

"He has put members of the minority Popular party in every important key job—members of a party that is led by Communists and other anti-Americans.

"We request the Republican convention to help Puerto Rico restore American principles and institutions in economic, social, and political fields."

CLAIM DIRKSEN HAS BACKING FOR 2D TICKET PLACE

The name of Rep. Dirksen, five term Illinois congressman, as a possibility for the Republican Vice Presidential nomination, bobbed up occasionally last night in conversation among delegates.

Dirksen's name is scheduled to be placed in nomination by Rep. Keefe of Wisconsin, one of 36 congressmen who signed a petition asking Dirksen to run for President. A Dirksen spokesman asserted that he has support among 22 state delegations.

The spokesman said that Dewey's choice probably will determine the identity of his running mate, and that Dirksen has been friendly with Dewey since 1938. He admitted, however, that Dewey's choice is likely to be Gov. Warren of California.

Illinois Republican leaders last night left no doubt that they do not favor Dirksen. They said he has not worked with the party organizations and that an indorsement of him would discourage "good soldiers" in party ranks.

CHURCH PARLEY DEMANDS BAN ON WHISKY MAKING

Atlanta, Ga., June 26 (AP).—The southeastern conference of the Methodist church, representing 2,146,000 members in nine states, today petitioned President Roosevelt to outlaw the manufacture of whisky for the duration of the war.

In conference here, 334 delegates adopted a report criticizing a war production board order allowing whisky to be made during August.

The report said whisky comes from food products and that shortage of food is threatened.

BILBO TO TAKE WALK IF PARTY FAVORS NEGROES

Jackson, Miss., June 26 [Special].—Sen. Bilbo [D., Miss.] will "take a walk" in the Presidential election if the Democratic national convention puts a pro-Negro plank or an anti-poll tax plank in its platform. An all out New Dealer and advocate of a 4th term for President Roosevelt, Bilbo made this assertion in a letter to Robert Kelly, Vicksburg attorney and former president of the Mississippi Bar association. Bilbo said, however, that even tho he goes fishing on election day he will not be a party to the election of a Republican.

G.O.P. ASSEMBLY FORGETS HEAT TO CHEER KEYNOTE

Stirring Call to Action Puts Life in Convention.

BY THOMAS MORROW.

The Republican national convention, off to a leisurely start in a heat-ridden morning session, came to life last night under the lights of the Chicago stadium.

Altho the weather man didn't cooperate, and the mercury still rode the 95 degree mark, the delegates were more cheery. In fact, they were able to get off a full throated cheer on occasion.

The galleries, half empty during the day, filled at the opening of the night session. The delegates and guests joined Carl Craven, community singing leader, in singing "The Eyes of Texas Are Upon You," and other old favorites. Twice they demanded the singing of "Iowa."

Movie Lights Add to Heat.

Brutal lights, set up for motion picture photographers, still beamed on perspiring speakers and sweltering delegates. But there was more expectancy, more verve among the delegates and the gallery.

Miss Shirley Dickinson of the Chicago Opera company, introduced by National Chairman Harrison Spangler, got the night session under way by singing the national anthem. She was followed to the microphone by the Right Rev. Msgr. George J. Casey who voiced the nightly prayer.

Gov. Edward Martin of Pennsylvania made an appeal for the fifth war loan. His plea was heightened by an effective playing of taps, followed by an echo-like rejoinder from a muted trumpet in the foyer.

Despite all this, only $2,000 in war bonds were purchased by the thousands who attended, final tallies showed.

Californian Gets a Cheer.

First convention-like demonstration arose when Gov. Warren of California, elected temporary chairman of the meeting, was escorted to the stand by a committee of five appointed for the purpose. While the band played "California Here I Come," the delegates rose and cheered as the Californian was led to the speakers' platform.

The delegates and spectators fanned themselves and cheered Warren's every utterance favorable to the Republicans. His mention that the congress would see more Republicans drew vocal acclaim. His next assertion that "in Washington where the New Dealers live, there is still a Democrat in the White House, but out where the people live they are electing Republicans" brought an ovation that lasted more than a minute.

Warren's appearance aroused the pack of photographers for the first time at the night session. The program rested while they screamed at the speaker for "one more shot" and appealed to him to "look this way, Earl."

All Illinois Seats Filled.

Shirtsleeved Republicans mingled with more formal fellows in coats. Some women delegates were dressed for the heat; others were decked out in finery. All kept mopping their faces with handkerchiefs as they applauded and cheered the keynote speech.

Warren's statement that "for 11 years we have been in the middle of the stream" brought the delegates cheering to their feet. The organ joined the crowd in a closing salute as the Californian finished his speech with the assertion that Republicans will win and march "before God to victory and peace."

Gov. Warren recognized a delegate from Maine, who moved that the convention adjourn until this morning. The motion was passed by shouted acclamation. Warren spent a last few minutes posing for photographers, and the band and organ joined in a tune that moved the delegates and spectators toward the exits.

FIRST SESSION COLORFUL

All of the pageantry and ceremony attendant on national conventions came to life on the floor of the Chicago Stadium yesterday morning as the Republican delegates convened for their opening session.

An Indian, in full regalia, added color by wandering about the floor.

Flash bulbs popped as Will Hays, moving picture czar, mounted the platform to greet a friend. Clarence Budington Kelland, author and Republican leader, drew a covey of photographers as he made his way thru the crowd.

Vermont Gavel Starts Action.

It was 11:16 a. m. and the spectators' seats were half empty when National Chairman Harrison Spangler wielded one of the five pound gavels given him by the Vermont delegation.

"I now declare the Republican convention of 1944 in session," Spangler said.

He introduced Miss Naomi Cook, who opened the convention by singing the national anthem. She was followed to the microphone by the Rev. John Holland, of the Little Brown Church of the Air, who said a prayer for the service men.

Illinois and the middle west were placed prominently in the convention picture when Spangler called on Gov. Green to greet the delegates. Green got an ovation from the crowd with his appeal to turn out the "contemptuous burocrats."

Mrs. Clyde Bradley Corbin of Kentucky replaced Gov. Green at the microphone and introduced the winner of the essay contest of the Young Republican National federation. The recipient, Pvt. Harry Reasoner of Minneapolis, had come from his camp in California as a guest of the Young Republicans.

"I don't believe that any young man has ever stood before an assemblage like this and felt as deep a sense of humility as I feel right now," Reasoner said. "This convention is a big thing—and I am fully sensible of the honor I am receiving this morning. To me there is only one thing that makes it understandable: the fact that all of us—old Republicans, young Republicans alike—are here with one mind, all believing in the same principles and gathered to do something constructive about them."

Chairman Spangler turned to the formalities necessary to get the convention in motion. Kentucky and Maryland straightened out mix-ups on delegates in motions from the floor microphones.

Warren Made Temporary Chairman.

To the relief of sweltering delegates the convention dispensed with the calling of the temporary roll. Then Gov. Warren was elected temporary chairman by acclamation.

The following committee was named to escort the Californian to the platform: Joseph R. Knowland of Oakland, Cal.; Gov. Raymond E. Baldwin of Connecticut; Mrs. Gladys B. Stewart of Missouri, and Mrs. M. L. Spencer of Minnesota.

Harold W. Mason of Vermont was chosen temporary secretary, and Mrs. Katherine Kennedy Tracey of New York and Miss Dorothy Steidley of Washington, D. C., were named as his assistants. Other temporary officers are: Chief sergeant at arms, Vic MacKenzie, Oregon; sergeant at arms, Carrol Cate of Tennessee; parliamentarian, Lehr Fess of Ohio; official reporter, George L. Hart, Washington, D. C.; chief of doorkeepers, William Livingood, Pennsylvania; assistant chief doorkeeper, Virgil Frizell of West Virginia, and assistant sergeant at arms in charge of press, Arthur J. Foran of New Jersey.

Five Illinois Chaplains Named.

Among chaplains named by the convention were five from Illinois. They are the Rev. John W. Holland, Msgr. Casey, the Rev. Dr. J. L. Horace, the Rev. St. John Tucker, and the Rev. Harrison Ray Anderson.

Benjamin De Boice and Patrick B. Prescott Jr. of Illinois were among the assistant secretaries, while Leon Golding and Kathryn C. Raymond of Illinois were chosen assistant reporters.

After ratifying the national committee's slates on credentials, rules and platform groups, the program for the opening session was ended and the delegates made for hotels, cooling drinks, and baths.

95.3° 1944 HIGH; SEE NO RELIEF FOR CITY TODAY

The temperature in Chicago yesterday shot up to 95.3 degrees at 4:15 p. m. to set a new high for the year. It crowded the all-time record for June 26 of 96 degrees, reached last year.

There was brief relief from the heat, however, in the late afternoon, the temperature dropping to 89 by 5 o'clock.

The closest approach to yesterday's torridity this year was on June 18 when a temperature of 94.4 degrees was recorded.

But Forecaster H. S. Kenny, who supplied the above information, saved his hardest punch till last. It was: No relief in sight, and probably even higher temperatures today.

COWBOY SINGER IDAHO WINNER BY 216 VOTES

Boise, Idaho, June 26 (AP).—Glen H. Taylor, war worker and cowboy singer, defeated Sen. Clark by 216 votes for the Democratic senatorial nomination in Idaho's June 13 primary, the official canvass disclosed today. Taylor's vote was 10,711 and Clark's 10,495.

Taylor pledged support to the Roosevelt administration in campaign speeches. Clark has voted against many New Deal measures. He was elected to the senate in 1938.

THERE'S NO REST FOR CELEBRITIES AT CONVENTION

BY MARCIA WINN.

The way to be happy at a national political convention is to be unknown. In that manner you see, you hear, yet are neither seen nor heard, and you end up unblinded by the flashing bulbs of photographers.

It was easy to pick out the ladies whom other ladies wanted to see as the Republican convention held its first major session last night. They were the unhappy ladies around whom the flashlights popped. As a result, they saw spots the rest of the night.

In that tier of boxes directly across from the speaker's stand the lights popped all night. Here, glowing with excitement, sat pretty Mrs. Earl Warren and her daughter, Virginia, 16, as Gov. Warren delivered the keynote address. On Mrs. Warren's blonde head was something blue, or maybe black; on one pale blue lapel an orchid, on the other a marine corps emblem for her son, Jim, 24; on her lips was the constantly reiterated plea that reporters come back when she was not so confused.

Excited About Speech.

"Just come back," she begged. "I'm so excited about the speech I can't think. . . . the Vice Presidency? I never have given it a thought because he [Gov. Warren] is not a candidate."

Directly in front of her sat that electric pair, Mrs. Robert Taft and Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth, the latter in the large, eye-jutting hat that she has made celebrated. Here flashlights also popped. Few were aware of the inner confusion in the box caused by the fact that the third Taft son, Lloyd, a new ensign in the navy, had caught the afternoon train to report for Pacific duty carrying all the family's convention credentials.

This is Mrs. Longworth's 10th political convention. Since 1908 she has been as much a fixture as the opening prayer, a symbol perhaps that there will always be a Republican party [or a Republican Roosevelt], so it was with quite a start that she heard a photographer say to her: "Say, what's your name?"

"O, you know," Mrs. Taft began.

"No, I don't," he protested. "There's just too many people here for me to know them all."

Theodore Puzzles Him.

"She is the daughter of President Theodore Roosevelt," Mrs. Taft said quickly.

"Theodore . . .?" he asked in dismay. He had a hard time spelling it, too.

In the center of the first tier of boxes sat a lady who confessed she was having a wonderful time.

"I can just sit back and enjoy it this time," said the young wife of former Gov. Alf Landon of Kansas, Republican Presidential nominee in 1936. With her sat the two young Landon children, Jackie, 10, and wideyed, and Nancy Jo, 11, wearing still the tiny jeweled, red-eyed elephant which Mrs. Worthington Scranton of Scranton, Pa., national committeewoman from that state, gave her eight years ago as a child of three.

Mayor Kelly Sits Near Her.

Sitting across the rail from Mrs. Landon, unaware of her presence and certainly of her name, sat Mayor Kelly of Chicago. He seemed greatly disturbed when a photographer asked him to shake her hand and pose. "No," he said gruffly. "I don't want to." He posed, however, but in what seemed to be a grimacing mood, and guffawed that this was one for Ripley all right.

Down in the New Mexico delegation, a focal point for all cameras that passed, sat Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick Simms, a brown hat shading her brown eyes. It was a relatively restful evening for the astute daughter of Mark Hanna, for it was just about the first time she had set down in seven days. As a strong Dewey motivator and as a member of the platform committee, it also was just about her first public appearance of the week, for she has spent most of the time behind locked conference doors. She said a first ballot victory for Dewey has been a certainty for three days. "I predicted it a week ago," she reminded her questioner.

Three Congresswomen Present.

Three congresswomen dotted the audience—Margaret Chase Smith of Maine, Mrs. Frances P. Bolton of Ohio, wearing a "B. A. Bricker Backer" button and stating her calm conviction that Gov. Bricker "is the only man who has stumped the country for Americanism, the only man who asks us to be true to ourselves," and Mrs. Clare Boothe Luce of Connecticut, who is tonight's keynote speaker.

Mrs. Luce's attire, here described because every one in the convention hall tried to see it, was of ice blue. It seemed to be a chiffon blouse with bishop sleeves and a pleated skirt of perforated ice blue something. At her neck she wore a gold brooch of sapphires and pearls, at her ears pearl and gold ear rings in a butterfly design, and on her dress, in a tiny vase, a single red rose. Her blonde hair was worn close to her head in a halo coronet with a black velvet bow perched on top, and most of the time her blue eyes were hidden behind dark glasses which every other woman in the Stadium wished she had had sense enough to bring.

EDITORS DEMAND PRESS FREEDOM IN PEACE TREATY

Provisions for a free press and unrestricted world news transmission facilities in the peace treaty after the war were urged last night by directors of the American Society of Newspaper Editors.

The committee, which announced its aims at the Stevens hotel, will take up the questions with the state department and other government agencies.

More immediately, the editors agreed also to submit the recommendations to the Republican and Democratic national conventions.

KEYNOTE SPEECH OF GOV. WARREN TO REPUBLICANS

Calls for Winning War and Giving Real Jobs.

Following are the highlights of the keynote address delivered last night by Gov. Earl Warren of California as temporary chairman of the Republican national convention:

We are here to do a job for the American people. And we mean business.

What is our job? Ask any American. Ask the anxious American mother and father. Ask the anxious wives and sweethearts of our fighting men. Ask our fighting men themselves. They will tell you what our job is.

They will give you the keynote for this convention. They will tell you out of their hearts, and what they say will be the same—east and west, north and south, it will be the same. For now the same anxieties are on every American heart—the same hour to hour concern for what the day may bring forth, the same steadfast courage to sustain them, the same dreams, the same hope that they will have a chance to make their dreams come true.

Bringing Boys Home Victorious.

To open the door for all Americans—to open, not just to jobs, but to opportunity!

To make and guard the peace so wisely and so well that this time will be the last time that American homes are called to give their sons and daughters to the agony and tragedy of war.

Itn't that a plain and homely story? But is there any other story which any American would put in place of it? Is there any other thing which, in his heart, any American wants more than these? Is there any American who would not give anything he has to bring these things to pass?

Convention a Part of Job.

We know there is only one answer to these questions. We know, also, that that answer makes our job. To get that job done is why we are here. This convention and this election are not time out from the job of winning the war and the peace. This convention and this election are part of that job. We are here to speed the cause—to help America to speed the cause—for which our fighting men are giving their lives. We are here to make the road on which America can march toward victory, toward opportunity, toward peace.

That is the biggest job Americans have ever undertaken together. It is too big a job for little Americans—it is too big a job for a quarreling America. There is room for honest differences among us. There is no room for disunity. We can be of differing minds. But we must be of one heart. . . . Growth and change and adventure are still a part of our daily life.

A Forward Going America.

Certainly, we are not here to look for a road back to some status quo. There is no status to which we could or should return. The future cannot be overtaken in reverse. Neither are we here to work out some easy sounding scheme whereby America can stand still. We believe that America wants to get going and keep going. A forward going America is what we are here for. . . .

In congress, from 16 Republicans in the senate in 1937, the people now have elected 27; from 88 Republicans in the house of representatives, the people now have elected 212. From eight Republican governors in 1938, the people now have elected 26. Three out of every four Americans now live under Republican state administrations. In Washington, where the burocrats live, there is still a Democrat in the White House. But out where the people live the country is predominantly Republican.

In those 26 Republican states the people already have elected the kind of government which the job ahead of us requires.

More Republicanism Wanted.

They are determined, this year, to have more of that kind of government. They are determined to have more of it in the states. They are determined to have more of it in congress. They are determined to have more of it—a great deal more of it—in the White House. . . In those states which are already Republican, you will find the record of public administration is progressive, enlightened and in the public interest. In those states you will find increased emphasis upon the public health, upon free education, upon care for orphaned and neglected children, upon support for the aged, for the victims of industrial accidents, for those handicapped by physical disabilities, and for the victims of economic misfortune.

Those are the states of this Union where labor has achieved its highest dignity; where labor and management have come to their best understanding; where they have learned to work together most effectively; where, together, they are doing the best job.

G. O. P. States Produce for War.

What is the result of that kind of government? I can tell you. I can tell you in terms that every American with a son fighting overseas will understand. To win the war in the air, those Republican states have been called on to produce more than 81 per cent of all our airplanes. To win the war at sea, those states have been called on to produce more than 76 per cent of all our ships. To win the war on land, those states have been called on to produce more than 87 per cent of all our ordnance—and more than 83 per cent of all our fighting equipment. . . .

Our purpose is to see that the country is responsive to the generals' military leadership; to stand back of them thru good days and bad; to see to it that they get the materials needed for victory.

How well that victory can be won; how magnificently it can be won when government unites all the people to win it is plainly written in the record of those 26 states whose government is now Republican. That is what needs to be done for the nation as a whole. To that we dedicate ourselves as our first objective; to keep the war out of politics and politics out of the war; to strengthen, among us, that spirit of singlemindedness, of unity, of self-forgetfulness that will hearten out military leaders, strengthen their hands and speed the day when having bivouacked along the main streets of Germany and Japan, they will lead our boys victoriously home again.

Jobs in Private Industry.

But when the war is won, what then? We will have 11 million men and women out of uniform. We will have millions of war workers whose war work has stopped. We will have tens of thousands of business men whose war contracts have been canceled.

What will those millions of Americans want? They will want what is the right of every American to have. They will want jobs. By jobs, they do not mean made jobs—with the government as employer. That is not what we mean, either. They mean money making jobs in private industry. Those are the kind of jobs we mean.

But these young people will not be satisfied with just jobs. We will not be satisfied, either. These young people will want good jobs and a chance to get ahead. Hundreds of thousands of them will want to set up in small businesses for themselves; to be their own boss; to have their own farm; to own their own filling station; to run their own store, or operate their own little factory.

Pledges Chance for Individual.

We will see to it that they get that chance. We can see to it because we know what it is that makes jobs and opportunity. We know that government does not make them—not the kind of jobs the people want and which we aim to help the people to get. Government is nonproducing. It lives off the production of others. Government made jobs can be a crisis necessity. But such jobs are not good enough for the long pull. For the long pull the American people want a highway, not a dead-end street. . . .

We know what it is that makes jobs and opportunity. We know that private production makes them. We know that our productive system going full blast can make enough of them. It is the Republican party that has kept that knowledge alive in America. We have kept it alive against great odds.

Production and Abundance.

But we Republicans also know that full-blast production—and the jobs and opportunity which it makes—can only come in climate that is friendly to production. A climate that is friendly to production requires a government that is friendly to production. It requires a government which believes that our economic soil, far from being worn out, is still life-giving; a government which believes that those who work honorably and well to make that soil produce, far from being a threat to our well-being, are the hope of it; a government which, far from penalizing production, encourages it; a government which believes in an economy of plenty because its aim for all the people is abundance.

We know that this can be done. We know that the people expect us to do it. They have turned to us because—under the threat of war—they wanted to get going. When the war is won, they want to keep going—toward full, peace time production that will insure, not jobs alone, but opportunity and a fair and increasing share of life's good things. To that we dedicate ourselves as our second objective.

But to insure such a future, this war must end in something better than an armistice. This war must end in peace. For our homes, our sons, and our daughters, this time must be the last time.

Agree on Important Points.

In their hearts the American people know what kind of peace they want. They may differ upon details, but they are agreed upon the things that are really important. What is needed is effective leadership, honestly and vigorously to carry into realization the aspirations upon which our people are united.

We want a peace that will be lasting. That means a peace that will be just. That means not only justice for the few and powerful, but justice also for the many and less powerful.

We want a peace that is based upon realities and not upon the insecure foundation of mere words or promises. That means a peace which, being mindful of the interest of other nations, does not neglect or sacrifice the interests of our own nation.

Warns Against Power Politics.

None of these aspirations can be realized under a leadership that plays power politics on a worldwide stage. They cannot be achieved under a leadership which neglects the interests of America. No such leadership can hope to keep the world's respect or to unite America in helping to solve the world's problems. Nor can they ever be achieved by a leadership which holds itself superior to the wisdom of the people.

As Republicans, we are united in uncompromising opposition to aggression. We are prepared to take a definite stand against aggression not merely to denounce it, but to resist it and restrain it. That calls for effective coöperation with all the peace loving nations of the world; for the establishment of a tribunal for the settlement of international disputes which otherwise might lead to war. We are agreed too that if such a program is to be effective, the friendly coöperation of the war's principal allied combatants—the United States, Great Britain, Russia, and China—is as essential as the keystone of an arch.

But beyond that is the task of establishing order, maintaining peace and extending prosperity. We stand ready to welcome every nation that is prepared in honesty and good will to join with us in the accomplishment of that purpose. And we know that if we are to maintain respect among the nations of the world, if we are to be able to keep our own commitments and to compel recalcitrants to keep theirs, we must keep America ever strong and self-reliant.

Trail Blazed at Mackinac.

The Republican party has not waited to declare these principles. At the Mackinac conference we blazed the way for them. The future of America and the happiness of our children depend on their establishment.

Whatever the exact procedures, on these principles the American people, in their hearts, agree. I do not believe that any sound American political party should say more. I am sure that in good conscience, no such political party can say less.

We believe the New Deal is leading us away from representative government. We believe that its centralization of power in the numerous bureaus at Washington will eventually destroy freedom as Americans have always understood it—freedom in the home, freedom of individual opportunity in business and employment, freedom to govern ourselves locally.

New Deal Analyzed.

We believe the New Deal is destroying the two party system. The New Deal is no longer the Democratic party. It is an incongruous clique within that party. It retains its power by patronizing and holding together incompatible groups. It talks of idealism and seeks its votes from the most corrupt political machines in the country. The leaders of its inner circle are not representatives of the people. They are the personal agents of one man. Their appointments to public office are not made on the basis of efficiency or public approval, but on the basis of loyalty to the clique.

Under their rule, the Constitution has been short-circuited. The cabinet has ceased to be a voice and has become an echo. Congress, wherever possible, has been circumvented by executive decree. Both congress and the judiciary have been intimidated and bludgeoned to make them servile.

Burocrats Dictate to Farmers.

Over all of this—and over all of us—is the ominous, Gargantuan figure of an arrogant, power-intoxicated burocracy. Nowhere in its vast domain has it been satisfied with merely one burocrat, if by hook or crook desks could be found for two.

These burocrats of the New Deal tell the farmer what to sow and when to reap—sometimes without regard for either the seeds or the season. They require him to work in the fields all day and keep books for the government all night.

These same burocrats tell the worker what union he shall join, what dues he shall pay, and to whom he must pay them. They soon will tell the worker where he can work and where he cannot work. Then the workers of America will be a long way down the road toward that kind of government which our nation is now resisting with all its power.

These burocrats encumber the small business man with a multiplicity of rules, regulations, orders and decrees which entangle him, stifle his business and darken his future. They move in—like political commissars—to watch over the shoulders of our industrialists—to say what, where and how industry can produce.

Free Press Threatened.

They have threatened our free press. They have intimidated our free radio. They are using every device and excuse to insinuate themselves into control over the public schools of our states. They have injected a low grade of politics into the administration of relief and social welfare.

They have by-passed the governments of the states in an effort to destroy state effectiveness and compel the people to rely solely upon the New Deal clique at Washington for the solution of all their problems.

For years they have deprived entire regions of representation in the policy making agencies of the federal government.

To perpetuate themselves in power the New Deal clique has always capitalized upon some crisis. It has always had the indispensable man—the same man—for each succeeding crisis. The first time it was the depression. The second time it was the recession. Last time it was to keep us out of war. This time it will be to achieve peace. The next time—who knows what crisis it will be? That there will be one and that the indispensable man will still be indispensable, we can rely upon the New Deal clique to assert.

Eleven Years in Midstream.

The New Deal came to power with a song on its lips: "Happy Days Are Here Again." That song is ended. Even the melody does not linger on. Now we are being conditioned for a new song: "Don't Change Horses in the Middle of a Stream." That melody isn't likely to linger either. For 11 long years we have been in the middle of the stream. We are not amphibious. We want to get across. We want to feel dry and solid ground under our feet again.

The life of a nation is a succession of crises. War and peace and economic and social adjustments have always followed each other in endless succession. No party, clique or individual can rightfully claim priority in government because a crisis occurs during its administration. . . .

We Start Building Now.

We will start building right now, that finer America which during their night vigils they [American soldiers and sailors] dream of as they look at the stars from their foxholes on land and from their gun turrets at sea and in the air; the America that to them spells happy homes and freedom of opportunity for all; the America that represents unity at home and peace with the countries of the world.

It takes faith to build such an America—a strong faith, the same faith that now sustains our fighting men; a faith that is truly "the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things unseen."

With such a faith—which is our faith—we shall march under God toward victory, toward opportunity, toward peace.

BRITISH PUBLIC TOLD IT'S IN THE BAG FOR DEWEY

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 26.—British correspondents reporting the Republican convention in Chicago declare it's in the bag for Gov. Dewey of New York.

Since the candidate they favored most, Wendell Willkie, was forced to withdraw his candidacy by the Wisconsin defeat, the Dewey buildup has been going on here. It is believed by many Britons that altho Dewey might not understand the complicated problems of foreign policy, he has a good adviser—John Foster Dulles—who is said here to be "internationally minded."

Hopes for Willkie Coup.

C. V. R. Thompson, Daily Express reporter, has not yet quite given up hope, however, that Willkie will pull a fast one as he did in 1940. He says that despite the fact that great care has been taken to prevent a Willkie coup, "Willkie jitters are due to the terrible fear that the man the Republicans deliberately snubbed will pull something out of his hat."

Thompson adds that altho supporters of Gov. Bricker of Ohio attend all press conferences and say Dewey has been stopped, they "whisper behind their hands that 'we are being backed by the wrong people.'" Thompson says further that "Republicans are doing their utmost to live down their reputation for isolationism."

Robert Waithman, News Chronicle reporter in Chicago, asserts that "politics is the biggest industry" in the United States. He reports convention rumors as to the chances of various candidates.

Campaigns "Definitely Ended."

The Daily Mail's New York correspondent says Dewey's nomination is certain. The campaigns for Bricker, Lt. Comdr. Harold Stassen, former governor of Minnesota, and others are "definitely ended," he asserts.

The London Times devotes a two column article to the convention in which it concludes that President Roosevelt's peace plan, altho not as extreme as had been hoped, went "as far as he wisely could go" if he did not desire to outstrip American public opinion. There are times, says the London Times, that "too soon and too much can be as dangerous as too little and too late."

ANTI-NEW DEAL DEMOCRATS TO MEET IN SOUTH

Atlanta, Ga., June 26 (AP).—Anti-New Deal Democrats, opposed to a 4th term for President Roosevelt, will meet in a southern city, probably New Orleans, shortly after the Democratic national convention in Chicago, Eugene Talmadge, former governor of Georgia, said today.

He said "the spirit of the meeting" would be "to name electors opposed to a 4th term, and to arrange for them to run on the Democratic ticket and elect a President and Vice President in the manner prescribed by the Constitution."

FINAL DECISION REACHED IN 3 DELEGATE ROWS

The credentials committee yesterday reversed one decision of the Republican national committee, upheld two others in a three hour session at the Blackstone hotel, and then adjourned until 9 a. m. today to hear three other appeals filed by ousted delegates.

In the reversal, James S. Twyford was unseated in favor of Arthur Geissler of the 5th congressional district in Oklahoma.

Joseph G. [Tieless Joe] Tolbert, a Republican in South Carolina since 1884, waged an unsuccessful effort to get a similar reversal in his fight against J. Bates Gerald. The seating of O. T. Tindell and Bethel Brown, 3d district of Tennessee, was approved in the third case heard. Cases from Mississippi, Georgia and Virginia will be heard today.

WARNS THREAT OF COMMUNISM MENACING LAND

"A threat of communism and socialism in America" was cited by Gov. Griswold of Nebraska yesterday in an address before the Young Republicans National federation, in convention in the Palmer House.

"The federal administration in power when the war is ended," said the governor, who is a Vice Presidential aspirant, "will determine perhaps for all time the future policies of this nation. It is likely that most of the next four years will be peace years.

"Under conditions today, the government owning 15 billion dollars worth of war plants and controlling all business and industry, there is a terrifying threat of communism and socialism. A tyrant president might extend this ownership and these controls into peace time, ending private industry and private initiative in America."

Ask County to Increase Payment for Child Care

Judge Frank Bicek of the Juvenile court and representatives of the Council of Social Agencies yesterday requested the finance committee of the Cook county board to increase the amount the county pays for board of indigent children from $20 a month to $25. This could be done, it was explained, without increasing the total amount appropriated for the purpose during 1944, as a number of those formerly supported by the county have been taken over by the Chicago Welfare administration. Daniel Ryan, committee chairman, said the matter would be presented to the whole board.

Better Use of Political Power Forecast.

BY GLADYS PRIDDY.

Women have been "jerked into awareness" of their political duties by serious thought about the war and conditions that brought on the conflict, Martha Bowers Taft said yesterday as she contrasted the "more than usual prestige" of women at this Republican convention and previous ones. She has attended G. O. P. sessions regularly since 1916.

The wife of Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, serious contender for the Presidential nomination in 1940 and now a delegate at large from his state, declared: "Women have been thinking it over—where we are, and why we got there, with the result that they have been jerked into awareness that they haven't been using the power and brains they have.

"If you can convince women one course in foreign policy will prevent foreign wars, that's the program they'll follow."

Calm Convention for Her.

This is a calm convention for Mrs. Taft compared with that of four years ago. Recalling the 1940 session, she said, "We counted that minute lost when we weren't buttonholing some one."

Her trip to Chicago has kept her busy with nonpolitical activities, she says, including pleasant reunions with two of her four sons in military service. Sgt. Horace came up from camp in Arkansas, and Ensign Lloyd visited here yesterday.

Despite her protest that she's just a convention visitor with nothing to do, Mrs. Taft is scarcely on the fringe of things. She was one of six hostesses yesterday at a tea for Mrs. John W. Bricker, wife of the Ohio governor who aspires to the Presidency. Another hostess was Katharine Kennedy Brown, delegate at large and national committee woman from Ohio, who came limphanded from the social event after shaking hands, she said, with "conservatively 2,000."

Women Told: Get Busy Now!

Questioned about the cut and dried outlook for the Presidential nomination, Mrs. Brown said she preferred a deliberative meeting, adding, "Even the radio audience wants to feel there's a choice in the matter."

She was more voluble on prospects of a Republican victory in the fall, advising women to get busy now, because elections aren't won by a few weeks of doorbell ringing just before the polls open.

Victory requires an organization with a "will to win," she said, citing her state as an example. Ohio Republicans overthrew the New Deal there when it was riding high simply by working together, she asserted.

2 RULE CHANGES ADD TO POWERS OF G. O. P. WOMEN

The Republican rules committee, meeting in the Stevens hotel yesterday, adopted one new rule and amended three others. Women party members were given added prominence by two of the actions.

An amendment to rule No. 28 provides that the head of the women's division of the national Republican organization shall be designated as assistant to the national chairman. A new rule provides that state organizations shall appoint a man and a woman delegate to serve on the national convention resolutions committee, and that if a state has no woman delegate, it shall be entitled to only one vote.

Two rules amendments dealt with details of settling credentials disputes. One specifies that all delegate contests arising from elections in congressional districts shall be decided by the state party convention, state committee, or the committee's executive committee.

The other provides that state delegations shall name their members of the national credentials committee immediately after the state members are elected and that credentials committee members sit with the national committee in hearings on contests, but have no vote.

REPUBLICANS PRAISE A DEMOCRAT—OTHER NOTES ON CONVENTION

The idea spread rapidly yesterday that Thomas D. Garry, city superintendent of sewers who had charge of Stadium arrangements, might make a good Republican. "No one but Tom could have done the job he did," said Silas H. Strawn, chairman of the citizens' committee. "He is amazing. He is an expert mechanic, he knows every corner of the building, and he gets good cooperation from the city hall." Other high Republicans said Garry henceforth is exempt from speeches denouncing Democratic burocrats.

Vickie Gudgell, a blonde elevator operator in the Stevens hotel, got a $50 tip from an impatient Republican who asked for express service to the lobby floor. "I'm sure he must be a senator," said Vickie. Any one wanting elevator service in the rush hours could count on making new friendships while waiting for an empty car to stop. The hotel opened up its inner secrets and invited the public to ride the service elevators.

In John J. Touhy's 27th ward Democratic headquarters on Madison st., across from the Stadium, no one was quite sure about the proper etiquet should a Republican delegate take the welcome sign at face value and walk in. Committeeman Touhy, who was downtown on business, left word that he would be back with a welcome speech, which is practice for the Democratic convention next month.

Street car, elevated, and bus company officials said no jam materialized at the opening session, when the crowd was about 9,000, instead of 25,000 capacity. With extra facilities in service, transportation men said they expected no trouble during the rest of the week.

There were a few empty rooms in Chicago hotels yesterday, but Louis Ermeling, secretary of the Greater Chicago Hotel association, said nearly all would be taken by late arrivals. Frank Stebbins, who had charge of Republican housing, said that some state delegates were delayed by railroad traffic jams and that one southern group, arriving in an old day coach, had about decided to build a house and settle down in Chicago.

Gov. Green arrived at the Stadium with John William Chapman, his secretary, at 10:30 a. m., exactly on time. Because of the traditional late start, the governor didn't make his welcoming speech until an hour later.

The first patient in the first aid station was Mrs. W. Redfield of New Haven, Conn., an alternate. She twisted an ankle at the curb outside the Stadium. Mrs. Warren Wright of Springfield, wife of the army major and former state treasurer, suffered a heart attack and was cared for by the emergency hospital crew.

Vincent J. Pokiacki of Chicago and F. S. Schilling of Mattoon were the only Illinois delegates who forgot their tickets for the opening session. They were identified and admitted.

A box and 100 tickets were sent to Mayor Kelly as head of the city government.

Scenes at the convention were recorded by television cameras of the National Broadcasting company. The film was flown to New York, where it will be shown on a three station television network tonight. The telecasts will be sent out thru outlets in New York, Philadelphia, and Schenectady, N. Y. Tele-films also were sent to west coast television stations.

Report $4,000,000 Fire at Leeward Isles Base

LONDON, June 26 (AP).—A Reuters [British news agency] dispatch from Port-of-Spain, Trinidad, tonight said damage estimated at $4,000,000 had been caused by fire in the business area of the Antigua naval base in the Leeward islands.

DELEGATES PICK 2 FOR WISCONSIN COMMITTEE JOBS

Set Aside Choice of Dewey Group.

BY MAXWELL MURPHY.

Wisconsin's 24 delegates to the Republican convention met yesterday morning at the Bismarck hotel and nominated Cyrus L. Philipp, Milwaukee industrialist, and Mrs. Estelle Morrison, Wausau, for the respective offices of national committeeman and committeewoman.

The 17 Dewey delegates had met in Milwaukee two weeks ago and nominated Assemblyman Julius Spearbreaker, Waupaca, and Mrs. Blanche B. Hogue, Milwaukee, for the offices. In yesterday's ballot Philipp received 14 votes to 10 for Spearbreaker. Mrs. Morrison received 15 votes to 9 for Mrs. Hogue.

Follows Earlier Action.

Yesterday's action carries out the mandate of the Republican state convention at Appleton a year ago, and also the mandate of the Republican state central committee which met on May 14. Both bodies endorsed Philipp and Mrs. Morrison.

Philipp and Thomas E. Coleman, state chairman, issued statements praising the action of the delegates. "I consider my nomination an endorsement of the Republican party of Wisconsin," Philipp said. "The combined actions of the delegates and the state convention should result in absolute coöperation."

Coleman said: "The nomination of Cyrus Philipp and Estelle Morrison is a clear indication that the delegates from Wisconsin recognize that there should be coöperation in Republican politics this year. It was a very creditable action for them to take, and I can speak for my state organization when I say that it is greatly appreciated."

May Chosen as Secretary.

The Rev. Dr. George Cady, Kenosha, presided at the delegate meeting, and Arthur L. May, Madison, Wis., was elected secretary. Fred R. Zimmerman, secretary of state, was elected to the credentials committee, and State Sen. Bernhard Gettelman to the committee on resolutions.

Assemblyman Orin Angwall, Marinette, Wis., was named to the committee on permanent organization and Assemblyman David I. Hammergren, Cochrane, Wis., to the committee on rules. Assemblyman E. A. Heden, Algoma, Wis., was named vice chairman of the delegation.

Seventeen of the delegates are pledged to Dewey and four to Lt. Comdr. Stassen. Two of three delegates pledged to Gen. MacArthur, who refused to be a candidate, already have announced that they are for Gov. Bricker of Ohio.

NEW WARD SUIT OPPOSES UNION ORDER BY WLB

Washington, D. C., June 26 (AP).—Montgomery Ward & Co. today filed suit against the war labor board to enjoin enforcement of the board's June 6 order requiring maintenance of membership at Ward's Chicago plant.

The suit charges the board acted without giving Ward's a hearing as required by the war labor disputes act. Ward's also contends that the board's order is illegal and that maintenance of membership and check-off of union dues are prohibited by the national labor relations act.

Ward officials said the WLB order would require Ward's to discharge all employes who have resigned from the union since Dec. 8, 1943, altho there has been no contract with the union.

Today's suit is similar to previous ones the company has filed against the board. On March 14, 1944, and on June 15 the board's motions to dismiss suits filed by Ward's were overruled by Judge T. Alan Goldsborough of the United States District court for the District of Columbia.

15 GOVERNORS SEEK DATA ON G. O. P. PLANKS

of the phrase "economic sanctions by force," instead of "peace forces," a phrase which has been called ambiguous. Emphasis was laid on using the Mackinac declarations as basis for the plank.

Governors present were: Sewell, Maine; Blood, New Hampshire; Wills, Vermont; Saltonstall, Massachusetts; Baldwin, Connecticut; Edge, New Jersey; Bacon, Delaware; Martin, Pennsylvania; Hickenlooper, Iowa; Kelly, Michigan; Thye, Minnesota; Schoeppel, Kansas; Warren, California; Willis, Kentucky, and Donnell, Missouri.

Willkie Assails Foreign Plank.

Wendell L. Willkie enlivened the night with an attack, in New York, on the foreign policy plank. This he said had been read to him over the telephone during the afternoon. He said the plank suggested "no effective international force for the suppression of aggression." Willkie quoted some paragraphs from the plank, making public information that officially had been kept secret:

"We shall seek to achieve such aims [aims to keep America secure, to keep the axis powers impotent to renew tyranny and attack, and to attain peace and freedom based on justice and security] thru organized international coöperation and not by joining a world state.

"We favor responsible participation by the United States in postwar coöperative organization among sovereign nations to prevent military aggression and to attain permanent peace with organized justice in a free world.

Collaboration Is Pledged.

"Such organization should develop effective coöperative aims to direct peace forces to prevent or repel military aggression. Pending this, we pledge continuing collaboration with the principal united nations to assure their ultimate objectives.

"It [such organized coöperation] should promote a world opinion to influence the nations to right conduct, develop international law and maintain an international tribunal to deal with adjustable disputes.

"Pursuant to the Constitution of the United States, any treaty made on behalf of the United States with any other nation or any association of nations shall be made only by and with the advice and consent of the senate of the United States provided two-thirds of the senators present concur."

Against World State.

The plank, submitted by Sen. Vandenberg of Michigan as head of an advisory group created at the Mackinac G. O. P. conclave, has been essentially adopted by the committee with some changes and additions, according to Sen. Taft, its chairman. It pledges American participation in an international organization that would set up "peace forces" to maintain order in the post-war world, this subject to senate ratification under the Constitution. It is against a world state.

Dewey is said to have seen and assented to the Vandenberg plank.

Willkie said, under the plank, "every effective world" organization could be rejected as a "world state."

The criticisms of the 1940 nominee fell upon deaf ears. Nationalists and internationalists at the convention in essence rebuked Willkie.

Taft Challenges Willkieites.

Sen. Taft, head of the resolutions committee, challenged Willkie adherents to carry their fight into the committee.

"I would welcome debate on the subject in the committee if Mr. Willkie has any adherents who want to start it," he said. "I'd be much surprised if the plank adopted by the Democratic platform committee suits Willkie any better than that of the Republicans."

Sen. Austin of Vermont, chairman of the foreign policy subcommittee, said:

"He's wrong. He's mistaken. Too bad."

Asked whether Willkie's views would have any effect on the foreign policy plank, the senator replied: "Not at all."

White Retorts to Willkie.

This sentiment was echoed by Sen. White of Maine. Declaring he was "speaking as an internationalist and not as an isolationist," White said he could not agree with Willkie.

"I happen to be in complete disagreement with Mr. Willkie and I say it with regret, because I have a great admiration for him," White told a reporter on the convention floor. "This proposed plank embodied the Mackinac Island declaration and is in harmony with that statement's purposes."

Sen. Burton of Ohio said he disagreed with Willkie.

"I think we can stand on this platform and the candidate can elaborate it to the satisfaction of the nation in the campaign," Burton said. "It is something that a majority of the delegates can agree on and promises a forward step."

Wisconsin Jabs Critic.

State Sen. Gettelman of Milwaukee, Wis., member of the resolutions committee, one of the 15 members of the foreign policy subcommittee, said:

"The day has passed when the Republican party will accept dictation from Wendell L. Willkie. A small group of wilful people in our party have not seemed to learn the lesson that the voters of Wisconsin taught Mr. Willkie when they ran him out of the state and out of the party in April of this year."

Other comments were:

Werner W. Schroeder, Illinois national committeeman: "Willkie is again trying to bolt. He is laying the foundation to return to his first love—the New Deal."

Reply from Barrett.

The Rev. Dr. George Cady, Kenosha, Wis., chairman of the Wisconsin delegation: "As a lot of people suspected in 1940, Wendell L. Willkie is not really a Republican and what he thinks about any plank in our platform is a matter of no importance to the delegates meeting here. We are gathered in unity to enunciate Republican doctrine for the coming campaign. I am sure that we will be able to do it without any assistance from Mr. Willkie, who was so lately and completely repudiated by the Republicans of our state."

The addition of a declaration promising returning veterans a voice in post-war foreign policies was made to the Vandenberg draft by the preliminary subgroup and some changes were made in phrasing.

The promise, originally in the Mackinac declaration, reads: "We favor the widest consultation of the gallant men and women in our armed forces who have a special right to speak with authority on behalf of the security and liberty for which they fight."

Adequate airbases abroad for national defense are urged in a foreign trade plank turned in to the full committee by former Gov. Alf Landon of Kansas, 1936 nominee, head of a group handling this subject.

CIO Officials Heard.

Other points in the plank are: Maintenance of an international air system, privately owned; reciprocal trade agreements only when they are "mutually beneficial" and receive congressional ratification; an "adequate" protective tariff.

Taft said he hoped the platform would be ready for submission to the convention this afternoon, and, failing that, by tonight. As the platform makers officially took up their job, hearing was given CIO officials.

Then the committee adjourned until 9 a. m. Meanwhile, the drafting committee continued its work.

The subcommittee on post-war business problems, headed by Sen. Moore of Oklahoma, has proposed a plank, it was learned, calling for "lower taxes on income enterprise and consumption."

This was interpreted as meaning a reduction in the individual income tax, elimination of the corporation excess profits tax and removal of most of the burdensome excise taxes in the post-war period to stimulate a business recovery.

New Deal Labor Course Condemned.

The labor plank, drafted by a subcommittee headed by William Hutcheson, president of the Carpenters' union [AFL], denounced strongly the New Deal's handling of labor problems. It criticizes especially the duplication and dispersion of authority among the 26 boards and bureaus set up in Washington, D. C., to handle wages, hours, working conditions, and labor disputes. It calls for a return of authority to the labor department under a strong secretary.

The appeal of AFL President Green for a declaration in favor of repeal of the Smith-Connally act was not heeded by the labor committee, it was reported.

Van A. Bittner, assistant to Chairman Philip Murray of the CIO, made a belated appearance before the committee to present the recommendations of the organization which is waging an active campaign for the reëlection of Roosevelt and Wallace.

Bittner demanded that the national labor relations act be "left intact just as it is" and called for the enactment of the Wagner-Murray-Dingell bill, the so-called cradle to grave measure. He called also for "a substantial increase in the income of the American workers in post-war planning and policy."

THE QUESTION.

What do you like best about your best boy friend?

WHERE ASKED.

Conway building, 111 W. Washington st.

THE ANSWERS.

Laurel Kaplan, stenographer-clerk, 6628 Bosworth av.—My best boy friend is truthful, frank, and sincere. He never beats around the bush about anything. If he doesn't like my hair or a new dress he tells me. It often hurts my feelings but I like to know that when he does tell me something he means it.

Helen Chura, stenographer-clerk, 9350 Colfax av.—Whenever my boy friend is sent to a new location he sends me something from overseas. I don't expect him to send me gifts but it's typical of him to do it. He has always been so thoughtful. When he was here everything he said and did was considerate.

Ruth Karsh, stenographer-clerk, 4823 N. Springfield av.—I have a nasty temper and when I blow up most people get angry and disgusted with me. Whenever I do and my best beau is around he just looks at me and doesn't say anything. Then when I've finished he tells me where I've made my mistake.

Marion Sundet, clerk, 4728 N. Western av.—No matter what may be troubling my boy friend he never lets it get him down. He's light hearted about everything and makes me forget I've anything to complain about. He's always smiling and that puts me in a good mood. He has a lot of friends and I like them.

Mary Rose Healy, clerk, 7553 S. Paulina st.—The thing I admire most in my boy friend is that he mixes well with people. He has many friends who think the world of him. It gives me a nice feeling to know that every one else likes him because that convinces me that he'll always get along and will succeed in business.

NEW CANADIAN BUDGET DROPS FORCED SAVINGS

OTTAWA, Ont., June 26 (AP).—Finance Minister James L. Ilsley tonight presented his 1944-'45 budget, with no increases in taxation and elimination of the compulsory savings feature of the individual income tax. All tariffs from farm machinery as well as the 10 per cent war exchange tax will be removed.

Ilsley said it had been suggested that the compulsory savings were looked upon as a tax rather than amounts to be returned with interest after the war. This was represented as having the effect of reducing production at a time when it was sorely needed.

The government's cash requirements for 1944-'45 were estimated at $6,000,000,000, or $200,000,000 more than last year. Borrowings in 1944-'45 will be $3,200,000,000—$320,000,000 more than last year.

Changes Corporation Tax.

Ilsley said revenues for the present year are estimated at $2,617,000,000 compared with $2,701,000,000 last year, not including refundable taxes. The estimates of expenditures already before parliament total $5,152,000,000 or $208,000,000 less than actual expenditures last year, the minister said. The accounts set forth indicated an estimated budgetary deficit of $2,535,000,000, about $100,000,000 less than last year.

Changes in corporation income tax and excess profits tax aimed at putting Canadian industry in a position to meet the problems of conversion from war to peace production also were announced by Ilsley.

The changes were particularly intended to prevent the tax policy from acting as a handicap in the conversion period and making business hesitant rather than prompt in taking action which would result in post-war employment, he said.

Here Are Major Points.

Main points of the tax amendments are:

1. Provision to spread losses over a period of several years for taxation purposes.
2. Increased allowance for research expenditures.
3. Double depreciation on new capital investments made after a date to be set.
4. Use, in approved cases, of the refundable excess profits tax as security for loans where funds are to be used for conversion of plants to a post-war use which will provide substantial employment.
5. Authority to charge deferred maintenance carried out in a period to be fixed back against income of previous years.

SEES AMERICANS MOP UP NESTS OF NAZI RESISTANCE

Tribune Writer Tells of Tour in Cherbourg.

more. An officer who came up to surrender said that was all. When I ordered a bazooka shot into his cavern he said he'd bring the others out. We thought that cleaned up the works, but damned if some more of those Nazis didn't start firing their guns from way below this afternoon."

Down Front of Cliff.

An hour earlier I had been down below in Cherbourg with the force which cleaned out the eastern section of the city, knocking out the last pillboxes on the beach and reducing the last strong points in the city and eliminating snipers. Suddenly one unit was splattered with shells firing from below the fort.

In an effort to attack the rock guns frontally the colonel said he had sent four sergeants scrambling down the face of the cliff with explosives. They weren't around when I was there and so they will be known only as four guys named Zirkle, Hurst, Walker, and Hagadern. With ropes they lowered the charges down in front of the concrete noses and scrambled back to safety as the explosives were touched off.

After that the guns were silent for a while but they were not silenced.

Still Another Attempt.

Just as I had come into the fort another effort was made. This time the colonel thought he might be able to blast into the elevator he thought led up from the exit at the base of the cliff. He had found evidence of new cement in one wall, indicating, he thought, that the Germans had been sealed below after the troops on top had surrendered.

Pvt. Robert Dalziel, Oakland, Cal., a bazooka man, and his partner, Pvt. Edward J. Campbell, New Haven, Conn., drew this job. In a narrow room inside the reinforced concrete tunnel they set to work.

"I thought they'd be killed trying," said Capt. William Hooper, Biddeford, Me., who led one of the two assault companies which took the fort. Just then we heard a sharp blast of the bazooka. Hooper ran into the tunnel while we watched from the entrance. When he came out he just nodded his head that the men were all right.

Break Into Storeroom.

We heard more blasts. Then Dalzier emerged with Campbell, their hands stained with gray powder. Dalzier spoke with the effort of a man who needs sleep badly.

"We went thru two brick walls, a concrete wall, a steel wall and one of wood," he said. "Then we hit the sardines. We had busted into a storeroom." The colonel shook his head wearily and sent for more explosives. He knew those guns had to be silenced.

In the belief the Germans had a lower exit, he had sent another group under Capt. Robert Kirkpatrick, Cleveland, O., who led another assault company 400 feet down below the fort. There was a railroad spur. And leading into the base of the cliff was a small track. The colonel believed that supplies were brought into the tunnel there and sent aloft by an elevator.

Two Big Dry Moats.

How this fort had ever been taken was a marvel to any observer.

The original structure, built of heavy stone blocks, had two huge dry moats. To the inner fortifications had been added anti-aircraft positions, deep, heavy walled tunnels for storing food, other concrete works containing ammunition and pillboxes fitted only as barracks for personnel.

These pillboxes were built in the same manner as the entire network extending 400 yards north. They were the same as almost every other pillbox. The roofs and walls had six feet reinforced concrete. The inner walls were two feet thick, while each room or compartment was separated from the other by steel doors more than an inch thick with large levers like bulkhead doors on warships. All had interior ventilation systems and quantities of supplies.

Acres of Barbed Wire.

Protecting these rugged installations were acres of barbed wire and mine fields. Any one attacking from the south had to conquer a wide anti-tank ditch. The fields were also garnished with log poles to trap paratroopers or gliders.

In an attack on Sunday, the first two companies knocked out the intervening pillboxes by assault with flame throwers, explosives, riflemen, and machine gunners. They had reached within 75 yards of the fort when they were pinned down for four hours by rifle fire from a pillbox on their left flank.

The colonel pulled his men back and called for artillery. So artillery, which had been following in support of the doughboys since the beginning of the drive on Cherbourg at 2 p. m., June 22, opened up a concentration. As it lifted, the infantry attacked and the next moment white flags were flying from all corners.

Defense Organized in Sections.

In organizing the defense of this fort the Germans had not let the men in one section know anything about the setup in the others. Thus, we found that prisoners taken from one part of this fort knew nothing about the defenses in the levels below.

So the colonel wandered thru the ruins of the old French section thinking up new ideas. The colonel finally said that while waiting for more explosives we might as well turn the tank destroyers loose to see what they could do.

Then for 17 minutes we endured yet another curious phenomenon. Crouching in the protection of German built pillboxes inside the fort, we listened to our 75s pound the German gun positions 100 feet underneath.

And often we ducked as tank destroyers overshot their mark. Shells whistled close overhead and ricochets whirred with the noise of rusty motorboat engines falling behind us.

Other Two Guns Fire On.

Then the barrage lifted and we went to peer down the face of the rock cliff. We saw gashes all around the once cement fixture. But as we started to turn away came the roar and belch of the other two guns banging in angry defiance, their shells falling in the city where our troops patroled the almost deserted streets.

The Americans had pushed their way down to the seashore in every section of the city except the arsenal. The Germans had set the military installations ablaze. Smoke clouds blossomed all over.

But Cherbourg for all practical purposes was ours. Yet down in the basement of this fort on which we stood, Germans still banged away while American engineers devised plots to destroy them.

OFFICIAL BULLETINS

SUPREME HDQ., ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, June 26 (AP).—The text of war bulletin No. 42, issued tonight, said:

"Street fighting continues in Cherbourg. The Germans are resisting desperately but the town is being steadily cleared.

"In the northeastern tip of the peninsula little opposition has been met. To the northwest in the Cap de la Hague area there is still some enemy strength.

"Progress has been made in the Fontenay sector east of Tilly-sur-Seulles after heavy fighting and our positions are improved.

"More than 20,000 prisoners have been taken in the beachhead area since the landings.

"Last night two enemy aircraft were destroyed by our patrols over northern France."

GERMAN WAR REPORT.

Monday's German high command war bulletin as recorded by the Associated Press in New York said:

"The brave garrison of Cherbourg under command of Lt. Gen. Von Schlieban, together with strong contingents of the German navy and air force, has been waging since Sunday a bitter house-to-house battle within the city and harbor territory. Two requests by the enemy to suspend fighting and surrender the port have remained unanswered.

"The harbor and all strategical installations were blown up. Enemy attacks collasped in the fire of German defenders in front of the command post of the fortress commander, and in front of the arsenal.

"The battery Hamburg under command of Lieutenant of Naval Artillery Gelbhaar despite heavy artillery fire sunk two enemy cruisers in the Cherbourg area yesterday. Another four cruisers were seriously damaged by naval batteries on Saturday. Motor torpedo boats last night sank one enemy destroyer north of the Cotentin peninsula.

"On the southern front in the Normandy landing head, enemy thrusts collapsed in front of our positions east of the Orne [river]. One local breach was sealed off in counter-thrusts.

"The enemy, launching an attack thruout the day with strong infantry and tank forces in the Tilly sur Seulles area, succeeded in occupying the ruins of the town.

ALL CHERBOURG WON BY YANKS; BRITISH ADVANCE

Gain Four Miles on Caen Front.

SUPREME HDQ., ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, June 27 [Tuesday] (AP).—Cherbourg has fallen, it was announced officially early today.

The city finally was cleared of the enemy after a long and bitter struggle in which the Germans resisted house by house and strong points had to be cleared out one by one.

Capture of Cherbourg by American doughboys gave the allies their first great port to funnel troops and supplies into France. Fall of the port, third largest in France, came just three weeks after the allies landed in Normandy in the early hours of June 6.

Some Resistance to West.

Headquarters said there still was some resistance to the west on Cap de la Hague, but there was little opposition along the northeastern tip of the peninsula.

The 21 days of the invasion have cost the Germans 100,000 men killed, wounded and captured, according to unofficial estimates.

The United States troops had seized 3,400 prisoners in the last 24 hours, bringing to more than 20,000 the number of the enemy they have rounded up since D-day, headquarters announced.

At the eastern end of the Normandy battle line Gen. Montgomery burst open the Caen front with the biggest British gain since D-Day.

Advance More Than 4 Miles.

Starting under a barrage of guns massed one every eight yards, the British pushed four to five miles thru the German lines on a three and one-half mile front between Tilly-sur-Seulles and Caen, using flame throwers to overcome some enemy pockets. Fighting swirled about the villages of Cheux, St. Mauvieu and La Gaule, five miles east of Tilly and less than six miles from Caen.

At least two key towns, Fontenay and Tessel were captured by the British Tommies in early phases of the assault.

Warships Aid Land Drive.

Montgomery's drive is regarded here as a jab to keep the enemy's four armored divisions tightly engaged and his reserves flowing in to patch up holes while the main allied force is being gathered for an offensive.

In a race against time, allied engineers were ready to get Cherbourg's port into working order, because a truly big scale offensive cannot well be launched from the helter-skelter method of unloading on the beaches.

The Germans, on the other hand, played for time to permit their comrades farther south to bring up reserves for a counter-drive before United States divisions tied up around Cherbourg can be released for other tasks.

Hold Five Mile Front.

Battle front dispatches said the powerful Fort du Roule collapsed last night but the Germans clung to Maupertus air field, east of Cherbourg; Carneville, in the same area; parts of Octeville, southwest of Cherbourg, and Hardinvast, a pocket four miles south of the port.

The Americans held a five mile front along the coast east of Cherbourg near Bretteville, and one of about the same length on the coast west of the city near Querqueville.

Slight remaining resistance on Cap Barfleur to the east was reported collapsing.

German E-boats were beaten off by allied destroyers in attempted attacks last night against invasion convoys off the eastern end of Cherbourg peninsula, and minesweepers in the Barfleur area cleared the area around the cape, escorted by the United States destroyers Walke and Forrest.

Rain and low clouds and fog over the continent restricted air operations during the day, but a quiet sea permitted a speedy build-up of supplies on the beaches to make up for an enforced holiday during last week's gale which probably did more damage to allied convoys than all enemy action thus far.

FINNISH CABINET MEETS IN CRISIS OVER WAR STAND

STOCKHOLM, June 27 [Tuesday] —(AP).—Finland's cabinet apparently was deliberating early today whether to attempt to force thru full coöperation with the Nazis despite strong opposition from peace advocates who are pressing for a government which can bring a settlement with Russia. Because of unprecedented censorship it was difficult to ascertain the true situation. The cabinet met last night and apparently still was in session after midnight.

The Stockholm newspaper Dagens Nyheter, however, asserted early this morning without official confirmation that "the Finnish government has decided to continue the war and declare solidarity with Germany."

"From the beginning it apparently intended to follow this policy without giving parliament a chance to express its opinion," the paper said.

Eric Johnston Received by Stalin Says Moscow

LONDON, June 26 (AP).—Premier-Marshal Josef Stalin today received Eric A. Johnston, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, the Moscow radio said in a broadcast recorded by the soviet monitor. W. Averell Harriman, United States ambassador to Russia, and Foreign Commisar Vyacheslav Molotov were present, the broadcast said.

FLY CASUALTIES FROM OVERSEAS TO INDIANAPOLIS

Indianapolis, Ind., June 26 [Special].—Eight Indiana and Kentucky soldiers wounded or injured in the invasion of France were flown home today on a hospital plane. Among the returning veterans was Lt. Col. Michael Murphy of Lafayette, Ind., whose leg was broken June 6 when his glider smashed into a tree as the first wave of air borne troops followed paratroopers into enemy territory.

After being flown from England to this country, they were brought from Mitchel field, L. I., to Stout field in a C-47 air evacuation plane. They will be taken to the Billings General hospital at Fort Harrison here for hospitalization and treatment.

ALLIES BATTLING HEAVILY ARMED TANKS AT CAEN

Nazi Infantry at Third of Pre-War Strength.

BY E. R. NODERER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 26.—A German armored division which has been identified as fighting in the Tilly-Caen [eastern] sector of the Normandy beachhead is using three powerfully gunned tanks—the Mark IV. special, Panthers, and Tigers.

The first two mount a .75 millimeter gun, which, in the case of the Panther, fires a shell with very high muzzle velocity and penetrating power. The Tiger mounts the well known .88 millimeter gun.

Two Types of Divisions.

Armored divisions are of two types. The first has two regiments of two battalions each, and the second, the SS [elite] has three regiments of three battalions each. The poorest tank units assigned to these armored, or panzer, divisions probably have half Mark IV.'s and half French tanks. The SS [elite] outfits usually have the best of everything and therefore are equipped entirely with Panthers. No divisions are regularly equipped with Tigers. These tanks, it is said at supreme headquarters, allied expeditionary force, are used where necessary by special units.

Panzer grenadiers usually have anti-tank weapons and heavier self-propelled guns.

The heavy armor of the Panther and Tiger presents a formidable obstacle to anti-tanks guns, the Panther, especially, being constructed to offer a minimum of frontage to gunners.

In building tanks with heavy guns and armor, the Nazis sacrificed some speed and offensive maneuverability. Used defensively as they are for the most part at present, the tanks are still tough nuts to crack, especially when they lie in a hull down position behind the hedges of the Normandy landscape.

Mark IV. a Cruiser.

The Mark IV. special is a light cruiser tank weighing 23 tons, with two inch frontal armor and more than an inch of armor on the sides. In addition to a .75 millimeter gun, it has two machine guns. Its speed is about 25 miles an hour. Its tracks, which are of a new pattern, as well as its hull, appear to show the Russian influence. This tank is used mostly to support ground troops.

Altho two feet longer than the Tiger and embodying many similar mechanical features, the Panther is designed for an entirely different role, that of a cruiser with good speed and all around performance.

Its main armament is a .75 millimeter, high velocity gun with an overall length of about 18 feet. Its armor piercing performance is about the same as the .88 millimeter gun on the Tiger.

Omits Hull Gun.

Alongside the .75 in the turret, the Panther has a single machine gun. It omits the machine gun in front of the hull which is found on most German tanks.

The gun housing carries 4 inch armor, but the sides are only 1¾ inches thick, which is regarded as too thin for a tank of this weight.

The 60 ton Tiger, in addition to an .88, mounts two machine guns, one beside the big gun in the turret and the other in front of the hull. Its armor is 4 inches thick on the front and 3¾ inches on the sides.

The Tiger is 27 feet 7 inches long, 12 feet 7 inches wide, and 9 feet 6 inches high. Its gun turrets are believed capable of a 300 degree traverse, almost a complete circle.

Cut Infantry Strength.

The German infantry divisions fighting in Normandy are believed by SHAEF to be averaging about one-third their prewar strength, which is thought to indicate a shortage of man power in Germany. This belief is strengthened by the presence of many non-German troops, including some Russians.

The reduction in strength of the German divisions is said to be achieved by cutting the regiments from three battalions to two, the platoons from four to three squads and the squads from 10 men to nine Company strength is said, to be down from 190 men to 140, which is about the same as the British.

CHICAGOANS JOIN A COFFEE PARTY INSIDE FOXHOLE

Tribune Writer Told Tales of Action.

BY JOHN THOMPSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH AMERICAN FORCES BEFORE CHERBOURG, June 26.—Pvt. Casimer Kwiatkowski, 8754 Manistee av., Chicago, who drives ammunition to Yank mortar units, said that he thought the fighting on Saturday was much hotter than yesterday's.

He once drove his jeep onto a ridge while it was still held by the Germans. He explained that he had to get there with that ammunition and that was all there was to it. Casimer added that his brother Walter, an amphibious engineer in the south Pacific, was the subject of an article in THE TRIBUNE a few months ago.

Coffee in a Foxhole.

While we sat in a foxhole waiting for an American attack to be organized, Sgt. Gilbert Cohrs, Slayton, Minn., a radio operator, raised this Tribune reporter's morale by brewing him a cup of coffee, undisturbed by indiscriminate shell fire.

Corp. Eugene Ice, 8906 Dauphin av., Chicago, another coffee drinker, remarked that he likes his job of driving an artillery colonel. It means a lot of walking because the colonel usually leaves the jeep behind to go up with the infantry, but that's where the excitement is, and Corp. Ice likes excitement.

It's a Polite Shell.

Ice's buddy, Pvt. Norman Thompson, Indianapolis, Ind., another radio operator, chewed reflectively on a blade of grass and agreed, altho he said that during one shelling, while he and Ice were squeezed into one foxhole, a shell fragment zipped between them without even mussing their jackets.

Pvt. Matthew Budieselich, 3046 W. 55th st., Chicago, also in the communications section, remarked that he liked to see the large number of German prisoners coming in. Whereupon a prison guard, Pvt. Hubert Leslie, Sayreton, Ala., said it would be nice if his mother could see his name in print.

"You can tell her," he added, "that I helped capture about 150 prisoners yesterday." All they did, he said, was come up the road and give up.

TRIES TO KILL HIMSELF.

Edward Mikos, 30, of 2108 S. Christiana av., was taken to Bridewell hospital yesterday by police after he allegedly attempted suicide by slashing his wrists in the home of his former wife, Olga, at 4731 S. Keeler av.

WAUKEGAN OFFICER WOUNDED IN FRENCH INVASION, HE WRITES

Lt. Col. James E. Casey, an infantry officer, was wounded in the invasion of France, he reported in a letter received yesterday by his mother, Mrs. Mary E. Casey, 313 Julian st., Waukegan. "My Purple Heart came the easy way," he wrote, adding that he received shrapnel wounds in the shoulder, arm, and back, which required only temporary hospitalization. Col. Casey is 38, and was a member of the Illinois National Guard when it was federalized. He formerly worked as an insurance executive in Rockford, Ill. His wife, Evelyn, and two sons, Joseph, 3, and James Jr., 1, live in Ventura, Cal.

WHAT'S WOUND WITH BIG STORY JUST BREAKING?

New York, June 26 (AP).—Richard D. McMillan, United Press war correspondent, yesterday was wounded in the back by a shell fragment when a German naval battery laid down a barrage on United States positions in the battle for Cherbourg. A sergeant was killed and several officers were wounded.

The United Press said today the fragment, which cut close to McMillan's spine, had not been removed. The correspondent continued to work, however, and went on into Cherbourg.

A veteran overseas correspondent for UP, McMillan had covered the North African, Sicilian, and Italian campaigns.

Curfew in Copenhagen Clears Streets at Night

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Establishment of a curfew in Copenhagen, with no traffic permitted on the city's streets between 8 p. m. and 5 a. m., was announced yesterday by the Berlin radio. It said German occupation authorities also had forbidden more than five persons to congregate in public in the Danish capital. The measures were adopted, Berlin said, "for reasons of maintaining law and order."

U.S. FLYERS BOMB 6 OIL PLANTS IN VIENNA REGION

SUPREME HDQ., ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, June 26 (AP).—United States Flying Fortresses and Liberators 500 to 750 strong roared from Italian bases to the Vienna area today thru the heaviest opposition in recent weeks, attacking six oil refineries, railyards and an aircraft plant.

Poor weather meanwhile halted temporarily the pounding from the west of German supply and communication lines behind the French front.

The Fortresses and Liberators and their escorting Mustangs, Lightnings, and Thunderbolts shot down large numbers of enemy planes on the route to the Vienna area, headquarters announced.

Hit Heinkel Assembly Plant.

They struck refineries at Schwacht, Winterhafen, Loubou, Floridsdorfer, Kornenberg, and Moosbierhaum. A Heinkel assembly plant at Schwacht and rail yards at Floridsdorfer also were hit.

Four German fighters fell before the guns of one Mustang pilot, Capt. Samuel G. Brown, 27, of Tulsa, Okla., bringing his total to 13½ and making him runner-up for leading American scorer in the Mediterranean theater.

Heavy and medium bombers from Italy also were busy overnight, blasting the Hungarian capital of Budapest. The German agency DNB said Zagreb in Yugoslavia was raided Monday afternoon.

British based Mosquito bombers Sunday night attacked German troop concentrations, rail and supply targets near the battle lines, and stabbed deep into Germany, blasting industrial objectives at Homberg.

Step Up Rocket Bombings.

The Germans sent rocket bombs over southern England during today and thru the night in one of the heaviest barrages yet, taking advantage of cloud cover which hid their launching grounds.

Casualties and damage were reported from a number of places while there was a revival of talk here of lifting the blackout in the face of attacks by these blind raiders.

The air ministry reported Sunday night's fighter patrol against flying bombs was one of the most successful yet. Altho the ministry did not go beyond the statement that "a number were destroyed," one pilot got two on one patrol.

The latest bomb rumor was that the Germans, instead of sending flyers to observe bomb hits, were equipping "pathfinder" bombers with automatic radio transmitters by which their course could be traced in order to adjust subsequent bombs for wind effect and other variables.

CIVILIANS AND POLICE FIGHT IN GUATEMALA CITY, SAY TRAVELERS

San Jose, Costa Rica, June 26 (AP).—A traveler arriving here today said 70 persons were injured last night in a battle in Guatemala City between armed civilians and police, and that tension was mounting thruout the country.

The traveler said sporadic gunfire was heard in the city all day Sunday and that buses and taxicabs suspended operations. The streets of the capital were deserted, the informant said, except for police and soldiers guarding government buildings.

Pan-American Airways announced it had suspended the overnight stop in Guatemala City, effective today. Travelers said a general student strike had broken out in the National university in Guatemala, possibly in reaction to presidential suspension of constitutional guarantees.

LOSES WRISTWATCH ON STREET.

Joseph Micus, 4312 S. Artesian av., told police yesterday that he lost his wristwatch near 42d st. and California av.

IDENTIFY 9 U. S. SHIPS IN ACTION OFF CHERBOURG

SUPREME HDQ., ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, June 26 (AP).—Fourteen allied warships—headed by a Pearl Harbor victim, the battleship Nevada—took part in Sunday's bombardment which blasted Cherbourg shore batteries into silence. There were three United States battleships, four cruisers, and seven destroyers under the command of Rear Adm. Morton L. Deyo.

The Nevada was joined by the battleships Texas and Arkansas. The Texas is the flagship of Read Adm. Carleton Bryant, who was deputy commander of the bombardment force. Capt. C. A. Baker, Washington, D. C., was commander of the Texas. The Nevada is commanded by Capt. P. M. Rhea, Washington, D. C., and the Arkansas by Capt. F. G. Richards, New Castle, Me.

Adm. Deyo's flag flew from the cruiser Tuscaloosa, commanded by Capt. J. W. B. Waller, Manchester-by-the-Sea, Mass. Alongside the Tuscaloosa were the U. S. heavy cruiser Quincy commanded by Capt. Elliot Senn, Greenville, Miss.; and two British cruisers, the Glasgow and the Enterprise.

Four United States destroyers were the O'Brien, Murphy, Rodman, and Emmons. British destroyers were the Onslow, Offa, and Melbreak.

NEPHEW OF KING GEORGE CAPTIVE OF THE GERMANS

LONDON, June 26 (AP).—The Berlin radio said tonight that Viscount George Henry Hubert Lascelles, 21, a nephew of King George VI., had been captured on the Italian front.

Shortly before the German announcement an official statement was issued from Harewood house which said "Lord Harewood has had official intimation that Lt. Viscount Lascelles is reported wounded and missing and believed to be a prisoner of war." He is the eldest son and heir to the sixth earl of Harewood who is the husband of Princess Mary, sister of the king. He joined the Grenadier guards two years ago as a private.

[A Toronto dispatch quoting a correspondent of the Canadian Broadcasting company in Italy said Lascelles was wounded so severely that he could not be moved except by jeep and a comrade volunteered to get one. When he returned Lascelles and his men were missing.]

MEMORIAL SERVICE PLANNED SUNDAY FOR CHICAGO WAR VICTIM

A memorial service for Pvt. Arthur C. Edgren, 29, who was killed in action in Italy on June 1, will be held at 3 p. m. next Sunday at the Bethesda Lutheran church, 105th st. and Avenue J. Pvt. Edgren's widow, Frances, and his daughter, Joan Therese, 1, live at 1133 E. 79th pl. Before entering the army in September, 1943, he was employed by the Standard Oil company in Whiting.

Pvt. Arthur C. Edgren.

Other survivors include his father, Albert, 10153 Avenue L, and three brothers: David, 7929 Marquette av.; Sgt. Walter, with the air corps in Sicily, and Lt. Paul, serving in Italy.

HUSBAND GIVEN DIVORCE FROM EX-SCHOOL DEAN

William J. Freckelton, 39, of 9121 S. Oakley av., a teacher at the Chicago Vocational school, was granted a divorce by Judge Joseph Sabath in Superior court yesterday from his wife, Janet, 38, former dean of girls at the Lindbloom High school. Freckelton charged her with misconduct. Accompanied by police, he visited her apartment at 11253 Hermosa av. on Nov. 27, 1943, and found her there with Porter M. Craig, a bus driver. Judge Sabath awarded Mrs. Freckelton custody of her son, William, 9, and ordered Freckelton to pay $300 a year for the child's support.

CONVOY ESCORT SHIP IS SUNK IN MEDITERRANEAN

Washington, D. C., June 26 (AP).—The destroyer escort Fechteler was lost in combat in the Mediterranean last month, the navy announced today. Indicating that casualties had occurred, the navy said next of kin had been notified.

The skipper, Lt. Calvert Burke Gill of Baltimore, is among the survivors. The Fechteler, a 1,300 ton ship of the type designed especially for convoy protection against submarines, is the second vessel of that class to be lost. The Leopard was sunk last March in the North Atlantic.

Loss of the Fechteler brought the total of all ships lost by the navy in this war to 161, of which 122 were sunk, 30 are overdue and presumed lost, and the remainder were destroyed to prevent enemy capture.

LT. F. P. WINANDS OF KENILWORTH LOST IN AIR RAID

Lt. Frank P. Winands, 22, has been reported missing in action over Austria since May 24, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Winands of 621 Exmoor rd., Kenilworth, have been notified. He was stationed in Italy as a bombardier. Lt. Winands, in his last letter, said he was completing his last few missions preparatory to coming home in August when he expected to marry Miss Lou Ann Nored of Houston, Tex. He had been overseas since last November and had been awarded the air medal with three oak leaf clusters. He was a graduate of New Trier High school and was employed by United Air Lines before entering the air forces.

YANKS OCCUPY PORT IN ITALY WITHOUT FIGHT

ROME, June 26 (AP).—American and French troops have slugged their way to within less than 15 miles of the inland city of Siena and within 45 miles of Florence, allied headquarters announced today. Yanks rolling up the west coast captured the port of Piombino without a fight, a bulletin added.

German resistance continued spotty in the coastal sector despite reënforcements by 60 ton Tiger tanks brought from France in the last three weeks, but the 8th army was meeting stubborn opposition on both sides of Lake Trasimeno, near the center of the front.

Capture of Piombino gave the allies another valuable forward supply base on the west coast. The Nazis were forced to abandon the port to avoid encirclement. A field dispatch said the port facilities had been damaged but apparently were usable.

Thirty-five Miles from Livorno.

American infantry and armor charged on northward along the Rome-Pisa highway to within 35 miles of Livorno [Leghorn], Italy's third largest port.

Siena, 31 miles south of Florence, was in the path of three allied columns converging from the southwest, south and southeast. French troops, fighting thru mountainous terrain about 25 miles southeast of Siena, were meeting the fiercest opposition in the neighborhood of Rocca D'Orcia, which they occupied yesterday.

American troops stabbing toward Siena from the southwest were reported locked in a hot tank and infantry fight south of Montieri, and about eight miles northeast of Massa Maritima, which they had bypassed. All along the 5th army front the Nazis were using their Tiger tanks as mobile artillery.

Chiusi Nazis Menaced.

Chiusi, nine miles southwest of Lake Trasimeno, remained in German hands, but the enemy's grip was threatened by 8th army units that had driven up the western shore of the lake to within two miles of Castiglione.

German strategy obviously is to fight such a stubborn delaying action that the allies will not be able to make a summer assault on the "Gothic" line between Pisa and Rimini, last defenses guarding the broad Po valley.

The 5th army's total bag of prisoners since the start of the present offensive has risen to 24,000.

[The German war bulletin said: "In Italy the center of gravity of fighting was in the sector between the coast and Lake Trasimeno. The enemy after tough resistance offered by our troops gained some few kilometers of ground in a northern direction. In naval engagements in the Gulf of Genoa on Friday night four enemy motor torpedo boats were sunk and a fifth was set afire.]

Capt. John Ramsay Lost in Air Action Over France

Capt. John Ramsay, 23, army fighter pilot and flight commander, has been reported missing in action over France since June 12, the war department has notified his wife, Marion, 1225 Montana st., and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Allan P. Ramsay, 4520 N. Hermitage av. Promoted to a captaincy this year, he had been overseas since April. He received his commission in 1942 at Foster field, Tex. A twin brother, Orrington, is a navy ensign studying languages at Boulder, Colo., and another brother, David, is an army medical student at Northwestern university.

CHARGES FRAUD IN LELE WELLS DIVORCE ACTION

Joseph P. Burke, assistant state's attorney, filed an amended petition in Superior court yesterday charging that Mrs. Lele Daly Wells, heiress to a $7,000,000 copper fortune, obtained a divorce thru fraud and perjury last August from her fourth husband, Roe E. Wells.

The couple resided in New York, but Mrs. Wells filed her suit here under an Illinois law that permits a divorce if cruelty occurred in this state. Burke charged that Mrs. Wells never resided at 211 E. Delaware pl., where the alleged acts of cruelty occurred, and that Nellie Price, a witness for Mrs. Wells, testified falsely that she resided at 5330 Indiana av.

Judge John C. Lewe vacated the divorce decree in October, on information that it had been obtained by fraud, but a month ago the Appellate court reversed the order on the ground that the state's attorney had filed technically improper papers in the case. After the divorce Mrs. Wells was married to Richard F. Ford, vice president of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey. She later obtained a secret annulment of this marriage in New York.

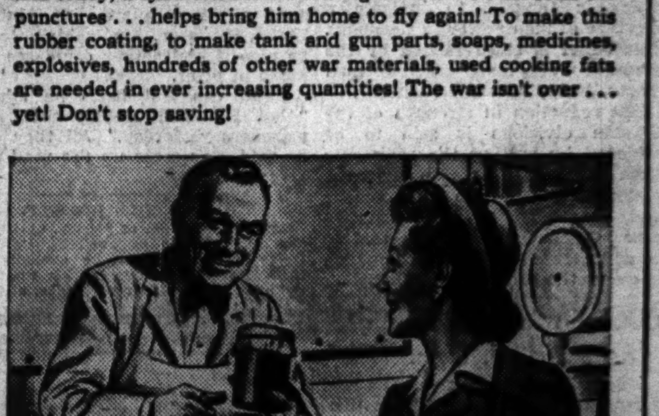
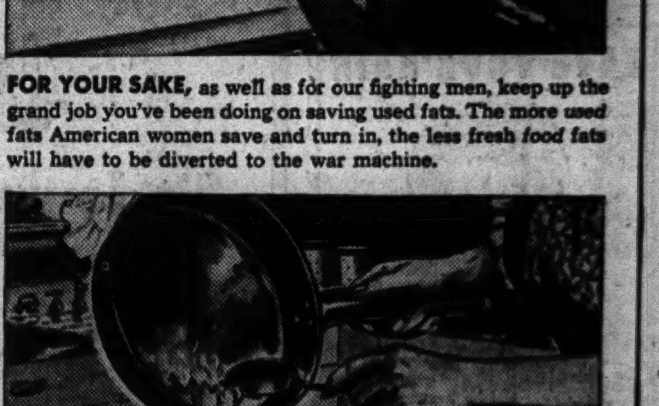
A Mile Over Berlin Your Used Fats Helped Bring Him Home

ONCE, THAT BURST OF FLAK boring into his gas tank would have sent this pilot and his plane screaming down in flames. But today, a synthetic-rubber coating around the tank seals the punctures . . . helps bring him home to fly again! To make this rubber coating, to make tank and gun parts, soaps, medicines, explosives, hundreds of other war materials, used cooking fats are needed in ever increasing quantities! The war isn't over . . . yet! Don't stop saving!



FOR YOUR SAKE, as well as for our fighting men, keep up the grand job you've been doing on saving used fats. The more used fats American women save and turn in, the less fresh food fats will have to be diverted to the war machine.



HELP KEEP POINTS OFF important foods by saving every drop of used cooking fat. Save meat trimmings, table scraps, broiler and skillet scrapings. (You should be able to save lots more, now that most meats are point-free!) Then when the fat can is full, rush it to your butcher. (He'll pay you 4¢ and two free red points for every pound!) Do it, won't you—for yourself and for the country.

TNT BLASTS BIG CAVERN ON BIAK; JAPS SEALED UP

Find Complete Wireless Station in It.

BY ARTHUR VEYSEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BIAK ISLAND, New Guinea, June 27 [Tuesday].—The Sump, last Jap strongpoint on the ridge overlooking Mokmer air field, is at last clear today. It took two drums of 850 pounds of TNT each to finally clear the entrances to the cave which, when explored, may rival Mammoth cave or the Carlsbad caverns.

The Sump is a circular gully 50 yards across and 50 feet deep. It lies about 100 yards behind a ridge directly inland from the air strip. When the Japs were driven from the ridge, whose defenses included four and five inch naval rifles, scores of 20 mm. guns, mountain guns, and mortars, they retreated into the Sump and its caves.

From the wall of the Sump two main entrances to the cave lead sharply downward. Into these infantrymen fired bazookas and flame throwers and tanks shot their 75 mm. guns. But the Japs just went around the corner and laughed.

Finds Vent to Cave.

On a ridge Lt. Edward Call of Rigby, Idaho, found a yard around vent to one room of the cave. Directly under the opening three Japs sat laughing. With his carbine he killed two of them.

To have entered the cave would have been suicide. Call and the engineers dropped 50 pound TNT charges into the entrances, but nothing happened, so he finally filled two 50 gallon oil drums with TNT.

Chicagoan Is Killed.

From the darkness he thought he heard a rifle bolt snap shut. "Get back," he said to a Chicago soldier who was with him. Wrenn ducked but the Chicagoan didn't. A rifle banged in the cave and the Chicagoan jerked upright, his wrist torn. Seconds later a second shot hit him in the neck, killing him.

The engineers set off the drums. As the smoke cleared they entered the cave's mouth. The walls, ceiling and floor had been blown clear of the stalagmites and stalactites. In a room off one entrance was a complete radio station, generator and lighting system. In others were barracks and stores.

Jap bodies were scattered among the debris. Scores more of Japs may be in the vast recesses—the whole island is undermined with caves—but their stores are destroyed and day and night, soldiers stand guard at the entrance to prevent escape.

475 JAPS SLAIN IN MAFFIN BAY AREA OF GUINEA

ADVANCED ALLIED HDQ., NEW GUINEA, June 27 [Tuesday]—(AP).—Four hundred seventy-five Japanese dead have been counted in recent fighting in the Maffin bay area of Dutch New Guinea, headquarters announced today. Maffin bay is midway between Hollandia and Biak, and is near the major allied airbase of Wakde Island.

Between the allied beachheads of Hollandia, Sarmi, and Biak are large pockets of trapped Japanese troops which are gradually being cleared out. Total enemy dead in the Sarmi-Maffin bay area now are 2,386, headquarters announced. Allied bombers raided Noemfoor Island west of Biak Sunday, dropping 80 tons of bombs on personnel areas and setting enemy stores on fire.

Allied planes swept over enemy bases in New Guinea, New Britain, New Ireland, and the Solomons almost without opposition. A small force of Liberators even attacked Truk, in the Carolines, Saturday night, without interception, indicating that the Japs may have withdrawn their air forces to safer bases.

SENTENCES 63 JAP-AMERICANS ON DRAFT COUNT

Cheyenne, Wyo., June 26 (AP).—United States District Judge T. Blake Kennedy today sentenced 63 Japanese-Americans each to three years of confinement after finding them guilty of failure to report for draft pre-induction examinations.

Judge Kennedy ordered them turned over to the United States attorney general for confinement in any federal institution he designates.

Yanks, Chinese Attack Myitkyina.

BULLETIN.

LONDON, June 27 [Tuesday]—(AP).—A Reuters dispatch from Chungking today said that British and Chinese troops had occupied the town of Mogaung in northern Burma.

SOUTHEAST ASIA HDQ., Kandy, Ceylon, June 26 (AP).—Mogaung, one of the three main Japanese bases in north Burma, appeared tottering tonight under the weight of allied blows from three sides.

Chinese troops swept thru the southern half of the town and attacked its northern strongpoints, while Chindit forces stabbed another 400 yards from the east, a bulletin from Adm. Mountbatten's headquarters said.

Wipe Out Regiment.

The principal Japanese Burma base of Myitkyina, where fighting already raged within the city, was under strong American attack from the north. This force was near a junction with Chinese attacking the western outskirts, the bulletin announced.

South of Kaimang, third enemy stronghold which already has fallen, Chinese troops pressed a new advance.

In India, the Japanese 58th regiment and a battalion of the 124th virtually have been wiped out and the 6th regiment has lost all its guns. The British drove west of the cleared Kohima-Imphal road into the Manipur hills, where enemy parties were reported disorganized.

Twenty miles north of Imphal, a Sikh battalion inflicted severe casualties on the enemy and took much equipment, the bulletin said, and on the Ukhrul road, where the enemy held positions north of milestone 17, allied forces repulsed four night attacks, killing 100 enemy troops.

Japs Thrown Back.

Three miles west of Bishenpur the Japanese assailed an allied position on the Silchar track, but were thrown back with heavy losses.

Driving toward Burma from the east, Chinese troops have reached a point five miles from the major Japanese Yunnan province base of Tengchung in their Salween river offensive, Chungking announced. Severe fighting was reported in progress around the secondary base of Lungling.

Ten miles south of Lungling, the Japanese were thrown out of Hsiangta, and the Chinese advanced three miles west toward Mangshih, seven more miles away on the Burma road.

CHINESE HOLD GROUND IN FIGHT FOR RAIL BASE

CHUNGKING, China, June 26 (AP).—Chinese troops have held their ground in bitter fighting around Hengyang, and American planes have been thrown into the battle around that rail junction and elsewhere in Hunan province, it was announced tonight.

Little change in position was reported around Hengyang, where the invader last was placed four miles east and six miles northeast of the city.

Confirm Hengshan's Fall.

The Chinese high command concerned by the attack all along the Canton-Hankow railway aimed at splitting China in two, confirmed the fall of Hengshan Saturday. This was the last major barrier before Hengyang. Loss of Hengyang would open the way for a drive of less than 200 miles along the railway into the maritime province of Kwangtung and the Canton area.

Japs Broaden Front.

The Japanese were attacking over a wide area. The enemy continued to broaden the front 60 miles to the north of Hengyang, striking westward from captured Sinagsiang toward Tanshih, 12 miles away. The Chinese said this column was driven back. This front now extends more than 85 miles.

American P-40s of the 14th air force struck savagely at a village east of Hengyang, and north of the city the same planes killed more than 100 enemy troops.

Thruout yesterday the American planes struck in the Changsha area and south of it "with good effect," a bulletin said.

POLICE HOLD TWO AFTER DICE GIRL IS FOUND DEAD

Seymour Leviton, 21, of 1033 N. Dearborn st., and Joseph Mohoungo, 24, of 1546 N. Wells st., were held by Chicago av. police last night for an inquest at 10 a. m. today at 716 N. State st. into the death of Mrs. Eleanor Bowden, 20, a dice girl divorcee, who was found dead yesterday in her room at 934 N. La Salle st.

Mrs. Thomas Gardner, the landlady, said she rented the room Friday to Leviton and Mrs. Bowden as Mr. and Mrs. Leviton. Mrs. Gardner discovered the body while Leviton was out. He returned with Mohoungo, and Mrs. Gardner said she heard Leviton say, "I am going to give her another sleeping pill."

Leviton had some pills in his pockets. He denied he had given any to Mrs. Bowden. Mrs. Margaret Brodrick of 119 Locust st., Mrs. Bowden's mother, told police that Leviton once threatened her daughter in a letter. He was sentenced to 55 days in the Bridewell in March for slashing a man, and was released May 6.

CHUTES MAROON 3 ARMY FLYERS IN GRAND CANYON

Kingman, Ariz., June 26 (AP).—Three army flyers who parachuted from a bombing plane Wednesday are alive and safe—stranded on Tonto plateau, an isolated formation 4,500 feet below the north rim of Grand Canyon, searchers from Kingman air base reported today.

The stranded men were identified as 2d Lt. Charles Goldblum, Pittsburgh, Pa., Flight Officer Maurice J. Cruickshank Jr., navigator, Lawrence, Mass., and Corp. Roy W. Embanks, aerial engineer, Kalispell, Mont.

Ground parties hope to reach the men by firing a cable across the river with a gun used by coast guardsmen, then using the cable to cross a boat over the swollen stream.

The three men were among five on a plane en route from Tonopah, Nev., to Tucson, Ariz., which encountered engine trouble at 28,000 feet. With the engines dead, the three were ordered to jump at 12,000 feet. At 8,000 feet the engines caught and the pilot and co-pilot brought the plane safely to Kingman.

STREET TO BE REOPENED.

George T. Donoghue, general superintendent of the Chicago park district, said yesterday that the stretch of Jackson blvd. between Kostner av. and Austin blvd., closed for resurfacing since April 24, will be reopened to traffic today.

FAR EASTERN AIR FORCE CREATED BY MacARTHUR

ALLIED HDQ. IN AUSTRALIA, June 27 [Tuesday]—(AP).—Gen. MacArthur announced today the creation of a new air arm to be known as the far eastern air force, with headquarters in Australia.

The new organization combines the 5th air force, which has operated in Australia and New Guinea, and the 13th air force, which battled thru the Solomons campaign and into the Rabaul and Kavieng campaigns. The new force will be headed by Lt. Gen. George C. Kenney, commander of allied air forces in this theater since 1942.

The 5th air force will be commanded by Maj. Gen. Ennis C. Whitehead of St. Louis, Mo., who has been in charge of the fifth's bomber command since 1942. The 13th will be headed by Maj. Gen. St. Clair Streett of Washington, D. C., formerly commander of the second air force in the United States. The Australian air force and the Dutch air force will remain under the southwest Pacific allied air force.

THE FOREIGN POLICY PLANK.

The proposed plank of the Republican platform, dealing with foreign affairs, is surely no literary gem destined for a permanent place in anybody's political anthology. Like most planks in most platforms, this one represents a compromise between more or less conflicting views not only of what is right but also of what it is expedient to say. In the circumstances it was inevitable that the expression would not be wholly satisfactory to anybody who had any positive opinions about the foreign policy that our government should pursue during and after the war.

When all this has been said, the fact remains that the proposed plank is a well-intended essay in the difficult art of conciliation. The platform makers, if they had been disposed to do so, did not dare defy the overwhelming popular insistence upon the preservation of an independent United States, free to make its own decisions regarding entrance into future wars. The right to declare war remains in congress. Treaties, including those terminating this war, will not be binding until they have been ratified, as the Constitution requires, by a two-thirds vote of the senators present. These are the main points that have been at issue and the great majority of the American people will welcome the forthright manner in which they have been settled, and settled satisfactorily.

On the other hand, concessions had to be made, or so it was believed, to the internationalist wing of the party. These were concessions to the men and women whose money has made them influential, who control most of the movies, the book publishing business, the periodical press, and most of the radio. For reasons which often have been discussed in these columns, these people are colonial minded. They were conciliated with pleasant words about coöperation for peace. Everybody, of course, is for peace and everybody is for coöperation within limits.

The American people, knowing that their country is by far the strongest and richest in the world, feel that talk of coöperation should start abroad rather than here, in offers of concessions to us, but at any rate the plank does not give the internationalists what they most wanted: a commitment to send our sons and our dollars into future wars without the full consent of the American people represented in congress.

The plank can be accepted for these reasons and more especially because of the realization that the last word is going to be said not by the delegates to the convention but by the fighting men when they return to their homes. When the soldiers are back from the Pacific, the Mediterranean, and France, their votes will dominate every election. Gradually, the men of their choice will be elected to positions of power and they can be counted upon to run both the money changers and the Communists up the street.

It is for us only to hold the fort so that there will be a republic in the United States when they return. In that light, the plank on foreign policy is satisfactory.

AMERICAN POLICY IN THE PACIFIC.

The editorial which follows, published originally on March 12 of this year, is the one referred to in the letter from some American soldiers in New Guinea, published in the Voice of the People today.

In the absence of any disposition in the executive department to protect American interests, the creation by congress of a special committee to plan the nation's post-war policies in the Pacific is as necessary as it is welcome.

The resolution for the establishment of the committee by the house was introduced by Rep. Wadsworth of New York. Mr. Wadsworth has been a poor American of late, not only in his stand on foreign affairs but also in his sponsorship of the labor slavery bill. His concern about our position in the Pacific gives hope that he has been won back and will again render the nation the same courageous services that he did earlier in both the senate and house.

Members of congress have been properly concerned over the recent agreement published by the governments of Australia and New Zealand concerning their post-war policy in the Pacific. In its claims to a "regional zone of defense" this agreement seems to undertake the disposition of islands recaptured from the Japanese largely or solely by force of American arms.

The Anzac agreement asserts that the use of islands in time of war "does not in itself afford any basis for territorial claims and rights." On this point the dominion statesmen find themselves refuted by a precedent of nearly 300 years' standing, and one established by the lawyers of the British crown, who held that conquest by an enemy power extinguishes previous territorial claims.

The duke of York, later James II., obtained a grant of what is now New Jersey from his brother, Charles II., in 1664, when that region and New Amsterdam were taken from the Dutch by a British fleet. The duke sold the Jersey grant to Lords Berkeley and Carteret. In 1673 New Jersey and New York were recaptured for a brief period by the Dutch and again awarded to the British in the peace treaty of the following year. The Dutch reconquest was held to have extinguished the New Jersey grant, which then reverted to King Charles.

The American people will not necessarily insist upon determining the sovereignty over the Pacific islands by reference to legal precedents, but Americans expect to be consulted. Mr. Roosevelt has shown no disposition to protect American rights. The British flag was hoisted over Tarawa even before all the American marines who had died in taking it from the Japs had been buried.

From a purely military standpoint this nation cannot afford to leave islands essential to our Pacific communications in hands incapable of protecting them. With the exception of the Marshalls, every island from which we have driven the Japanese was under British or dominion sovereignty at the opening of the war. The British could not defend them and the dominions could not have defended their home territories had it not been for Gen. MacArthur's timely arrival with American forces. We have spent two years winning back what our allies could not hold. That is not a task that can be imposed upon us twice.

CHERBOURG.

Cherbourg is a reward won by the courage and skill of the American infantryman. The tremendous bombardment by the air force and navy made the town vulnerable, but after the shells and bombs had wrought their devastation the infantry still had to fight its way in, reducing each strong point and silencing the snipers in each street.

The Germans were fighting literally with guns at their backs. They had been ordered to resist to the death and officers were instructed to shoot any man who tried to retreat. The free men were better than the driven men. The defenders who were supposed to hold out to the last man surrendered by the hundreds when they found they could not stop the American tide.

The infantry has suffered the highest proportion of casualties in every operation of this war, and the hand to hand fighting that broke the defense of Cherbourg is the bloodiest of all. Yet John Thompson's report in THE TRIBUNE of the final storming of the town indicates that in some of these operations, at least, American casualties were astonishingly light. That is a tribute to the training of our troops—to the weary months in maneuvers in the south and at the desert training center, the further months in the not so peaceful countryside of England. The lessons of Tunisia, Sicily, and Italy were learned.

The Germans have been engaged for a week in destroying the port facilities of Cherbourg. It is doubtful whether that destruction will impose a really serious handicap on the invasion army. Because it was a leading trans-Atlantic passenger terminal, Cherbourg was better known as a port than the volume of its freight traffic justified. Dieppe, for example, handled more freight in peace time than did Cherbourg. The heavy cranes that our army will need for landing its big guns, the locomotives and cars that it will use on French railroads, and other heavy equipment are waiting on the docks of London, and our construction units, trained in the rehabilitation of such ports as Naples, should have them installed in a short time.

The seizure of the beaches was the first successful step in the invasion. The capture of Cherbourg is the second. We can land and mass on the peninsula many more divisions than are now fighting there. The Germans will be compelled either to engage them or to allow them to organize without opposition for a new and heavier blow. If they commit their reserves in France, which have until now been held out of the battle, they will run the risk of other invasions against which they will be unable to offer a defense.

The situation is not hopeful for Hitler, but these developments will take time. Cherbourg must be repaired and equipped as a port capable of handling heavy equipment. The new divisions must be landed and their supply depots established. It will not be surprising if the tempo of the fighting slackens during the next month, as we gather our strength for a new and perhaps decisive blow.

DIED FOR WHAT?

The Baltimore Sun commented recently on a photograph from Europe showing an American soldier's grave in Normandy, marked with a wooden cross upon which the villagers had placed a piece of paper with the legend, "Mort pour la France," or "Died for France." The editor said that this is a most moving epitaph for an American fighting man. "No soaring oration could say more—or, perhaps, as much," he declared. "The tribute is direct and heart-warming, splendid in its simplicity. . . ."

The Sun's editor seems to believe that the noblest thing an American can do is to die for France or some other European country. Here we have an example of the worship of all things European that seems to warp the thinking of some Americans. The simple Norman villagers may think that because this American boy died in France he died for France. Americans ought to know better. Most of them do.

The chances are that this dead American who lies in French soil felt about the same loyalty for France that he did for Portugal or Iraq. The boy died because his country was at war and it was his duty to fight for his country. He no more died for France than the marines who fell at Tarawa died for the Gilbert Islands or the British colonial government that rules them. The villagers no doubt meant well, but for an American to regard the epitaph as in any sense appropriate is to profane the memory of our dead.

THE GANG'S ALL HERE.

Altho not a veteran of political conventions, our impression is that they are always held in hot and humid weather. Higher statesmanship might be obtained in cooler temperatures. Did any one ever think of nominating a candidate for President when there was no chance of 90 degrees in the shade? Of course not; the delegates wouldn't regard the occasion as a summer vacation trip.

* * *

This is the 40th anniversary of the only national convention in which we ever took an active professional interest. That was when Theodore Roosevelt was nominated in the Chicago Coliseum. The Record-Herald put its entire staff on the job, and we were expected to pick up crumbs that the experts scorned, such as who got socked on the nose in the balcony. So it happened that we heard the immortal proclamation:

"We want Perdicaris alive or Raisuli dead!" It seemed to be the authentic voice of Teddy the Stick, but the hand that wrote this message to Morocco was John Hay's.

The many thousands of American tourists who have passed thru Cherbourg now wish they could remember something about the city. But they were in a hurry to get to Paris, and the boat train was waiting. So it happens that our literature lacks nostalgic references to the pleasures of Cherbourg's cafés and the architecture of its hôtel de ville.

* * *

The big ships of the Cunard, White Star, or United States lines laid off shore to save docking fees, and dropped you and your luggage into tenders. After the customs ordeal, you jumped into the rapide for Paris. . . . We remember only the Mauretania, a mile or two off shore, lit up in the twilight like a marine Christmas tree, and a dog that solicited contributions for the French Anti-Cruelty society.

PIED PIPER OF THE KREMLIN.

The rats of Hamelin (vide Browning)
Came to their demise by drowning,
Because a Piper piped, "Heigh ho!
There's the river—in you go!"

They plunged into the lethal tide,
Committing sui-raticide.

But some Red rats (assorted genders)
Sneaked away. And those offenders,
Having a distaste for dying,
Spent all their evenings multiplying.

They multiplied at such a rate
That soon they had to emigrate.

And now the Piper pipes again;
But he's more tricky now than then.
"You Reds," he screams, "must all disband
By order of the High Command."

I'll need your votes for F. D. R."

So all the Reds, in high silk hats,

In Water to the Neck.

These summer days—these summer days—are the same as they were when we rushed to the nearest creek, removed our four pieces of clothing, and vied to see who would not be "last in" and would not be a "sis."

There was a sandbar in the middle of the creek and white, shiny, wet bodies flashed back and forth across it and into the water on either side; white bodies which became browner as summer deepened, and they were toasted by the summer sun.

There was the customary apple orchard nearby, as there is wherever small boys congregate, and the apples must be stolen when the swimming is over. Why apples must always be stolen I do not know, but it is a part of boyhood tradition. Had we asked permission of the owner, he gladly would have given us any amount rather than see his cows overeat them, as they grazed near-by.

There were the summer sun, a few fleecy clouds, balmy wind, a tree or two, and grass which grew on both sides of the creek. But there was not—there was not—an airplane to be seen; not a ship, not a gun, not a tank.

We stood in water up to our necks, and there were no machine guns peppering us. We rushed for the shore to dress, sometimes in clothes knotted together, and sometimes in clothes that had been there, but now were gone.

We rushed for the shore, and none of us fell and lay still with the inertness that means a passing, and none of us lay wounded. We all reached the shore.

We all reached the shore, as we will always reach the shore, and as they will reach the shore, they who lie so still. Roy Engel.

THE SNAPSHOT.

Just fifteen years ago, I still recall,
He stood like this, one summer's afternoon,
An "Indian scout" of seven, his gun as tall
As a broomstick's long, and boasted of how soon
(I smiled, and said I felt quite sure he'd gain
From "somewhere in New Guinea," now, the sun
Still bright upon his face, the eyes unchanged,
He looks at me again, his job well done,
But the time and place of it—how rearranged!

Lister Alwood.

NASAL SYMPTOMS MAY BE TRACED TO ALLERGY.

Most of us are familiar with the individual who, at the height of the hay fever season, will exhibit bleary eyes and paroxysms of sneezing. A thin, watery discharge from the nostrils, which inflames the skin about the outlets, increases discomfort. The voice tones are muffled because puffiness within the airways has destroyed natural resonance.

This is an extreme picture and there are many milder manifestations. Just as hay fever is due to sensitivity to pollen, so the mucous lining of the nasal passages may be affected by less powerful irritants. At the outset, symptoms may persist for but an hour or two. Later, they may hang on for days. In fact, there is reason to believe that many of our common colds come about because we are susceptible to our own bacteria. This is in addition to the allergy which arises when our bodies rebel against some factor in the environment or the diet.

A few observers go so far as to assert that 75 per cent of the victims of nose and throat complaints between March and July are allergic. Perhaps those who are in a delicate balance are bothered by early flowering grasses and trees.

Can inflammation within the sinuses be explained in this fashion? Yes, in part. Nests of bacteria may locate in these regions and the system resents their toxins in a violent manner—with the appearance of hives, asthma, etc. In fact, sensitivity to microörganisms may be as productive of disagreeable visitations as the absorption of pus. There is one way to find out and that is by means of the X-ray film. If these spaces are well filled with air and show no abscesses, distress and oozing must be traced to some other irritant.

Not infrequently the chief difficulty will be stuffiness. The patient will visit his physician because, as he describes it, "I cannot breathe thru my nose. I must have an obstruction." One such case came to my attention not long ago. A nurse who, for more than a year has been a mouth breather, encountered occasional episodes of sneezing. Her airways felt as tho they were swollen shut. X-rays of the sinuses were negative. Bacteriological study revealed no infection but skin tests showed that she reacted to house dust and wheat. Under vaccine therapy, immunity was established within two months. Sleep thereafter was unbroken. Before she was vaccinated, powerful drugs were employed to shrink the mucous membrane and thus obtain a reasonable amount of comfort. These remedies are no longer needed.

Many chronic coughs—not heart or bronchial in origin—are on this basis. For the most part, "barking" will be more pronounced toward evening and during the night. Rest is so disturbed that sometimes these sufferers actually fail in health, particularly if they are obliged to pursue a gainful occupation.

The point of the whole matter lies in recognizing the fact that sensitivity may be responsible. It may not be due to pollens but to other elements which exert a seasonal influence.

Front Views & Profiles

By MARCIA WINN

The Elephant Moves.

Even those who have been regular attendants at major political conventions since the turn of the century still get excited when a new one opens. Not by what happens or does not happen, but by the tremendous surgings and portents of this planned confusion of democracy.

The heavier-than-Kleig lights, which a press agent with a strange sense of the beauty of language wrote about deliriously as "man-made sunshine," go on. The organ high up in the flag draped eaves begins to peal every rousing tune at the organist's command. The thousands stand to sing "The Star Spangled Banner." The prayer is given, far more solemn now than in many past quadrennials. The man in the white suit strikes a gavel—and it is on.

It is not a terribly gay scene. It isn't gay at all. It can't compare in merriment with the last convention held in the same stadium, the 1940 Democratic circus. There is little parading and hoopla, no leaping elephants with gay, wicked little eyes, no single voice commanding a microphone from the basement. Even the candidates' insignia are small and discreet with the exception of some ruffled Dewey parasols, carried, furled right now, by many of the bobby sox brigade.

Out on the delegate floor, packed for the opening session at 10:30 a. m., are many men and women with brilliant records of achievement in professional life. They are grave, sober-faced, alert. Probably the most remarkable face on the floor is that of Gov. Saltonstall of Massachusetts. He looks as tho his head had been removed from a bow of the original Yankee clippers. It is pure New England, taut, handsome, lean-jawed. Wood carvers should take notice of it. The most remarkable attire is that of the befeathered delegate from Utah, an American Indian here in full war dress. This department was all set to ask his opinion on internationalism, he being the only indigenous American in the vast stadium, when his feathered headdress puffed out like a peacock's tail and he seemed to take wing.

The most remarkable spectator unquestionably is witty Mrs. Jim Farley, who is all set to have the time of her life. Some claim the song, "I Want a Girl Just Like the Girl Who Married Dear Old Dad," which the organist was thundering forth as she walked in, was played for her. But young Ensign Lloyd Taft, third of the four warrior sons of Sen. Taft, who paused for the day on his way to duty in the Pacific, thinks the proper welcome for this lady who renounced the Roosevelt fold Sunday, is "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling."

In general, all is earnest [so is Mrs. Farley, for that matter], and the horseplay isn't around. The time was when the delegates spent most of their time rehashing Joe Miller's joke book, each claiming authorship, but this is gone. Practically all think this is a Republican year, that the pendulum which began its slow swing six years ago is ready to surge into completion of the cycle, but they display no marked jubilance. They simply seem determined. Some say it has to be Dewey on the first ballot so that the country at large will know it was a unanimous movement, but it seems, after all, a silly observation. America has never been moved by unanimity. For that matter, how many delegates were elected without a contest? And how valued is a seat that is theirs by acclamation rather than by work?

That brings it all back to the elephants and why they aren't here. There was a time when the G. O. P. elephant was draped all over the place at conventions. Everybody wore one. Every delegation had one standing beside its state placard. Sometimes the placards proper were in the shape of elephants. Often they were dancing. And usually, those last two times, they didn't do any good. Possibly this time it all is predicated on T. S. Eliot's poem beginning, "The elephant is slow to mate. . . ." The ensuing verses show that his great shy heart is slow to work up interest, but when it does, it is terrific.

WOULDN'T THAT BE FUN.

Chicago, June 23.—The smaller European nations are certain to present serious obstacles to that permanent peace for which we are fighting. They will not only be involved in the power politics sure to be revived at the close of the war, but will immediately become involved in internal political strife costly to them and to the world at large. A foretaste of what may be expected is on view today in France, Poland, Yugoslavia and other European nations. The pentup desire for retaliation and revenge is apt to burst its bonds in a number of the smaller nations with results too horrible to contemplate, but clearly indicated. In that event, are we to back a new set of dictators? How are we to know which parties are warranted in their assumption of authority and power?

The realities indicate there is only one safe course to pursue. In conformity with our expressed ideals as stated in the Atlantic Charter, we are pledged to allow the people of each nation to choose their form of government and the parties and persons to administer such government. This choice cannot now be freely exercised in any of these nations, nor can or will it be exercised at the close of the war.

All of the smaller nations are in the position of insolvent corporations. They have all defaulted in their obligations—financial and moral. When a corporation is insolvent, the court steps in and appoints a receiver whose duty it is to conserve such assets as may be found for the protection of creditors and stockholders. The same principle can be applied to European nations by appointing commissions composed solely of representatives from the United States, Great Britain, and Russia, whose duty it shall be to set up and administer civil governments to preserve law and order and to administer domestic economy until such time that the people of these countries can set up political parties and principles representing the will of the people as expressed by a free ballot supervised by the commissions.

This will provide the time element necessary to allow the people to forget their pentup emotions and map out their future, the virtual receivership to be dissolved as soon as its purpose is accomplished. The length of time during which it would operate would depend upon the people themselves.

To make this plan effective, however, there must be no bargaining with political groups or leaders. Its success depends entirely upon the strictest neutrality and impartiality of the nations appointing the commissions, and of the members of these commissions. If the allied nations begin by making bargains and commitments with political leaders and parties, failure is certain. We now have the spectacle of political leaders currying favor with the allied nations separately and jointly, under the guise of service to their respective countries, giving ample grounds for suspicion that selfish motives are at the bottom.

The enormous sacrifices already made and to be made by the allied nations in behalf of the smaller nations and their peoples, entitles them to the wholehearted coöperation of the latter as a matter of their self-protection, since without our help they perish.

"AMERICAN POLICY IN THE PACIFIC."

NEW GUINEA, June 12.—In the March 12 issue of THE TRIBUNE an editorial appeared captioned, "American Policy in the Pacific." This copy has just reached us and it is a source of inspiration to all here who have served many long months in the Southwest Pacific. It is our hope that every soldier, sailor, and marine serving in the Pacific has or will read this editorial. It expresses precisely our thoughts relative to post-war Pacific policy, for we who have served over here neither care to repeat nor pass on to those who follow a similar task.

We salute you for maintaining such a fearless and outspoken editorial policy. We salute your editors for their sagacity and wisdom. May they continue to wake up America to this problem!

SOLDIER ON WOMEN'S DRAFT.

SOMEWHERE IN EUROPE, June 3.—A Washington story in Stars and Stripes reports introduction of a proposal to draft women. We are a group of tactical combat men and wish to make it plain that this is one of the things we are fighting to avoid—regimentation of our women.

Many of us have sisters, sweethearts, and fiancees back home and those of us with wives know only too well what the next step is—drafting of married women. We have seen the vast women's armies of other countries and while we all agree that they have done a good job we do not want our women to go thru the same experiences these women have gone thru. That is why we're here.

Rep. Celler [D., N. Y.], who introduced the bill, evidently has no one who will be included in his proposed draft. To us over here, however, it is a very hard thing to swallow. I know that if such a bill were passed it would do more to tear down the morale of the boys than anything else. It is utterly impossible to describe the feeling of the fellows as they read the article.

MAYBE HE WOULD TELL.

Chicago, June 22.—Instead of Sen. Lucas demanding the resignation of British Production Minister Lyttelton, wouldn't it be much better to have Lyttelton tell us more about the Pearl Harbor attack? We do not seem to be able to get any frank information from our own dignitaries who keep postponing the truth about the affair.

REDS MAY BUILD FACTORIES WITH AMERICAN HELP

Consider Lend-Lease Aid on Credit Plan.

Washington, D. C., June 26 (AP).—American lend-lease officials already are tackling the problem of how to help Russia rebuild and expand billions of dollars' worth of shattered industrial plants, with the result that lend-lease to that country is undergoing a change in preparation for peace time trade.

The change reportedly is part of a plan for assisting Russian reconstruction and helping maintain a high level of employment in this country during the transition from war to peace production. Soviet officials are understood to have the plan under consideration.

Plan Credit System.

Its central provision is that lend-lease shipments must stop promptly with the end of the war, but that materials useful in peace time pursuits—electric generators, for instance—will be shipped just as if lend-lease were continuing, except that they will go on credit.

Meanwhile, the principle is being applied to lend-lease shipments in advance of any general agreement. As a result, articles like electric generators, which are shipped before the war ends but will be mainly useful afterwards, are going out on credit.

Expect Heavy Orders.

One estimate here is that in the early post-war years the Russians will be able to take in 3 or 4 billion dollars' worth of imports for reconstruction of their plants, power houses, transportation services, and the like. Most of this would come from the United States.

Eric Johnston, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, said in Russia a few days ago that soviet purchases from this country would run into billions. Part of his purpose in going to Russia is to get some idea of what the Russians want to buy.

Diplomats also are concerned with the reverse process in international trade: What can the United States buy from Russia to enable her to pay for what she gets from this country?

May Buy Materials.

One solution suggested is to have the United States acquire from Russia thru normal trade channels stockpile supplies of strategic materials.

Russia's lend-lease relations with the United States vary considerably from those of Britain and China, the other main recipients. Britain expects to supply most of its own equipment for factory reconstruction. So for months shipments of machine tools and other capital goods have been steadily reduced to Britain.

China's lend-lease problems are dependent on developments in the Pacific war. When the end of the Japanese war nears, however, the same formula as in the case of Russia may be applied.

WOMAN, 21, RIDER ON MOTORCYCLE, KILLED IN CRASH

Miss Priscilla Scott, 21, of Alton, Madison county, a waitress in a Winnetka restaurant, was fatally injured yesterday when the motorcycle on which she was riding skidded and overturned. William Kelling, 21, driver of the motorcycle, attempted to stop for a group of soldiers crossing Waukegan rd. near Fort Sheridan and lost control of the machine. # CHARGES AGENCY GAVE SHIPYARD TO EX-U. S. AID

Maritime Commission Accused of Deal.

New York, June 26 [Special].—A witness at a congressional subcommittee hearing today testified that a $2,000,000 privately owned shipyard with a good producing record was taken over by the United States maritime commission and turned over to a former official of the commission. The hearing was held by a subcommittee of the house merchant marine and fisheries committee.

Soon after the shipyard was taken over, the witness declared, the number of executives jumped from 48 to 400. They were provided with extensive private offices, private secretaries, and expensive equipment, including rugs and draperies. In addition, he said, men shot dice on company time and many left their jobs 10 to 20 minutes before quitting time.

The witness was John W. McCartney, former purchasing agent and labor relations adviser of the corporation involved—the Marine Maintenance corporation of Bayonne, N. J.

Calls It a "Steal."

He charged "this shipyard was a direct and carefully planned steal." He indicated that the deal was engineered in collusion with high officials of the maritime commission and said he had given the names of these officials to counsel for the subcommittee. They were not made public.

The Bayonne plant was seized by a United States marshal under direction of the maritime commission on Jan. 27, 1943, and turned over to the East Coast Shipbuilding company, the president of which is John Otterson, who previously had resigned as coördinator of repairs for the maritime commission.

Corporation Indicted.

On the same day that the Marine Maintenance corporation was seized, an indictment was returned against the corporation; its president, Gregory Ferend, and Russell W. Michener, the controler, accusing them of defrauding the government of $600,000 by making overcharges and assessing false fees for repairs to 12 cargo ships.

The corporation and Ferend were acquitted in the United States District court in Newark, N. J. in 1943. Michener was found guilty on 12 of 13 counts charging him with keeping an improper set of books but was acquitted on a conspiracy charge.

Rep. Louis J. Capozzoli [D., N. Y.] chairman of the subcommittee asked McCarthy the basis of his statement that collusion was evident in the deal. The witness replied that "the chief hull inspector made those statements to me."

CITY GETS FIRST PLEA IN 20 YEARS FOR BOND ISSUE

For the first time in 20 years a proposal to place a bond issue question on the ballot was brought before the city council finance committee yesterday. It was referred to a subcommittee headed by Ald. Hartnett [12th] for consideration.

The proposition, introduced in the form of a resolution by Ald. Lindell [9th], calls for a two million dollar bond issue for lighting outlying sections of the city which now have no street lights.

Most of the aldermen attending the committee meeting favored putting the proposition on the November ballot. On motion of Ald. Hartnett the subcommittee agreed to consider plans for revamping the city's entire lighting system.

CHICAGO PACKER GETS A YEAR ON PRICE CHARGES

Newark, N. J., June 26 [Special].—Peter Golas, 48, of 3031 Hollywood av., Chicago, accused kingpin of a nation-wide beef black market conspiracy, today was sentenced by Federal Judge Thomas F. Meaney to serve a year and a day in prison and was fined $10,000.

Fines of $10,000 each also were levied against the Superb Packing company and the State Packing company, both of Chicago, of which Golas was president and vice president respectively, and against the United States Packing company of Kansas City, Kas., in which he held an interest.

"You were the moving spirit in this conspiracy," Judge Meaney told Golas. "I am informed that between December, 1942, and February, 1943, you shipped to New Jersey 110 carloads of beef and were paid $135,000 in cash in excess of OPA ceilings. You shipped to a New York dealer in this period 30 carloads and received $23,000 above OPA ceilings. Your acts were deliberate in gouging the public."

BRIDGES' APPEAL IN DEPORTATION FIGHT IS DENIED

San Francisco, Cal., June 26 (AP).—The United States Circuit Court of Appeals today sustained by a 3 to 2 vote a lower court denial of a writ of habeas corpus sought by Harry Bridges, CIO longshore union leader, to block a deportation order issued by Attorney General Biddle.

Bridges' attorneys said the decision would be appealed to the United States Supreme court.

Bridges was ordered deported to his native Australia in May, 1942, on the ground that he had been a member of the Communist party and that the party advocated violent overthrow of the United States government. Bridges denied the charges.

Three Events Tonight Share Wide Interest

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE second night of the convention, with former President Hoover and Rep. Clare Boothe Luce scheduled as speakers; the opening of the Ravinia Festival season, and a giant war bond rally in Orchestra hall will find Chicagoans wishing they were triplets for tonight. Many Ravinia "regulars" will be in the Chicago Stadium, no doubt, and not a few convention guests will find themselves at Ravinia park to hear one of Chicago's famed open air concerts, while some of each, especially book lovers, will go to Orchestra hall, where admission is by war bonds, and where Carl Sandburg, Louis Bromfield, Sterling North, Martha Ostenso, and Col. Carlos P. Romulo will be highlighted on an entertainment program arranged by the woman's division of the Chicago and Cook county war finance committee.

The same authors will attend another bond rally, a small breakfast at Marshall Field & Co., at 9:30 a. m. today. Mr. North will act as master of ceremonies tonight, and Mr. Sandburg is bringing along his guitar and will auction off his musical talents to the highest war bond bidders.

Ravinia park is at its gala best for tonight's opening, with the petunia beds freshly planted and the gravel walks smooth and white. Pierre Monteux is guest conductor with the Chicago Symphony orchestra for this week's performances, and there will be the usual round of small dinner parties before tonight's concert.

Convention Notes.

Mrs. George Mesta of Oklahoma, who is sharing quarters at the Blackstone with Mrs. James A. Farley, is entertaining in the Balinese room of the Blackstone tonight for her many Washington friends who are here for the convention, and also for the cast of "Oklahoma!"

Mrs. Edward Van Vleck of New York entertained at cocktails yesterday at the Ambassador, and there are small parties for Mrs. Charles M. Kittle's house guests, Mrs. George Holmes of Washington, D. C., who is a sister of Stephen Early, and Mrs. Ambrose N. Diehl of New York.

The LeRay Berdeaus of New York and Palm Beach, who are at the Drake during the convention, also are caught up in a round of parties, among them a dinner Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Davis are giving tomorrow night and one which Mr. and Mrs. Merrill C. Meigs will give Thursday. Petite, chic Mrs. Berdeau is a former Chicagoan and a popular visitor.

Staying with Mrs. Franklin Miller, who is serving on the Gov. Green courtesy committee, are Mrs. Charles S. Hickman of Iowa, Mrs. May W. Owen of Colorado, Mrs. E. W. Hackett of Minnesota, and Mrs. Annie L. Trousdale of Texas, all here for the convention.

Mrs. Ferre C. Watkins, Mrs. Waldo Logan, Mrs. Meigs, and Mrs. John L. Kellogg will assist Mrs. Nathaniel Leverone at a tea Mr. and Mrs. Leverone are giving at home this afternoon for Rep. and Mrs. Everett M. Dirksen.

Engagement News.

In the midst of one of summer's most hectic days comes news of a romance of interest. It is contained in the announcement from Mr. and Mrs. Lynn A. Gratiot of Winnetka of the engagement of their daughter, Mary Alice, to Lt. [j. g.] Rawson Blaine Harmon Jr. of the coast guard, of Patagonia, Ariz., son of Mr. and Mrs. Harmon of Ojai, Cal.

Miss Gratiot, who always is called Peggy, is in Ojai to spend her fiance's leave with him and his parents. He recently returned from a year and a half of duty in the Pacific. Miss Gratiot, who was introduced to society two years ago, is a graduate of Dobbs Ferry and Vassar. She has one brother, Ensign Peter Gratiot, who is in New York with the navy. Lt. Harmon attended Phillips Exeter academy..

Dr. and Mrs. Loyal Davis have announced the engagement of their daughter, Nancy, to Lt. [j. g.] James P. White Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. White of Winchester, Mass. Lt. White, who was stationed in Chicago, now is on active duty in the Pacific, and the wedding will not take place until after the war.

Miss Davis was graduated from Smith college last year. She is a member of the Chicago Junior league and is completing a nurses' aid course at County hospital. She also devotes two days a week to a service men's center and is on the board of the Service club. Lt. White was graduated from Amherst in 1942 and entered the navy immediately.

Birth News.

The John E. Bakers' first child, born June 14 in the Lake Forest hospital, has been named Adele after her mother, the former Adele Proxmire. Little Adele's grandparents, Mrs. John Baker and Dr. and Mrs. Theodore Proxmire, live in Lake Forest. Later in the season the Proxmires may go to Desbarats, Ont., where they usually spend the summer.

Understanding Helps to Deal with Problems

[Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"My little boy is getting to be so contrary. Why, to practically everything I tell him to do he says 'No.' Then I'm cross and sometimes he cries, and in the end we get nowhere. I'm not fussy or arbitrary; I only ask the most reasonable things of him. What do you think is the reason?"

What most mothers of small children lose sight of, or perhaps aren't really aware of if it is their first baby, is the fact that little children need time to switch their interest, especially if it is at some one's request.

Any one who has watched young children at play knows how deep their absorption is in the thing at hand. They can become literally lost to the world when they are assembling a mechanical toy, fitting blocks into a box, backing an engine into a station, or giving those marvelous imitations of the locomotive whistle.

Because of this, when you call them to lunch or their bath, or tell them to do something, they frequently don't do it because they actually don't hear you. Or they say "No," because they can't pull their interest away at once, to fix it on something else.

The answer is, "Give them time to do so." First gain their attention, then give them a sort of notice of what is to come next.

Ignore the "No" if it comes, and a few minutes later you will find you have a docile little boy or girl ready to do what you ask.

"You and Your Young Child" is a booklet of interest to parents and nurses. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Address Mrs. Gladys Bevans, The Chicago Tribune, Chicago 11, Ill.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

Bobby Socks.

This summer, even more than in other summers, high school girls are going to work. It's a big step they take out of the classroom door into the office door, tho they may not be aware of it. In school they're "just kids." In business they must be poised young women ready for white collars in place of saddle shoes and bobby socks.

At Jones Commercial High school [where summer classes will be in full sway shortly] this is not a new problem. First emphasis in the personality course is on dress. And there's a good reason: Once a student discards careless high school costumes and begins to dress more carefully and maturely, she begins to think more carefully and maturely. She pays attention to little things and learns the value of preparation and thoroness thru this first effort towards building a habit of dressing herself suitably for business. "It's the first step in attaining maturity," says Clarence B. Carey, director of the school.

Does a company employing high school girls do justice to the other employes—or to the newcomers—to permit them to feel that "anything goes?" I think not.

There's too much talk of this being an employes' market. A company which has weathered economic storms and still is in business has full right to set standards. The girl who goes to work for the first time and discovers she must fit herself to those standards has added something to her curriculum that is quite as valuable as her studies. She has learned to respect a job.

It's G. F.'s observation that he hopes post-war planning won't end up in post-war panning.

Toss This Off.

A nation-wide poll made by a labor union numbering thousands of women workers in automobile and aircraft manufacture reports that more than 85 per cent of the women employed in war plants intend to continue working after the war if jobs are available. Practically all of the single women, all of the widows, and 68.7 per cent of the married women want to work.

About three-quarters were housewives before the war, students in school, or clerical workers. Fifty per cent want to stay in shop work; 25 per cent want to return to former jobs; 10 per cent will take any job that's offered, and the rest have decided to go home wagging their pay-checks behind them.

Adv.

I'm running a "Situation Wanted" advertisment stating: "Capable secretary; cannot make type-writer drawings, or note boss' shortcomings in rhyme. All contributions to White Collar Girl column rejected." Do you think this would get me an A-1 job? ALICE.

Notables Give Festive Touch to Convention

BY ELEANOR PAGE.

It was coats off and shirt sleeves up even in the box section at the Stadium last night, when notables in the social world gathered for the convention's first evening session. Those who were forehanded brought along fans with which to give the ailing breezes an assist, and the coolest looking women were the ones who were dressed the most formally, in short evening frocks.

Two of these spectators were Mrs. Albert B. Dewey of Washington, D. C., and Mrs. Edward F. Hutton of New York, who with their husbands sat at the opposite ends of the box section. Attractive Mrs. Dewey, sister-in-law of Rep. Charles S. Dewey, has not spent much time in Chicago since becoming his brother's bride, and their Chicago friends were delighted to welcome such a pretty blonde as the family's new member. Her ultra sophisticated black dress had the merest hint of sleeves, and a rather low decolletage brightened with a fragile bouquet of pastel field flowers. On her hands were longish white gloves.

Mrs. Hutton's sheer black net dress over a black slip edged in fine lace earned her envious glances from other feminine convention goers. Atop her simply rolled back dark hair was a dainty halo of small white blossoms and about her neck a long strand of pearls. She also wore spanking clean white gloves of almost elbow length.

Occupying a front row box were the John D. M. Hamiltons and some eastern friends, Miss Margaret Case of New York, whose dress appropriately was printed in all over pattern of state seals; Mrs. Robert Young of Newport, R. I., whose husband is a delegate, and young Mrs. Joseph N. Pew III. of Philadelphia, in a fresh looking yellow cotton frock and matching bandeau across the top of her head.

The LeRay Berdeaus and Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed were among those who came to the Stadium from Mrs. Edward Van Vleck's gay cocktail party-buffet supper. On Mrs. Goodspeed's shoulder blossomed a large corsage of war savings stamps, similar to those which members of the American Women's Voluntary services were selling thruout the Stadium along with war bonds. Mrs. George Barrett was another wearing a patriotic cluster of flowers.

Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson, her brother, Donald Butler of California, and the Philip Clarkes shared box seats, as did Miss Virginia Elwood and Miss Edith Dato, who were getting their first convention experience tho it is doubtful whether they will be able to cast a vote in the fall election.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Will Hays of New York were Mr. and Mrs. Alfred O'Gara; their son, Lt. [j. g.] Gordon O'Gara, just back from 18 months overseas; Mrs. O. O. McIntyre and Mrs. John Binford. Others in a front row box were Gov. Green's pretty wife and their two young daughters, Nancy and Gloria; Mrs. Mary Shearer, Mrs. Converse Staley of Springfield, Ill., and Mrs. Norton Dewey. Mrs. Arthur Wirtz, Mrs. Richard Lyons, Mrs. Werner Schroeder, Mrs. Leslie Small of Kankakee, Mrs. Charles E. Becker of Springfield, Mrs. Arthur Leonard Jr., and Miss Jane Leonard were others in the box section.

Illinois Conference of Christians and Jews Incorporated

The Illinois Conference of Christians and Jews was incorporated yesterday in Springfield as a non-profit organization. The directors are Judge John P. McGoorty; Augustine J. Bowe, attorney; Leonard S. Florsheim, industrialist; Austin L. Wyman, attorney; Conrad H. Popenhusen, attorney, and Sol Kline, director of the Chicago Round Table of Christians and Jews. According to its charter, the organization is a holding corporation authorized to receive and disburse funds solely within the state for educational purposes. Dr. James M. Yard, national director of the midwest conference, said the organization seeks to promote good will between Christians and Jews.

Women in War Work

By Dorothy Johnson

The nation's war industries need more physicists, and most of them must be women, Miss Mary Margaret Banning, Rochester, N. Y., war worker, attending the Republican national convention, said yesterday.

Miss Mary Margaret Banning.

Mrs. Margaret Culkin Banning.

Miss Banning, the daughter of Novelist Margaret Culkin Banning of Duluth, Minn., who is in Chicago as head of the Women for Stassen committee, works in the laboratories of the University of Rochester's institute of optics, which does both research and manufacture of optical instruments for the army and navy under the office of scientific research and development of the office of production management.

Scientist Banning, who has a Ph. D. degree in physics from Johns Hopkins university and an A. B. from Vassar, works seven days a week, and often many nights, in the evaporating department of the laboratory, where glass is coated with metallic film either to heighten or reduce its reflection. She has had the job for three years.

At first the institute staff was 50 per cent masculine, but most of the men have gone into uniform and women have taken over the responsibilities. The phase of her work which she is not permitted to discuss, because of security reasons, is the most fascinating part of her job, Miss Banning said. She did say, however, that she referred principally to the research she does, and that there is no limit to the ideas a physicist can develop for war.

It is estimated, Miss Banning said, that there are between 3,000 and 5,000 working physicists in the United States today, whereas Germany, it is believed, has 10 times that number. She urged women to get into her type of employment now. She said that in the early period of the war a degree in physics or mathematics was required, but any woman with ability for the work, regardless of her educational background, usually can find a place on the Rochester institute staff.

Mrs. Banning, who, in 1942, visited England, observed British women in war industry, and wrote a book about them ["Letters from England: Summer, 1942"], is enthusiastic about her daughter's job. The novelist has been an advocate for years of work for women on an equal plane with men. Every woman, no matter what her station in life, should be able to earn her own living, Mrs. Banning believes.

In addition to her busy career as a writer and Republican political worker, she finds time for volunteer work on the board of the national war fund in Minnesota and on the writers' war board.

Dear Diary BY BECKY

133 Children Open Season at Algonquin

Their departure officially opened the 80 acre camp's 35th season. Before it ends, early in September, nearly 1,500 underprivileged children will have been guests.

Yesterday's campers were from all parts of the city. They included two 8 year old sets of twins and an 8 year old refugee who had traveled a long and complicated trail from Austria to South America and then to Chicago. There were the five older members of a family of 10. There were a widow and her five children. At least nine of the children were those of overseas service men. And two of these were dressed in replicas of their fathers' G. I. uniforms.

Many were Algonquin veterans. Camp wise, they eagerly confided all of what they knew to any new recruit who would listen.

They carried well worn clothes in suitcases and pasteboard boxes. A few had hastily constructed fishing poles, for they had heard that the Fox river is lush with fish.

Charities' spokesmen said the camp was ready and waiting for its first vacationers. Donations of paint had resulted in a new face for most of the camp buildings. The pool, they said, was ready for a summer of action. The tennis and badminton courts had been renovated for the new season. Toys had been repaired, sand boxes filled, and boats and oars painted.

Sun, sports, and healthful food compose the camp agenda, and Mrs. Astrid Save, camp director, said the same efforts will be made this year to add poundage to the thinnest and frailest of the campers. She is proud of past years' records, which show an increase of as much as 10 pounds for many of the campers.

Today another group will depart for the Fox river camp. Leaving from North Western station, the campers entrain to Cary, Ill., and go the remaining few miles by bus.

Jewish Women Send First Vacationers to Council Camp Today

Chicago section of the National Council of Jewish Women will see its first contingent of 50 mothers and 100 children off for Council camp today. The camp, now in its 37th season, borders Bangs lake near Wauconda.

Last summer the council women brought 600 persons from homes of the underprivileged to their pleasant, health-building vacation spot. This year the camp committee is giving particular attention to providing needed vacations for families of service men suffering hardship because of reduced income.

Each of the council's auxiliaries has some part in the running of the camp, and many of the counsellors augmenting the professional staff are from the junior membership. The Council camp committee is headed by Mrs. Samuel Alschuler, and Mrs. Joseph G. Slottow and Mrs. Sam Oettinger are vice chairmen.

'One Is Missing'

By H. Vernor Dixon

(Copyright: 1944: By H. Vernor Dixon.)

SYNOPSIS: Camouflaged for jungle warfare, Capt. Jed Reed calls to his companion, Bart, a giant clad in loin cloth, and a man of unusual intelligence. A white man is approaching. Jed knocks him out, rifles his pockets, and finds he is Hugh Wescott St. John, engineer, London, Manila, and Hong Kong. In his wallet is a snapshot of a woman and child, and $900 American money. They decide he is all right, return his belongings, revive him, and inform him he is on the Malayan archipelago.

INSTALMENT II.

JED UNFRIENDLY.

St. John turned to point across the clearing, but his arm lowered and a sudden light of suspicion crossed his eyes. "You say you are a captain in the United States infantry?"

Bart said, "You should have been suspicious of us before, sir. Allow me to vouch for Capt. Reed. You have probably noticed at the bottom of many army communiques a short line reading, 'One is missing'? Capt. Reed is such a one. He is a demolitions expert, a man who destroys the construction of others. At Bataan he blew up bridges and roads and storage and ammunition dumps. He even wanted to blow up Corregidor, but the opportunity failed to present itself."

St. John pursed his lips and nodded. "I see. Well, I suppose I can trust you gentlemen. If you will follow me, please."

Jed and Bart followed after him, their eyes cautiously taking in every detail of the clearing and the jungle wall. Once their eyes met and held for a second.

Bart sadly shook his head and whispered, "I am afraid you have lost all traces of mercy, sir. You follow this man not to give assistance to the others he mentioned, but because you are curious about them and curious as to how they shall die."

"You know they can't live, Bart. No man can live for long in this green hell. Yes; we shall probably watch them die, one by one. Too bad."

He stepped from the trail and faded into the jungle. Bart shrugged and followed him. The Englishman was not conscious of their silent departure until some time later. Then he paused and looked all about the clearing, anxious and puzzled.

Jed and Bart followed him just within the protective screen of the jungle.

Hugh St. John was not a man easily given to blind panic. He had faced sudden death in all of its various forms and he knew the meaning of fear.

He slowed and looked about him, sweeping the perspiration from his face with a shaking hand. There was no sound and no sign of movement. He continued along the trail, but at a moderate pace, with his thin shoulders squared.

As he walked he thought of the two men, the white and the black. Bart he dismissed as an "odd brute," but he could not rid his mind of the image of Capt. Jed Reed. The man's attitude toward him had not been at all friendly, as one would expect of another white man under such circumstances.

The large clearing finally came to an end and St. John followed the faint trail into the jungle. After he had been walking about an hour he saw a metallic glint ahead of him and increased his pace. In a few minutes he was standing by the side of the smashed airplane.

St. John blinked up at the long gap in the jungle roof, where the airplane had plunged in, then turned away and followed the trail for an additional 300 yards.

Three men and two women were seated in the center of the clearing and another young woman was standing at the far edge, listlessly smoking a cigaret and staring blankly into space. St. John frowned in the latter's direction, then stepped into the clearing. "Where have you been? You've had us worried. After all, you could think of our peace of mind, too, couldn't you?"

"Sorry, Mrs. Banning. I—ah—was detained."

Tom Riddell and Richard Cary, the two pilots, glanced indifferently up at him, but Scott Banning, a heavy, barrel-chested man with the scowl of authority and self-assurance, got to his feet and stood by his wife.

"What do you mean, you were detained?"

The Englishman wiped his brow and forced a weak smile. "Two men," he said, "stopped me in a clearing by the sea. To put it mildly, I was slugged into unconsciousness. When I came to, there they were, a white man and a black."

The two pilots jumped to their feet and the other woman hurried over to join the circle about St. John.

Tom Riddell, the older of the two pilots, asked, "Did you say a white man?"

"Rather; yes. He claimed to be a captain in the United States infantry. The other was a giant Negro who talked like a university professor. A most amazing experience. I was on my way back from the sea and was walking thru a large clearing when the gentlemen in question hit me from the rear."

Mrs. Banning gasped, "An American captain?"

"Well, that is what he said. I have my doubts. Thinking it over later, he impressed me as a deserter who had turned brigand. I should imagine their only interest would be plunder and——" He paused and his right hand shot back to his rear pocket. He took out the wallet and examined it. Obviously, it had been inspected, but all the money was still there. He frowned and whispered huskily, "I don't understand it."

The young woman smoking the cigaret laughed sarcastically and said, "You will in a year or two. You British need time to puzzle anything out. But we have plenty of that. We'll probably rot in this place."

"We're doing our best, Miss Nolan."

She walked away, stamped out the cigaret and started down the trail toward the wreck as St. John related his experiences to the others. She was a well-built young woman in her early twenties, with light green eyes flecked with amber, a full cynical mouth and a wealth of dark auburn hair that hung far below her shoulders.

When she reached the wreck she paused on the trail to stare at it and tears came into her eyes. "O, God," she breathed, "poor Jimmy." She wiped her tears away, shook back her hair and resolutely clenched her white teeth. She pulled herself thru the smashed door into the plane's cabin and crawled up the slanting aisle. Her suitcase was strapped on a seat at the far end. Jimmy's was there, too, but she looked away from that and took only her own.

She came out of the plane and sat on the flat surface of a wing a good hundred feet away. She rifled thru her suitcase and found a packet of cigarets. She took them out with a glad cry and sat on the edge of the wing smoking the cigarets one after the other.

The heavy, stifling humidity of the air brought back memories of the first time she had met Jimmy. She had been practicing dance steps in a bare New York studio, just above the clash and snarl of 42d st. traffic. She had been tired and irritable, until Jimmy Taylor had stepped into the room to watch her.

He had been like a breath of fresh air, with his easy, boyish grin, slight figure and corn-yellow hair. She had known who he was, of course, a top-ranking solo dancer and, an incongruity in show business, modest about it.

Mrs. Tom B., Oak Park, Ill.—We have found that moist soap helps to take the itch out of mosquito and other insect bites. Just moisten the soap and rub it—gently—on the puncture. We keep a small jar of soap scraps in the kitchen for this purpose now.

Etta S., Chicago—Let's hope that those new methods of weaving cloth so that it is not only more durable but also waterproof will be made available to civilians everywhere as soon as peace comes!

Bobby Socks Step Into New Jobs Today

Today may be only another Tuesday to many, but to hundreds of young citizens it is a day of great significance. For today is their first day on their first job, the day when, even tho they're only 14 years old, they step thru factory gates or office doors with other men and women.

Yesterday these members of the bobby socks crowd were busy obtaining birth certificates from the county clerk's office and summer work permits from the board of education.

"And it takes a lot of initiative to come down here for the permits," said Dr. Grace Munson, director of the bureau of child study, whose department issues the required examination certificates.

A battery of staff assistants under Lester J. Schloerb, director of occupational research, helped the youthful petitioners thru the routine. Three papers must be presented: [1] Proof of age; [2] parent's written approval, and [3] a letter from a prospective employer stating the specific work to be done.

The youngsters will do many types of work. The laundry situation will be helped by a girl who will fold shirts—at 50 cents an hour. One boy will be a drill press operator. Many girls will be telephone operators. Two Japanese girls relocated from the west coast will be packers.

Iris Stephan, 14, of 5100 Avondale av., whose father and mother both are war workers and whose three brothers are with the army in Hawaii, Alaska, and England, starts today on the assembly line of a shell company. A pretty child, with rosebud mouth, tiptilted nose, and brown curls, she was just graduated from St. Cornelius grade school. She will enter Taft High school in the fall.

Out of his weekly salary of $38, which begins today at the Sloan Valve company, Earl Reninger, 17, of 4102 W. Maypole av., a grinder, will purchase war bonds, he said.

Betty Batten, 17, of 764 W. 73d st., will pack rations for a food firm. She plans to become a Spanish stenographer next year after graduating from Calumet High school. Gerard R. Jarvis, 14, of 3641 Sawyer av., will work in the bindery of Scott Foresman and company. He is an alumnus of Immaculate Heart of Mary grade school.

Amused to hear that one of the permit aspirants had never ridden on an elevator and refused to attempt it yesterday, staff persons, on the other hand, were amazed at the physical condition of a boy, 15, with "scarcely any teeth and tonsils marked with four X's by the examing doctor." Refused a permit until his health improved, the boy begged for a job to earn money to attend to his teeth and tonsils. His case is under consideration.

Application for work permits continues thru Friday, Schloerb said.

James T. Gaffney, assistant superintendent, released these enrollment figures in summer schools: High, 4,628; elementary, 5,252; and college, 307. Registration continues thru the week.

"SHE'S A SOLDIER, TOO."

A Columbia picture, directed by William Castle, featuring Beulah Bondi, Nina Foch, and Jess Barker, and presented at the Oriental.

Good Morning!

KIND: Homespun war time drama.

ACTING: Excellent. Seasoned and able veterans [Beulah Bondi, Percy Kilbride, Ida Moore] and smart newcomers [Nina Foch, Lloyd Bridges, and Jess Barker] make this programmer worth your while.

DIRECTION: Unpretentious but satisfactory in the main.

SETS, SOUND, PHOTOGRAPHY: Okay.

STORY: Mid-Victorian hangover gets kick in the slats from the solid side and, willy nilly, is plunged head over heels into war work as the stately home of the elderly Kittredge sisters and their gentle inventor brother becomes, practically overnight, an obstetrical ward and a boarding house for war workers.

AUDIENCE APPEAL: Well, the audience with which I attended the show—loved it. They laffed and laffed.

On the Aisle

By Claudia Cassidy

New Faces.

Two of the town's favorite shows have some new faces on deck, so I made a quick tour to check the results. "Kiss and Tell" has half a dozen new actors, but they still add up to one of George Abbott's best comedies, easy as an old shoe and recognizably hilarious to almost any American. Lila Lee is playing Corliss Archer's mother while Katharine Warren takes a vacation, and she shares Miss Warren's secret about how to be a handsome young matron without stealing stage front center from a teen age daughter. Over at "Oklahoma!" Bonita Bimrose is getting the chance of her young life, playing Laurey for a week until Betty Jane Watson arrives from New York. Miss Bimrose is a lively youngster with a pretty little voice and a touch of the spunk that makes the role go 'round. Miss Watson, due next Sunday, last was here at the Empire room, singing with Griff Williams' orchestra. She joined New York's "Oklahoma!" and took over the role of the giggling girl when Pamela Britton came with our company to play Ado Annie. She has been playing Laurey for six weeks on Broadway, from the departure for Hollywood of Joan Roberts to the arrival from our company of Evelyn Wyckoff.

Betty Jane Watson.

Altho W-G-N opens the Grant park season Saturday night with the Chicago Theater of the Air, concerts by the Grant Park Symphony orchestra do not start until Wednesday night, July 5, with Rudolph Ganz the first week's conductor. His soloists for the three concerts will be Hertha Glatz, mezzo soprano, who first came here with the Salzburg Opera Guild; Walter Cassel, Metropolitan Opera baritone, who has been singing in the Grieg musical, "Song of Norway," in Los Angeles, and Reinhold Schmidt. Pierre Andre will return to his old post as commentator and Herb Carlin will be back as manager.

Notes About People.

Anita Alvarez, who was so delightful in "A Connecticut Yankee," will replace Sono Osato in "One Touch of Venus" in New York July 10. . . . If Howard Lindsay and Russel Crouse have their way Boris Karloff, who made a fortune for them in "Arsenic and Old Lace," will reappear in their production called "Who Sups with the Devil." . . . David Tihmar is dancing in New York's "Oklahoma!" . . . Vivien Leigh and Claude Rains are going to film Shaw's "Caesar and Cleopatra" in London for Pascal. . . . Rex O'Malley is staging the Gloria Swanson show coming to the Blackstone July 11. . . . "School for Brides" is getting a new first act ready. . . . Halla Stoddard will play "Becky Sharp" in Toronto week after next.

Nutritionally speaking, salmon is one of the richest treats of the marine world. It contains more than 10 times as much iodine as meat, milk, eggs, or cheese, and it is a splendid source of vitamins A and D. It also offers good supplies of calcium, phosphorus, and iron.

Fresh salmon may appear somewhat expensive but there is little waste to it because of the negligible bone content. Salmon steaks are delicious when broiled and served with melted butter or margarine, a little lemon juice, and a sprinkling of herbs.

Canned salmon is delightful served well chilled as it comes from the can, plain, or garnished with wedges of lemon and parsley. And it's excellent in salads, creamed dishes, loaves, croquettes, and timbals.

Broiled Salmon Steaks.

Have the salmon steak cut ¾ inch thick and allow ⅓ pound for each serving. Sprinkle lightly with salt and pepper and dip into melted fat or oil. Broil under moderate heat allowing about 12 minutes for each side. Baste with additional fat during broiling. When done place on hot platter and carefully remove the skin. Sprinkle each steak with ¼ teaspoon finely chopped parsley and ¼ teaspoon finely chopped chives. Add the juice of 1 lemon to the fat in the pan, heat for a minute, then pour over salmon steaks. Serve immediately.

Salmon with Cucumber Sauce.

1½ pounds salmon steak or fillets
1 cup boiling water
¼ cup celery stalk and leaves, chopped
¼ cup sliced onions
¼ cup sliced carrots
1 sprig parsley
1 teaspoon salt
4 peppercorns
2 whole cloves
2 thick slices of lemon

Place salmon in saucepan and add remaining ingredients. Cover and simmer for 20 minutes, or until salmon is done. Cool in liquor. When cold remove from pan and chill. Serve with cucumber sauce.

Cucumber Sauce.

⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon minced onion
1½ to 2 tablespoon vinegar

Salmon Souffle with Pimiento Cheese Sauce.

1 teaspoon salt
Few grains pepper
1 cup milk
1 pound can salmon [2 cups]
2 teaspoons minced parsley
2 teaspoons lemon juice
4 eggs
1 3-ounce package pimiento cheese
2 cups medium white sauce

Combine tapioca, seasonings, and milk in the top of a double boiler. Cook and stir for five minutes. Add flaked salmon, reserving several large pieces to top the souffle when it is baked. Add parsley and lemon juice. Remove from heat and stir in well beaten egg yolks. Cool and fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Bake in greased casserole in a 325 degree oven for an hour. Serve with a sauce made by melting the pimiento cheese in the white sauce. [For this amount of sauce use ¼ cup flour, ¼ cup butter or margarine, ½ teaspoon salt, and 2 cups milk.]

Salmon Crisps.

1 cup cornflakes
1 cup flaked salmon
⅛ teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper
¼ teaspoon minced onion
1 tablespoon catsup
1 egg beaten
Additional cornflakes

Crush the cup of cornflakes and add salmon, seasonings, onion, and catsup, mixing well. Shape into small cakes and dip in egg mixture; then roll in additional, uncrushed corn flakes. Fry in skillet in small amount of fat, browning both sides. Serve with cream sauce.

According to Culbertson

| South | West | North | East |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1 spade | 2 clubs | 2 spades | Pass |
| 4 spades | Pass | Pass | Pass |

North's free raise to two spades was rather light.

West opened the club ace and, on his partner's play of the eight, continued with the same suit. Declarer won with the king and slyly led the trump queen, hoping that if West had the ace he would hold it up for one round and thereby permit declarer to knock out another trump or two. West, to his shame, did exactly that. He ducked the spade queen in the vague, far fetched hope that East had the king, and when declarer then led a second trump the defense ceased to exist. Nothing could stop South from discarding a heart loser on the club queen.

Obviously, having established the club queen for the enemy, it was West's duty to kill that card as quickly and surely as he could. Thus, he should have grabbed the spade queen with the ace and led another club so that East could ruff away the queen. Then the defenders could sit back and wait for the heart tricks that would certainly come to them.

Gray or Green Costumes Are Summer Vogue

BY REA SEEGER.

Too many shoppers for summer dresses and suits are buying the old friendly shades of navy, brown, white, or black. Try something new this summer. Try neutral gray or green. Buy and wear basic costumes of either color and have the novel pleasure of mixing and contrasting white or pastel accessories with either . . . just as you did with navy, black, etc. Dark green costumes are plentiful, and so are all shades of leaf green, from the pale yellow greens to the deep cool green of summer foliage.

Dresses, two-piece suits, short jackets, extra boleros, negligees, blouses, and even swim suits are offered in all these shades. Wear with them ice cream white, palest yellow, copper, dark beige, or flesh colored gloves, hat, bag, or blouse. Cheerful polka dotted hat and bag can be slick pickups for a dark green two piece suit or dress. So are waistcoats, boleros, hats, and bags in bold checks and stripes. Green is amazingly easy to dress up, warmly or icily, with chalk and popcorn white accessories.

Gray is the most neutral tint available. It is almost as cool as sky blue. Unquestionably it is the color of serenity and tranquility. Deep blue accessories, the subtle tones of copper or sunburnt straw, white, claret, orange or lemon peel tints, and green are all ideal summer shades to play against this neutral gray.

Supplies of accessories and costumes in gray are as abundant as those in green. You'll find dove-gray house coats, two piece bolero suits with a slim sun-back shoulder strap dress, gray hats, blouses, bags, and all kinds of interesting trifles such as vestees, gray flowers for the coiffure, and lots of gray and white prints, with stripes, checks, and dots of white to contrast with the Quaker gray of the background.

Rev. W. J. Millor Named Head of Detroit University

The Rev. William J. Millor, member of the Jesuit order and for five years professor of classical languages at Loyola university, has been appointed president of the University of Detroit, Detroit, Mich. He succeeds the Rev. Charles H. Cloud. Father Millor is a native of Detroit and received his bachelor of arts degree in 1922 from the school which he now heads.

Thru the Looking Glass

We suppose there are some persons who can see beauty in the bare human foot. We aren't one of them, but that's not important. What is important is that the stockingless fashion—or perhaps we should say the sheer lack of stockings—and the toeless sandals reveal too many feminine toes that need good grooming. It's the lack of grooming that makes them so unattractive, maybe.

A professional pedicure will make all the difference in the world, and if you're the possessor of innumerable pairs of toeless sandals we exhort you to have such care. Or, doll up your own toes.

Trim the nails neatly—but don't point them. Clip them or file them straight across, and don't dig into the sides. Use an emery board to smooth off the rough edges of the tips.

Then, scrub the toes well with warm, sudsy water, giving each toe and the under surface of each nail careful, gentle attention. Use your cuticle remover and oil on each toe too, scraping the cuticle away ever so gently. Don't snip or dig. This cleared away, rinse the toes again and dry them thoroughly.

Then, put lacquer on the nails. For most women, deep polish seems best. It makes the skin of the toes seem whiter by contrast. Apply the polish just as you would to the finger nails—it's easier to do. Wipe off any smears at the sides carefully and don't make moons or white tips. The solid coat gives the nail the illusion of greater length, which is flattering.

Toes just aren't pretty as a rule. Nail grooming, while it can't be said to make them gorgeous, at least makes them easier to look at. And, in toeless sandals, they are going to be looked at, you may be sure.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

I'm going to let you all in on a confidential secret. Chicago is a political bedlam. The lobbies of the Stevens, the Blackstone, the Drake, and the Ambassador, not to name smaller-fry caravansaries, are cluttered with politicos from every corner of the nation. But the minute one of the big shots buttonholes you, and you think he's going to let his hair down with some confidential information on who's going to be nominated for Vice President, he bends down and whispers:

"Say, is it true that Betty Grable's gonna have another baby?" . . . Looks as if Zanuck, Mayer, Warner, Koerner, and the others can paraphrase the old saying into "I care not who makes the nation's laws as long as I can produce its movies."

Could I get away from Hollywood aboard the Santa Fe's Chief? H'mm, see what you think. . . . Three guys invaded the quarters where Ida B. Koverman and I were holding a private gin rummy tournament to determine the champion sleeper of the two of us. There was Jim Guthrie, from the San Bernardino Sun; Bill Matthews, owner of the Tucson Arizona Republican, and Ed Austin, who's just been made editor-in-chief of the Copley papers. . . . Now, these three guys, remember, were on their way to Chicago as Republicans, trying to bear up under a deep sense of responsibility to their compatriots. They're serious thinkers, worried about the state of the nation. So I said to myself, here's where I pick up a flock of lowdown. . . . Dear old Jim Guthrie, who's watched 'em come and go in California these 40 years, started out like this: "Know what's gonna lick the Democrats this year? I'll tell you. A movie that somebody made over there in Hollywood. A movie about Woodrow Wilson."

I Had the Answers (?)

"I know about the picture," I said. "It's being released by 20th Century-Fox. Darryl Zanuck made it. Ought to make quite a stir." . . . Bill Matthews promptly spoke up and insisted Jim was wrong, that the Wilson picture would elect Roosevelt to a sixth term if he's around that long. . . . And in two minutes the gang of us were all knee deep in the darndest argument. What happened to my lowdown? Well, try to get a word in edgewise any time the people you're with know that you're fresh from Hollywood. . . . They want to talk about Hollywood and nothing else. . . . Not me. I want to talk about Chicago. . . . We have a suite at the Stevens that looks out over the lake front. You can hardly hear the roar of the elevated and the street cars, and where in the old days you'd hardly be able to see Lake Michigan, or smell the breeze, on account of the smoke screen thrown up by the Illinois Central, today the I. C. trains amble sedately along under electric power and the water front is as clear as a tin whistle. . . . I simply had to ride up to Lincoln park to see if my old friends the polar bears are still there in the zoo, and sure enough they are. There's a perfectly enormous one with a large bare patch where the white fur used to grow on his left rump, and I'll swear he's the same one I named Ursa Major years ago when I was playing with a company at the Illinois theater. But maybe he's been made into a coat for Lana Turner. . . . One night a gang of us stole up to Lincoln park after the show and tossed some steaks to the polar bears. We could have been pinched, I dare say. Anyway, the bears raised such a roar growling over the steaks that we ducked fast. . . . I'd like to have one of those steaks now. I wouldn't be tossing them to the bears, and warble that on your OPA.

Seems I've a fan in this Windy City who remembers me in "The Quaker Girl." Well, that's a bit of a memory feat. And thru his wangling there's to be a horse race run at the Washington Park track today. Comes now the Hollywood influence again. . . . They've named this race the Home In Indiana handicap, which pleased me immensely because two of my favorite little actresses, Jeanne Crain and June Haver, are in it. . . . It's to be a race for girl horses, if you get me, I mean fillies, and I'm going to cut myself loose from all politics and politicians for one afternoon just to go out and see it.

I've seen more good-looking men in two days in Chicago than I'd look at in a week's ramble around the film lots. . . . Republicans? Well, yes, and no, I suppose. No political party has a corner on good looks. If you don't believe that, ask F. D. R. Looks never hurt him, did they? . . . Anyway, what a cast could be made up of the big shots gathered around here for this week. . . . William Bullitt was up to call. In the old days he could have run Clark Gable a close race for the heart-fluttering championship, and he's still got that flat-torso figure. . . . Met former Gov. Frank Merriam of California on the Chief and he's looking mighty fit. He's sergeant at arms of the convention. . . . "Sell Em" Ben Smith, who built the Mexico City race track, is among those present, too. . . . The place is crawling with old dealers pawing the air and sniffing like a lot of thirsty range cattle just over the hill from fresh water. . . . There used to be a phrase in this country that described politicians who had been too long away from the trough. . . . The phrase was "deserving Democrats." Rare was the quadrennium when they got their feet under the festive board. . . . It's different now. This year it's the rarin' and roaring Republicans who have a feeling that they're going places.

DONORS OF FOOD TO CENTERS ARE FORGOTTEN MEN

Publicity Is Denied Them but Not Roosevelt.

The 7,850 donors who contributed carloads of free food to the four Chicago Service Men centers are the forgotten men of World War II. Despite their generosity, they must remain anonymous because the Chicago commission on national defense, sponsor of the centers, has ruled that commercialism shall not in any way attach itself to the project.

Despite its publicity ban, however, the commission headed by Mayor Kelly, a Democrat, has not overlooked an opportunity to give President Roosevelt a buildup by placing a 6 by 5 foot photograph of him, smiling benevolently, in a commanding spot in the dining room of its largest center at 430 S. Michigan av. The picture is posed along the same lines as the one which flanks the west wall of the city hall building.

Irwin R. Tucker, chairman of commissary for the commission, said the President's picture graced the dining room wall only because he was commander in chief of the armed services. He added that Mrs. Roosevelt's picture was also on display at one of the centers, having been placed when she was a guest of the mayor's wife, who is canteen chairman for the commission.

Mayor Kelly also has come in for his share of free publicity at the S. Michigan av. center. Spread across the front of the building, which formerly housed the Auditorium hotel, is a sign with letters two feet high which proclaims: "Chicago's Own Service Men's Center No. 2, sponsored by Chicago Commission on National Defense, Mayor Edward J. Kelly, chairman."

Tucker scoffed at the idea of the mayor getting free publicity. Ninety-eight per cent of the service men and women who visit the center are from out of town, he said, and could not vote for Kelly if they wanted to. He reiterated his statement on the President's commander in chief status when asked about the vote getting potentialities of Mr. Roosevelt's picture.

Under Park Direction.

The commission is under the administrative direction of the Chicago park district. Daniel L. Flaherty is administrative director, while the staff of employes was loaned by the board of education, park district, and by city and county offices with these agencies paying the employes' salaries while they are loaned out.

The centers are classified as institutional users under the ration point plan. Many food donors, lacking points to buy their contributions, authorize Tucker to make the purchases. He uses the center's points and, after the transaction, the donor pays the bill. Tucker, who volunteered his services to the commission, is a food broker with offices at 308 W. Washington st. He has never held a political job, he said yesterday.

Three Chicago meat packers alone donate approximately 1,700 pounds of meat a week to help feed the 135,000 men and women who visit the centers each week. Food donors have no set quotas, but pledge to keep the larders well supplied.

Tons and Tons of Food.

A partial list of food donations received by the commissary in 1943 follows: 142,851 loaves of bread, and 222,530 dozen buns; 2,788 pounds butter; 28,530 pounds coffee; 5,425 dozen eggs; 17,096 dozen doughnuts; 69,309 pounds candy; 20,485 pounds cookies; 250,000 cakes [the majority of them baked and donated by small organizations]; 240,835 pounds frankfurters; 72,236 pounds meat; 33,977 gallons of milk, and 32,674 ice cream dixies.

At center No. 2 last week, President Roosevelt's photographic likeness beamed down as service men and women ate 35,364 hot dogs and buns dripping with 193 pounds of mustard. They also consumed 69,940 slices of bread, 38,400 cups of coffee, 46,238 pieces of cake, and smoked 74,800 cigarets, all with the compliments of Chicago's donors, who because of the publicity taboo, must remain in an anonymous capacity.

Confers with Chainmen on Settlement of Strike

A federal conciliator met yesterday with 150 chainmen who have been on strike at the Continental Roll and Steel Foundry company, East Chicago, Ind., since Saturday in an attempt to get them to return to their jobs. The men are members of local 22,636 of the American Federation of Labor. They reportedly struck after the company refused to grant them a 15 cent hourly wage increase. No increases can be granted unless the war labor board approves them, a company official said.

Day by Day on the FARM

The FARM by Gail Compton

TWO lowly farm plants have gained the spotlight as a result of the war, and it is possible that in the future they may be grown commercially. One is the sumac and the other is milkweed.

When the war cut off imports of tanning materials for treating hides, scientists were forced to look for a substitute. They have found one in the sumac, which many farmers consider a nuisance. The use of sumac leaves for tanning and dyeing is not a new discovery. At different times, good market prices have stimulated the gathering of some wild sumac in this country. In Sicily, sumac has been grown commercially for some time.

Sumac Goes Into Industry.

Late department of agriculture reports indicate that the American sumac, the common variety, offers a good source for tanning materials. Surprisingly, the sumac grown on poor soil is richer in tanning material than is sumac grown on fertile soil. This offers a good crop for submarginal land.

Investigators have found that there is an increase in the tannin content of the leaves up to the third year of growth. The leaves contain more tannin in midsummer than in fall, they discovered.

At the farm, the clumps of sumac always form a bright part of the fall landscape. The brilliant red of the leaves comes early and is good evidence that autumn has arrived. Because of its rapid growth and tendency to encroach on fields, many farmers consider the sumac a greedy pest and cut it back as often as possible. When its growth is controled, however, the sumac can form an attractive addition to any farm.

Lowly Milkweed a Life Saver.

The milkweed has come into its own and now farmers are urged to harvest the weed in the fall. Its silky seed fibers are highly waterproof and are used as a substitute for kapok for life jackets. Milkweed floss now is considered the best material available for life jackets, and the government has set its minimum requirements at 1,500,000 pounds of floss for this year.

This fall, the milkweed will be harvested in 26 states by 4-H club boys and girls as well as state experiment station workers. The floss will be processed in Michigan at a special plant. Last year, experimental collections in Michigan gathered 95,000 pounds of floss from 12 counties.

Every one collecting milkweed pods this year will have the satisfaction of knowing that thru such efforts a life may be saved somewhere at sea.

The GARDEN by Ben Markland

GARDENERS who have not yet planted lima beans should make their plantings before the end of this week, or not at all. Baby Fordhook variety requires 70 days to produce edible beans, and Standard Fordhook and Burpee's Improved come into production about 75 days after planting. Limas ordinarily are planted in late May or early June for full crops, but if planted now will produce by the middle of September, and can be picked until frost time.

Gardeners who planted winter squash now would be taking a chance that their crop might be caught by frost, because the Hubbard type requires 115 to 120 days to reach full size, the Boston marrow needs 100 days, and the banana squash takes 125 days.

Gardeners can plant smaller summer squash types, however, because most of these, including crookneck, early white bush, and Connecticut straightneck, mature in 52 to 60 days. The popular Acorn, or Table Queen, squash requires 85 days, so should be planted as soon as possible.

'LITTLE' BUYERS' BOND PURCHASES TOP 56 MILLION

Individual sales of fifth war loan bonds in Chicago and Cook county have reached a total of $56,769,000 as of the close of business Saturday, it was announced yesterday. This is 20.49 per cent of the city and county individual sales goal of $277,000,000.

Philip R. Clarke, chairman of the drive, announced that the four issues of bonds intended for corporation, institutional, and large individual investors had been officially placed on the market. The goal for bond sales in this category totals $617,000,000, making an overall quota of $894,014,000.

Figures released by Chairman Clarke disclosed that the total individual sales in Illinois up to the close of business last Friday reached $89,700,000, or 22.1 per cent of the goal for individual bonds. The purchase of bonds as of that day averaged 25.7 thruout the nation.

Nation Over 4 Billion.

Washington, June 26 (AP).—War bond sales in the fifth war loan drive totaled $4,591,000,000, or 29 per cent of the quota, the treasury department announced tonight. Sales to individuals as of June 24, totaled $1,716,000,000, or 29 per cent of the individual quota.

GUN THAT FIRES 11 MILES IN AIR TO BE DISPLAYED

BELL & HOWELL.

Today is Bell & Howell day at the War Products show. The day will be dedicated to employes of the Bell & Howell Co. for their war production. The Navy pier band will give a concert from 7 to 7:30 p. m., which W-G-N will broadcast from 7:15 to 7:30. The Bell & Howell quartet will give a program at 7:35.

The scores of weapons and supply items being displayed at the War Products show at the Tribune Tower will be augmented today by the army's powerful "stratosphere" gun. This gun is capable of firing a shell more than 11 miles into the air, and only recently was demonstrated publicly for the first time.

The War Products show is sponsored by the United States treasury department in coöperation with THE TRIBUNE and armament manufacturers. Now in its third week, the exhibit is open daily from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m. and will continue thru July 9.

A Dual Purpose Weapon.

The "stratosphere" gun is the largest mobile weapon of its kind and is known officially as the 120 mm. or 4.7 inch anti-aircraft gun. It is a dual purpose weapon of new design. Its weight of more than 60,000 pounds compares with the approximately 18,000 pounds of the 90 mm. anti-aircraft gun also on display at the War Products show.

The weapon is being produced in quantity by the Fisher Body division of General Motors corporation.

Two Ways to Operate It.

The big gun can be elevated for anti-aircraft fire, or lowered for use against ground targets. It can be hauled on its own eight wheel bogie. The weapon can be operated either manually or by remote control.

Ammunition is of the semi-fixed or two piece type, with the powder charge packed in a brass casing separate from the projectile.

Boy Drowns; Save Brother Attempting to Rescue Him

George Kellen, 15, of 5748 N. Merrimac av., was drowned in the Fox river between Pistakee and Nippersink lakes in Lake county yesterday despite the efforts of his brother, Laif Kellen Jr., 23, to save him. Laif, in turn, was rescued by a passerby. George's body was recovered by the Fox Lake fire department and the Antioch rescue squad.

ARLINGTON PARK SUSPENDS CONN M'CREARY

Entertain Dodgers Twice Tomorrow.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Charley Grimm's Cubs, who are creeping up gradually on something better than eighth place tenancy, will roar up to the Great Lakes naval training center today to see what Lt. Comdr. Mickey Cochrane has collected in the way of a sailor nine. Cochrane has a fairly formidable layout awaiting the National league's furnace room boys and the Cubs will do the best they can about it, after which they will start thinking about their long Wrigley field stay which gets under way tomorrow with the war funds double header against the Dodgers.

Bob Chipman.

Boss Grimm aims to give the Sailor boys a break this afternoon by pitching Paul Erickson, but the real purpose is to give Erickson more work and also to show the Bluejackets the definite explanation of speed. Whether the speed is under control is up to Big Abner, but either way the Cubs will go on from there with the problem of how to abandon their role of rear runners in the pennant campaign.

Chipman to Greet Dodgers.

When the Dodgers arrive tomorrow one of their greeters will be Bob Chipman, who until several weeks ago, was one of the boys wearing the Leo Durocher label. Chipman hasn't seen the Brooklyn entry since he was told to pack up and join the Cubs if he could find 'em. He didn't find the Cubs until a Sunday morning in Pittsburgh two weeks ago and that same afternoon he manipulated his left arm into a 6 to 0 victory. Since then he has made one more start and lost it by the mere margin of 2 to 1.

In the other half of the war funds benefit the Cubs will rely on Hank Wyse, whose chief claim to fame is his pair of victories over the Reds. He whipped them on opening day, which was the Cubs' only success in their first 14 games, and repeated the treatment under the Cincinnati lights last Friday evening.

Catcher to Report.

According to announced arrangements the Cubs will have Dewey Williams on hand tomorrow to take care of at least half of the catching chores. He was purchased from the Toronto club on recommendation of Headhunter Jack Doyle who really was in quest of pitchers. Finding none of the latter he picked up what he thought was a good buy. As a matter of fact, the Cubs can use a catcher if he can hit. The boys the Cubs have for back-of-the-plate work can do the catching well enough, but are not overly skilled in the art of hitting.

DAWSON FIGHTS ON PIRRONE AND WILLIAMS CARD

Philadelphia, Pa., June 26 (AP).—Ike Williams, Trenton, N. J., lightweight who beat Oleo Shans in New York last Friday, will meet Joey Pirrone of Cleveland in a 10 round outdoor bout at the Arena July 10, Promoter Herman Taylor announced today.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD.

THE most effective speech this department ever heard was delivered on a State street corner the other day by a young army sergeant who stepped to the microphone and after some hesitation said, "There isn't much I can say except that it's a lot easier to buy bonds than to learn German or Japanese." . . . Despite the loss of Eddie Prokop, who will leave for a Seabee camp next month, Georgia Tech is expected to have another great football team this fall. . . . Coach Bill Alexander has uncovered a remarkable wingback prospect in John McIntosh, a transfer from Carnegie Tech. . . . Columbia's Lou Little is spending his vacation at Barnstable, Mass. . . . Walter Langford, Notre Dame tennis coach, has rolled up one of the best records in his field since he took charge in 1940. . . . His teams have had two undefeated seasons, 1942 and 1944, and he has an over-all record of 34 victories and six defeats. . . . Iowa's Dave Danner, runner-up to his teammate, Dick Ives, for the Big Ten basketball scoring championship last season, has been hospitalized for two months at Buckley Field, Colo., from arthritis and he may draw a medical discharge from the army air corps. . . . John Dempsey, candidate for state's attorney of Cook county, was one of the first managers of the National Catholic High school basketball tournament at Loyola university. . . . Nick Kearns, widely known college sports official who has been in the hotel business for 16 years, now represents a printing ink company.

Before George Barton Jr., son of the Minneapolis sports writer, left for basic training at Camp Phillips, Kas., he wrote, produced, and directed an all-soldier show at Fort Snelling called "G. I. Joe" that netted more than $50,000 for the Red Cross. . . . When Rod Fletcher, 14 year old son of the University of Illinois back field coach, Ralph Fletcher, recently shot a 78 over the par 72 Champaign country club course, it was just another incident in the life of the "golfing Fletchers". . . . Another son, Pete, 17, has shot 76 and Papa Fletcher has a 72 to his credit. . . . While shagging flies before a recent night game in Ebbets field, Paul Derringer of the Cubs found $2.46. . . . Jack Johnson, former heavyweight champion, is traveling with a carnival. . . . Jimmy Foxx says that Johnny Allen, who has come to terms with the Giants, is the toughest pitcher he ever has faced.

IRISH CAPTURE N. C. A. A. GOLF ON TERRY'S 76

St. Louis Star's 73 Takes Medal.

Toledo, O., June 26 (AP).—The University of Notre Dame succeeded Yale today as national intercollegiate golf champion as a four man Irish team turned in 18 hole scores varying from 76 to 82 for a 311 total, one stroke better than Minnesota's 312. Individual medalist, however, was James Jackson, senior at Washington university, St. Louis, who had a two over par 73.

Jackson led a field of 32 qualifiers into the individual match play competition, which opened later in the day, and won his opening round match, 6 and 5, from Kenneth Mack of Minnesota.

Wolverines Seven Strokes Back.

Trailing Notre Dame and Minnesota in the team standings, with totals based on the four low scores by each team, were Michigan, the Big Ten champion, 318; Ohio State, 327, and Michigan State, 344.

The Irish could thank Robert Terry, the last man in the field to finish qualifying round play, for their team title. Terry came in with a 76 to provide the one stroke victory. Other Notre Dame individual scores included in the winning total were Jim Besenfelder's 76, a 77 by John Fitzpatrick, and Mel Wilke's 82.

Wallace Ulrich, 1943 individual champion from Carleton college who now is stationed as an army air force student at the University of Toledo, had a 79 this morning, but then withdrew from individual competition because of the press of studies.

Two of Irish Survive.

Both Notre Dame and Michigan qualified six players for individual match play, but only two of the Irish won their first round matches while five of the Wolverines were first round winners.

In his afternoon match, Jackson was one over par for the 13 holes it took to eliminate Mack, and had six one putt greens. John Jenswold, Michigan's Big Ten individual title holder, had a 75 in defeating Bensenfelder of Notre Dame, 1 up.

The most sensational match play round was that by Michigan's Tom Messinger, who was one under par in eliminating Preston Crabill of Ohio State, 7 and 6. Qualifying round results and summaries of first round match play:

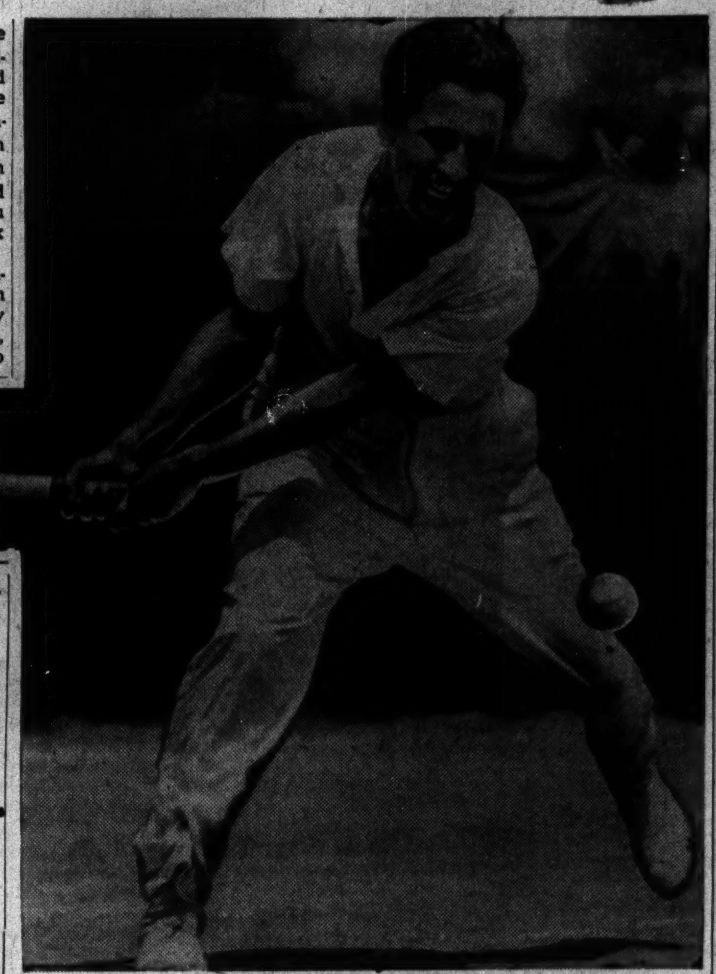
Chicagoan Advances in National Prep Net Meet

Haverford, Pa., June 26 (AP).—Robert David of Senn High school, Chicago, seeded sixth, defeated E. Newbold Black of Episcopal academy, 6-2, 6-0, in a first round match as play in the national interscholastic tennis meet opened at the Merion Cricket club today.

Segura Advances Toward 2d N. C. A. A. Title; Defeats Utah Rival, 6-1, 6-3, at N. U.

Francisco [Pancho] Segura, the defending champion from the University of Miami, led 16 first and second round survivors into the third round of the N. C. A. A. tennis tournament at Northwestern university yesterday. The South American star drew a first round bye and then proceeded to race thru a straight set victory over Dick Warner of Utah, 6-1, 6-3.

Segura's opponent in today's competition will be Dale Lewis of Utah State who advanced yesterday by eliminating Fay Dunn of Iowa State, 6-1, 7-5. Today's matches, which also will include the first round of doubles, will start at 1:30 p. m.



FRANCISCO SEGURA.

McCall Upsets Druliner.

Howard McCall, naval R. O. T. C. junior from Georgia Tech, provided the first upset of the tournament when he defeated second seeded George Druliner of the College of Pacific in a second round match, 6-1, 6-3. McCall won from John Filer of DePauw, 6-0, 6-0, in the first round, while Druliner was hard pressed to beat Felix Kelley of Texas, 6-2, 10-8.

The other four seeded players all survived the opening day's play. Harry Likas of Gonzaga, seeded No. 3, beat Erwin Schulze of DePauw, 6-4, 6-0; John Hickman of Texas, seeded fourth, beat Frank Clawson of Northwestern, 6-0, 6-0; Joe Willett of Georgia Tech won from Arnold Beisser of College of Pacific, 6-1, 6-1, and Nick Buzolich of George Pepperdine college, Los Angeles, Cal., defeated Harold Johnson of Iowa State, 6-2, 7-5.

Irish Have Three Left.

Three members of Notre Dame's four man team survived the opening day's play, the lone loser being Bill Tully who lost a see-saw struggle to Bob Davis of Navy, 7-5, 7-5. The Irish trio still in the running includes Charles Samson, Jerry Evert, and Jim Griffin. The latter won one of the few extra set matches of the day when he defeated Bill Roper of Northwestern, 6-1, 5-7, 6-3.

While Davis was winning his match over Tully, his teammate, Bob Crawford, was bowing to Robert Lewis of Utah, 7-5, 7-5. Lewis played guard on Utah's N. C. A. A. championship basketball team last winter. Summaries:

GOLDBERG, PRO FOOTBALL STAR, CALLED BY NAVY

Ensign Marshall Goldberg, whom Chicago Cardinal fans will remember as more than an ordinary half back for five seasons in the National Football league, will leave tonight for indoctrination training at Camp McDonough, Plattsburg, N. Y.

Marshall Goldberg.

Marshall has four brothers in the service. Iz S., a flight officer and glider pilot, participated in the invasion of Normandy. William, a master sergeant, is in the Aleutians. Joe and Victor, both sergeants, are in the army in this country.

VETERANS TO SEE VICTORY GOLF PREVIEW TODAY

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The Chicago Victory National golf tournaments, which will be held tomorrow, Thursday, Friday, Saturday, and Sunday at the convenient Edgewater Golf club, 2045 W. Pratt blvd., today will have a fitting preview to the real purpose of the five day program which has enlisted the smartest field of the 1944 season. That purpose, of course, is to supply funds for the recreational needs of the hospitalized veterans of World War II in this area.

Last year's highly successful inaugural of the Victory National at Beverly produced more than $6,000 for this goal. This afternoon, at 2 o'clock, 26 of the brightest names in the competitive cast will travel to Hines hospital to assist in the dedication of the putting clock which the Chicago District Golf association and their 1943 sponsors are presenting to the veterans there.

Beck to Cut First Cup.

Following this ceremony, in which William Beck, manager of the hospital, will cut the first cup in the big green installed by the Midwest Greenkeepers' association, the tournament stars will give an exhibition of shotmaking in the hospital stadium. This show is being restricted to the veterans and their relatives.

The company of outstanding swingers who will give this afternoon's exhibition includes the following:

AMATEURS—Storekeeper 1st Class Mike Stolarik, Great Lakes; George Dawson, Glen Oak; Chick Evans and Johnny Lehman, Edgewater; Jimmy Frisina, Springfield, and Bob Cochran, St. Louis.

Battle to Open Friday.

The above names would constitute a handy personnel for any show, but it will be reinforced and opposed by such others as Lt. Ben Hogan of the army air force; Mike Turnesa of White Plains, N. Y., and his brother Sgt. Jim of the

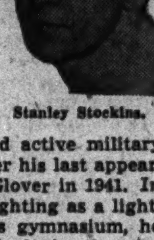
Tribune Legion Post Has Golf Tickets on Sale

Tickets to the Chicago Victory National Golf tournaments, opening tomorrow at the Edgewater Golf club, 2045 W. Pratt blvd., will be on sale thruout the five days of competition at The Tribune Public Service office, 1 S. Dearborn st., under the auspices of the Medill-Tribune post, No. 348, American Legion. Nathaniel B. Husting is commander of the post, which is a member of the Cook County council of the Legion, one of the co-sponsors of the tournaments.

The sale of season tickets, good for the entire five days and costing $3.60, will end at midnight tonight. Daily admissions are $1, including tax, for tomorrow, Thursday, and Friday; $1.25 for Saturday, and $1.50 for Sunday.

Stockins, '41 GoldenGlover, Dies in Action

Stanley Stockins, former Chicago Golden Gloves boxer, was killed in action on D-day, June 6, his mother, Mrs. Stanley E. Stockins, 7119 S. University av., learned last night in a notice from the war department.



Stanley Stockins.

Stockins, as a paratrooper, technician 4th class, participated in the invasion of Normandy. He entered active military service shortly after his last appearance as a Golden Glover in 1941. In this tournament, fighting as a lightweight for Heniff's gymnasium, he was forced to default in the city semi-finals because of an injury. He had gone to the city semi-finals the previous year in the same division.

Trained at Fort Benning.

The 27 year old former boxer, after two years in a tank destroyer unit, transferred to the paratroops at Fort Benning, Ga., a year ago. He arrived in England in September of last year. For several years he was a member of the 124th field artillery.

In civilian life, as a member of the civilian conservation corps, Stockins was cited for bravery. This was in 1936 and when he came back to Chicago from the China Flats camp near Powers, Ore., he cautioned his family against showing the citation to friends.

Story of Heroism Told.

Twenty-two CCC workers were returning to camp at 2 a. m., after fighting a forest fire when the truck left the road and rolled down a 30 foot embankment. Despite the handicap of two broken ankles, young Stockins participated in first aid work and directed the other men in collecting the injured and applying first aid. Then, according to the citation, Stockins finally fainted from pain. He was a graduate of Hirsch High school.

In addition to his mother, he is survived by a brother, Howard R., and two sisters, Marjorie K. and Arlene N.

ZIVIC LOSES TO TOMMY BELL IN 10 ROUND BOUT

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 26 (AP).—Tommy Bell of Youngstown, O., won a 10 round split decision over Pvt. Fritzie Zivic, former welterweight champion, before 12,000 at Forbes field tonight.

It was Zivic's first professional fight since he entered the army two months ago after 13 years in the ring.

DERBY WINNER CHARGED WITH HOLDING RIVAL

Ruling Shifts Order of Finish.

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN.

Conn McCreary.

McCreary's mount, Twosy, after finishing first, was placed second because of the foul. Bodiou was aboard Dr. Eslie Asbury's Blue Skimmer, which finished second and was then placed first. The Foxcatcher farm's even money favorite, Surosa, finished third in a three horse photo finish after leading midway down the stretch.

Winner Pays $10.40.

The event was the $2,000 Miss Dogwood purse and had a field of eight 2 year old fillies. The winner paid $10.40.

What effect McCreary's suspension will have on his stake assignments has not been decided by the board of stewards. The little Missourian, who rode Pensive to triumphs in the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness this year, is scheduled to have the leg up on the Calumet's Sun Again in the $50,000 Stars and Stripes handicap, feature event of the week of charity racing July 3 to 7 sponsored by the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.

Occupation Wins Again.

The suspension of McCreary took a bit of edge off the fourth straight victory of John Marsch's Occupation, which went postward in the following sixth race a 1 to 2 favorite in a field of six for the $2,500 Lawrin purse and won handily by a length and a half. Jockey Otto Grohs was the winning rider.

Hal Price Headley's Tellmenow was second, a length and a half back, and Creech and McIlvains Bright Willie took the show, three lengths in front of the Calumet's Armed, ridden by McCreary. Occupation returned $2.80, $2.20 and $2.20.

The ladies' day crowd estimated at 14,000, saw the favorites take a good beating all afternoon until Occupation came in. To start the day off, the daily double paid $712, the highest refund of the Chicago season. That was brought about by a $93.80 payoff on Nellie Weed in the first event and a $24.60 price on Time Was in the second.

Then Passan scored at $14.60 in the third; Purple Heart paid $19 in winning the fourth, and Blue Skimmer was worth $10.40 in the troublesome fifth.

BIG RACING SCHEDULE

Arlington Park's meeting entered a fortnight of racing yesterday that promises to be the most interesting two weeks of the entire Chicago season.

The $10,000 Princess Doreen stakes is the mid-week highlight tomorrow. Saturday will have the $15,000 added Arlington Lassie stakes as the feature. Then comes the opening next Monday of charity week, sponsored by The Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., which will bring together the handicap stars of the course in the $50,000 added Stars and Stripes handicap on Independence day, Tuesday.

Charity Week Program Listed.

Twenty-five of the nation's best, headed by the Calumet farm's Sun Again, winner of the Equipoise Mile last Saturday, have been nominated for the Stars and Stripes. The schedule of features for charity week follows:

TUESDAY, July 4—$50,000 Stars and Stripes handicap, 1⅛ miles; $2,500 grade C feature for 3 year olds, 6 furlongs.

WEDNESDAY, July 5—$3,000 Stagehand, 3 year olds and up, 1 mile; $2,000 Blue Larkspur, 2 year olds, 6 furlongs.

THURSDAY, July 6—$10,000 Skokie handicap, 3 year olds, 7 furlongs; $2,500 Johnstown, 3 year olds and up, 6 furlongs.

FRIDAY, July 7—$4,000 John Harvey handicap, 3 year olds and up, 6 furlongs; $2,500 two mile race on grass course. $2,500 Discovery, 3 year olds, 1 mile.

WHITE SOX READY FOR STRONG BOYS OF BOSTON TOWN

Seek First Victory Over Red Sox Tomorrow.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., June 26.—The second place White Sox are here to meet the fourth place Boston Red Sox in a three game series beginning Wednesday—and it's a fittin' place for them to test their rights to second place, from which spot they dislodged the Red Sox by taking two games Sunday from the Cleveland Indians while Joe Cronin's team was splitting with the Washington Senators.

In the Sabbath shake-up the revived Yankees slipped into third place, a percentage point ahead of the Bostons. From Boston the White Sox will go to New York to see what they can do about slowing down the surprisingly awakened Yanks.

The Sox haven't been so hot with the St. Louis Browns, who lead them by four games. But tho they have beaten the Brownies four times they still await the thrill of their first conquest of the Red Sox.

Bringing Up Doleful Past.

After taking three straight from the Yanks, the White Sox went against the Red Sox on May 18—the Red Sox then were in last place. On May 18 they blew a 2 to 1 lead after two were out in the ninth and lost in the 12th, 3 to 2. That, by the way, was the only loss of the year for Gordon Maltzberger, the miracle reliever, who now has won seven games.

On May 20 Wally Moses opened the game with a homer. Then the Sox folded for the day, winding up with an 8 to 1 whipping.

On May 21 there was a double header. In the first game the Sox scored three runs in the sixth inning. The Red Sox, in their half of the same inning, made four runs when the first five batsmen hit safely against Bill Dietrich, now the Sox ace. Maltzberger held the Red Sox hitless the rest of the way but the White Sox also failed to score again, tho the first three batsmen in the seventh knocked a double and two singles. The game ended, 4 to 3. Manager Jim Dykes and his team were in a panic when the fourth game was played. The Red Sox waltzed to a 9 to 2 victory—and dumped the White Sox back into the American league cellar.

The Defeats Continue.

On May 28 the Red Sox opened in Chicago. They took a double header, 6 to 4 and 4 to 2, before 24,724 fans. The next night 14,523 paid to see the Chicagoans take their seventh straight trimming at the hands of the Bostons, 3 to 1.

This afternoon a squad of White Sox will journey down to the Quonset, R. I., naval base for a match with Lt. Pete Appleton's sailors. Pete, former White Sox pitcher, has promised the Sox his lads will tune them up so well they can score their first victory over the Red Sox.

STRINCEVICH AND LOPEZ ARE LISTED 2-A AS ESSENTIAL

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 26 (AP).—Al Lopez, captain and first-line catcher of the Pittsburgh Pirates, today was notified by his Tampa, Fla., draft board he had been classified 2-A, as essential to the war in a civilian capacity, President William E. Benswanger announced. Lopez will be 36 Aug. 20.

Nick Strincevich, 28, right handed pitcher for the Pirates, also was notified today he had been classified 2-A by his draft board in Gary, Ind. Strincevich is married and has one child.

FOOTBALL TO BE RESUMED THIS YEAR BY N. Y. U.

New York, June 26 (AP).—New York university, which gave up football in February, 1942, will play the sport this fall, the university council announced tonight.

The council in a statement said John J. Weinheimer, Mount Vernon, N. Y., captain of the 1920 and '21 Violet elevens and for several years coach of freshman football, will be the varsity coach.

HE'LL ANSWER THE BELL

Joyce Posts $2,500 Forfeit for Pep Bout

BY FRANK MASTRO.

Chairman Sheldon Clark and Commissioners Harry Scranton and Maj. Gen. Roy D. Keehn of the Illinois Athletic commission yesterday accepted Willie Joyce's $2,500 forfeit check for his 10 round bout with Willie Pep in Comiskey park July 7.

Joyce, Gary and Los Angeles lightweight, appeared at the bi-monthly commission meeting to post the money to guarantee his ability to make the stipulated 134 pounds for Pep, New York recognized featherweight champion. When Clark saw that the check was made out to Jack Kearns [matchmaker for the Coliseum Boxing club, which is sponsoring the impending event] instead of the commission, he rejected it.

Commission Warns Kearns.

Kearns then said a new check would be made out payable to the commission so the members accepted the old one pending its revision.

The board also sanctioned the date for the big fight, but in so doing cautioned Kearns about arranging a bout in the future without first getting the date approved by the commission. The chairman explained the commission would have been placed in an embarrassing position if Promoters Irving Schoenwald and Jack Begun had not withdrawn plans to conduct a card in Wrigley field July 10.

Approve Marigold Dates.

The commission approved application of Schoenwald and Begun to promote shows in the Marigold outdoor arena July 12 and Aug 23. The members also sanctioned $1, $2, $4, and $6, plus tax, as prices for the Pep-Joyce contest. Clark was assured more than 10,000 tickets at $1.30 will be available to fans.

Matchmaker Kearns is arranging three matches of six rounds and three of four for his supporting card. Among contestants will be Freddy Dawson, former Catholic Youth organization featherweight title holder; Robert Earl, ex-city Golden Gloves lightweight winner; Pvt. Terry Gibson, Los Angeles welterweight.

Lem Franklin, 1937 International Golden Gloves heavyweight champion, who has been in retirement, will open a comeback in a 10 round headliner against Colien Chaney of Indianapolis in Marigold Gardens next Monday . . . An Australian tag team match with Carl von Zuppe and Jack Zeravich meeting Al Galento and Kid Chapman will be held on a wrestling program in Rainbo Fronton tomorrow.

Fight Decisions

In Marigold Gardens—Joe Maxim beat Frank Androff [10]; Collins Brown beat Mickey McKiness [5]; Lou Angelucci knocked out Joe Conrad [1]; Refugio Ramirez stopped Frank Gaffney [2]; Johnny Bratton stopped Larry Wright [3].

Maxim Whips Androff for 8th Straight

Joe Maxim, 1940 Chicagoland Golden Gloves middleweight champion, scored a unanimous decision over Frank Androff, Minneapolis heavyweight, in a rough 10 round bout in the Marigold outdoor arena last night. It was Maxim's eighth straight victory.

Androff made a fight of it in the first nine rounds, but Joe's superior skill was the deciding factor. In the 10th he gave his foe a boxing lesson and the crowd of 1,782 was surprised to see Frank finish on his feet.

Collins Brown, 1943 Catholic Youth organization 160 pound titleholder, defeated Mickey McKiness of St. Charles in a five round semi-windup. He registered three knockdowns.

BROOKLYN WINS IN 56½ MILLION WAR BOND GAME

New York, June 26 (AP).—The Brooklyn Dodgers outscored the New York Yankees and Giants, 5-1-0, in a three-cornered game which was the feature event of a war bond show staged by the three greater New York teams in the Polo Grounds tonight.

An estimated crowd of 50,000 purchased more than $56,500,000 in war bonds to watch the three local clubs meet in one game for the first time in baseball history. Included in the bond total was a purchase of $50,000,000 made by Mayor La Guardia for the city of New York.

Dodgers Score in First.

The game was a regular nine inning affair with each team having six turns at bat and six appearances in the field.

The Yanks scored their lone run against the Giants in the ninth. Augie Galan was the only batter to make two hits and Howie Schultz made the longest hit, a triple.

Former Stars Introduced.

War Veterans to See Golf Stars Today

The battle for the Open championship proper, a 72 hole medal play test carrying top prizes of $3,000, $1,750, $1,250, and $1,000 in war bonds at maturity value, will begin with 18 holes on Friday, followed by 18 more on Saturday, and the final 36 on Sunday. Byrd, the old Yankee outfielder, who has become as able with a driver and putter as he was with a ball and glove, will be the defending champion.

Tee Off in Foursomes.

Before the professionals go into their argument, however, the C. D. G. A. and its co-sponsors—the Cook county council of the American Legion, the Professional Golfers' Association of America, the Edgewater club, Bundles for America, and the American Women's Voluntary Services—will present the top golf innovation of the year.

Tomorrow and Thursday, the professionals will tee off in foursomes, each having a lady partner, a senior partner [a golfer over 50 years of age] and an amateur. The professional's score will be added to that of each of his partners on an aggregate basis for tomorrow's 18 and that of Thursday. Thus, each professional will have three chances within his own foursome to capture as many national team championships.

BOBO BEATS BROWN.

Baltimore, Md., June 26 [AP].—Harry Bobo, Pittsburgh Negro heavyweight on furlough from the army, won a unanimous 10 round decision tonight from massive Big Boy Brown of Detroit in a slambang slugfest which frequently brought fans to their feet cheering.

Times change—but not CHAPIN & GORE

• Chicagoans today hold C & G Bourbon in the same high regard it enjoyed in the city's early days. The reason is that there has never been a letdown in the high quality of C & G—no change in the slow, careful "sour mash" method of distillation. In the familiar C&G bottle, you still get the finest of fine bourbons.

NEW DEALERS' MISUSE OF WAR CASH ASSAILED

Sound Engineering Methods Urged.

Charlestown, W. Va., June 26 [Special].—The New Deal has cost the country billions of dollars thru the neglect of engineering principles in the conduct of the war, and thru appointing politicians rather than trained engineers to key posts in war agencies, Willard F. Rockwell, industrialist, declared today.

W. F. Rockwell.

Rockwell, who is chairman of the Timken-Detroit Axle company, told the West Virginia Society of Professional Engineers that sound engineering must be applied to post-war planning or the American system of free enterprise is doomed.

Political Attacks Assailed.

He attacked politicians who had condemned "big business" merely because of its bigness, and asserted the United States could not have become the arsenal of the allies without the vast facilities of the largest metal fabricating companies.

"There has never been a shortage of aluminum since the war started, but government agencies spent millions to build additional aluminum facilities which have not turned a wheel since they were completed," Rockwell said.

"These government enterprises not only represent the waste of millions in tax money, but the waste of millions of man hours, which should have been used to produce materials of which there has been a desperate shortage. In many cases we have too little of some things because the burocrats ordered too much of other things.

Government Has Changed.

"Our constitutional government has been completely changed, not by popular vote of the people, but by indirection, by subversion, and by perversion under the guise of reforms, or by temporary measures to relieve critical situations created for the confusion of voters and to divert their attention from the real objective.

"Politicians dominate all business. We have set up a separate ruling class in these burocracies, which issue thousands of orders with the force of law. The people can no longer depend on the Supreme court to protect them. The study of history will prove that when men have transferred their economic problems to other men who call themselves government, they have created a monster that will destroy their liberties."

Urges Political Interest.

Rockwell said the conservative trend in congress and its determination to regain powers transferred to the executive branch gave hope for a more sound future trend in government. However, he urged business men to take a more active interest in politics to assist in solving post-war problems.

"All post-war planning will be for naught unless we see that congress creates such conditions that men can build new businesses and create new jobs," he warned.

ECONOMIES IN TRAIN OPERATION THRU USE OF RADIO PREDICTED

The installation of radio communications on railroads will result in operating economies besides contributing to the efficiency of many rail operations, W. P. Hilliard, general manager of the radio division of Bendix Aviation corporation, asserted yesterday. Railroads, as a result of current experiments in high frequency transmissions being carried out by Bendix and several roads, will receive benefits of the many war time radio developments, he said.

Bendix is coöperating with the Rock Island Lines, the Santa Fe system, Burlington, Baltimore and Ohio, and the Seaboard Air Line road in radio installations.

"Bendix is the first to use the high frequencies above 150 megacycles in railroad operations," said Hilliard. "Such short waves are not subject to the fading and interference experienced on the lower frequencies used today for broadcasting and police radio systems."

Stocks Drive Upward on War, Politics

New York, June 26 (AP).—Stocks extended their advance today as more good war news and domestic political hopes revived speculative and investment purchasing.

The direction was upward from the start with low priced motors, oils, utilities, and specialties coming out in blocks of as much as 7,000 shares. Gains ranged from fractions to more than 2 points with many favorites highest for the last seven days. The pace slowed toward the end, but most advances were maintained.

Peace Plans Evident.

Belief that reconversion plans for the automotive industry and other lines were farther along than generally is realized helped stimulate selective bidding. The outlook for constructive developments at the Republican national convention supported sentiment.

The Associated Press 60 stock average was up 0.2 at 55.5, only 0.1 under its top since 1937 established last week. Volume totaled 1,720,260 shares against 1,301,015 Friday.

BONDS EDGE HIGHER.

New York, June 26 (AP).—Bond prices averaged a little higher today, but there were a large number of unchanged or modestly lower corporate issues. Individual favorites were well supported when offerings appeared while others drifted aimlessly and often lower on slim volume. Sales of $8,919,600 compared with $11,671,400 Friday.

CHICAGO LIST ADVANCES.

Price gains predominated in yesterday's trading on the Chicago Stock exchange in increased turnover of 43,000 shares. Among 15 issues at new highs for the year were Raytheon Manufacturing, up 1⅛; Fansteel Metallurgical, up 1¾, and Crane company, up 1⅜. Others made fractional gains.

THREE ELECTED TO FILL TUBIZE DIRECTORSHIPS

New York, June 26 [Special].—Henry C. Breck and John E. Rousmaniere of New York, and Robert Strickland, Atlanta, Ga., today were elected directors of Tubize Rayon corporation. They succeed John W. Mettler, Rufus W. Scott, and Charles W. McConaughy, who resigned.

The new directors represent interests who recently acquired a substantial part of the common stock of the company previously owned by Mettler and Scott, who were among the organizers of Tubize Artificial Silk Company of America and American Chatillon corporation, predecessor companies of Tubize Rayon.

Pay Increases Granted to 3,000 Hotel Employes

Wage increases, retroactive to last Aug. 1 or Oct. 1, have been granted more than 3,000 maids, housekeepers, porters, bellboys, cooks, dishwashers, waiters, and other employes of 11 large Chicago hotels by the regional war labor board, Chairman Warren announced yesterday. Increases were denied bartenders and some of the higher paid job classifications. Cases involving several thousand employes of restaurants and residential hotels are pending.

Estimated Steel Output Will Decrease This Week

New York, June 26 (AP).—The American Iron and Steel institute today estimated steel output at 95.7 per cent of capacity this week compared with 97.3 per cent last week.

WPB REPORTS FARM MACHINERY OUTPUT BEHIND SCHEDULES

Washington, D. C., June 26 (AP).—Altho May was the best month of the year in farm machinery manufacture, the WPB reported today that the entire program was 10.7 per cent behind schedule on June 1. Chairman Nelson's report said the $668,695,000 output goal for the year ending June 30 would be "substantially achieved." However, combines and certain other important harvesting machinery were about 30 per cent behind schedule on June 1.

As evidence of the general improvement, Nelson said the 10.7 per cent lag on June 1 compared with deficits of 14 per cent on May 1, 17.3 per cent on April 1, and 22.7 per cent on March 1.

Harvesting machinery, the second largest item in the agricultural equipment program, was the farthest behind schedule, lagging 30.5 per cent. Haying machinery was 28.3 per cent behind, while barn and barnyard equipment was 20.9 per cent behind. Wheel type tractors were 5.3 per cent above schedule, irrigation equipment 12 per cent ahead, and farm poultry equipment 9.2 per cent behind.

LIGHTER WEIGHT NEWSPRINT PEG IS RAISED BY OPA

Washington, D. C., June 26 (AP).—The OPA today authorized the sale of extra lightweight newsprint at higher price ceilings than those for standard or lightweight newsprint.

Manufacturers already are permitted to sell lightweight newsprint—generally 30 pounds for 500 sheets 24 by 36 inches—at $4.00 a ton above the ceiling prices for 32-pound standard paper of the same size and quantity.

The order, effective Saturday, applies to newsprint of less than 30 pounds in the same specifications. It provides that any manufacturer who sold the extra lightweight newsprint during the Oct. 1, 1941-March 31, 1942, base period may add to his ceiling price for standard paper the same price differential he customarily applied during the base period.

EPISCOPAL FUND, ASSETS GROW BY 1.3 MILLION IN '43

New York, June 26 [Special].—An increase of $1,358,126 in the assets of the church pension fund of the Protestant Episcopal church last Dec. 31 above a year earlier was shown in the fund's 26th annual report issued today. Assets as of Dec. 31 were $37,629,423.

Bishop Cameron J. Davis, president, said the year-end market value of the fund's investments exceeded their book value by $2,200,000. Maintained by the church to provide pensions for retired clergymen and for widows and orphans of deceased clergymen, the fund has paid out approximately $23,600,000 since its founding in 1917.

Liabilities, totaling $34,649,409 on Dec. 31, also have grown, Bishop Davis said.

Brill Company Owners to Vote on Merger Plan

New York, June 26 (AP).—Stockholders of the Brill corporation and American Car and Foundry Motors company will vote on merger proposals at a special meeting July 26. Directors have approved the proposals which would create a new company known as the A. C. F.-Brill Motors company.

Morgenthau's Debt Idea Not New Deal Line

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau foresees the eventual retirement of all war created government debt. As long as he remains in the government, the secretary promises, he will favor a policy of high taxes and steady debt retirement.

"After all, the people who are buying the war bonds are doing so in the belief that this debt will be paid off," Morgenthau said in Chicago recently. "I cannot forecast future fiscal policy of the government with certainty but I know where I stand."

Asks Aim of Policy.

A skeptical reporter asked Morgenthau if the federal government's fiscal policy is aimed at retiring all war bonds after the war. The secretary explained that he was expressing his own convictions on the matter and he made no reference to the philosophy now in vogue among government economists that the debt constitutes no burden to the country as long as it is owed to citizens of the United States.

Morgenthau's views on fiscal matters, as expressed in public statements, are conservative, it is conceded by critics of government policy. They point out, however, that fiscal views expressed by the treasury head bear no resemblance to policies that the government has followed since he was appointed secretary. This is explained by some as reflecting the lack of influence of the treasury secretary in shaping broad government policies.

Fiscal Views Opposed.

The views of Chairman Eccles of the federal reserve board and Dr. Alvin H. Hansen, the board's special economic adviser, are diametrically opposed to those expressed by Morgenthau. Further, the Eccles-Hansen philosophy of government finance has had more influence in shaping New Deal fiscal policy than the views of the secretary of the treasury, it is agreed.

The Eccles-Hansen group believes that government debt is an instrument of economic policy, to be increased when deflation threatens and reduced only when the voters agree that there is sufficient prosperity for all.

New Philosophy Outlined.

This theory was outlined in a recent book by Robert R. Nathan, a New Deal economist who is an ardent exponent of the new philosophy of debt. Nathan urged that the tax system be geared so that as much as possible of the tax revenues be collected from individuals who otherwise might be tempted to save; that the ultimate in sound fiscal policy would be reached when the public debt is held by the same groups that pay all the taxes. Under this happy arrangement the government would have only a job of bookkeeping—collecting taxes on the one hand and mailing out interest checks to the people paying them.

The author went on to predict that the time will come when no interest will be paid on government securities. Individuals will be willing, he said, to pay a safekeeping fee to the government that uses their savings.

MILK HELD CURE FOR NUTRITIVE ILLS OF NATION

The nation's nutritional problems can be solved most economically and efficiently thru the increased use of milk, Dr. J. M. Sherman, chief of the department of dairy industry, Cornell university, said at the opening of a three day meeting of the National Dairy council in the Edgewater Beach hotel yesterday.

Health standards and the length of an individual's working life will be enhanced with the solution of nutritional problems, Dr. Sherman said. Calcium, riboflavin, and other necessary nutritive elements of milk are not being consumed in adequate quantities, he said.

SMALL PLANTS TO GET HIKE IN CIVILIAN GOODS

Based on Over-All Industry Rate.

Washington, D. C., June 26 (AP).—A plan to increase the use of small manufacturing plants in the production of civilian goods in the next few months was announced today by Maury Maverick, chairman of the Smaller War Plants corporation.

Maverick said the program, approved by the war production board, will permit small companies to increase their operations to a rate equal to the over-all industry rate of production for any essential civilian articles. The over-all rate for a specific item is based on production for both civilian and military use.

Most to Large Companies.

Under present conditions large companies get most of the orders for civilian goods which are placed by the army and navy. This has given the bigger companies a disproportionate share of consumer goods production, because army and navy orders for civilian items are not counted in the quota limitations which WPB imposes on each firm's production of an article for civilian use, Maverick said.

"Under the new program small plants will be permitted a rate of production on civilian items by the relaxation of quotas, so that no small plant in the industry will be operating below the over-all average production level of the industry, including the military production," Maverick explained.

He gave this example of the expected effect of the new policy: WPB now may limit the output of a civilian item to 40 per cent of pre-war production; military purchasing of the same item may run to 80 per cent of the pre-war production. The rate for the industry, therefore, may be 120 per cent. The new plan will make small plants eligible for enough material to operate at 120 per cent, instead of the 40 per cent now permitted.

What Plants May Get Boost.

Applications for the increased allocations should be made not later than July 10, Maverick said. Only the following plants will be considered:

1. Those in the critical west coast areas of San Diego, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Portland, and Seattle whose total employment does not exceed 50 workers and will not be increased by the proposed production.

2. Those in other critical labor areas where production urgency committees have been established and where total employment does not exceed 100 wage earners and will not be increased by the proposed production.

3. Those elsewhere whose total employment after the proposed expansion will not exceed 100 wage earners.

YUCATAN BUYS 4,000 TONS OF CORN FROM U. S.

MEXICO CITY, June 26 (AP).—Yucatan has purchased 4,000 tons of corn from the United States, Manager Lopez Alonso of the "fomento de Yucatan" commission announced today. He spoke highly of the coöperation given him on the mission by North American officials, attributing it not only to the good neighbor policy but the importance of Yucatan cordage in winning the war.

[The government in recent months has sharply restricted use of corn in the United States because of an acute shortage for live stock feed and war essential industrial use.]

Rubber Butylenes Diverted for Invasion Aviation Gas

Washington, D. C., June 26 (AP).—Heeding an urgent plea from military leaders for more high octane gasoline, Rubber Director Dewey today ordered diversion of 400,000 barrels of butylenes from the synthetic rubber program to the production of an extra 1 million barrels of aviation fuel.

The undersecretaries of war and navy, Robert P. Patterson and Ralph A. Bard, appealed for the shift, declaring the allied air attacks on axis targets have attained an unprecedented scale.

Bombing Stepped Up.

Dewey told a press conference that favorable weather and light resistance from the Nazi Luftwaffe had helped in stepping up the bombing raids, some of them long range shuttle operations from western Europe to Russia.

The butylenes will be channeled to high octane gasoline during July and August, Dewey said. However, he gave assurance that the diversion "will not result in the building of one less tire nor the use of one less pound of synthetics." Current restrictions on the output of tires and other rubber products stem from a man power shortage rather than a scarcity of materials, he explained.

Rubber Cutback Delayed.

As a consequence of the diversion, peak production of synthetic rubber from alcohol will be maintained the next two months rather than cut back as had been planned.

At present alcohol is providing 60 per cent of the country's butadiene and petroleum 40 per cent. During July and August the ratio will be 70 per cent alcohol and 30 per cent petroleum. Thereafter, in line with previous plans the ratio will be 45 per cent alcohol and 55 per cent petroleum.

People and Events

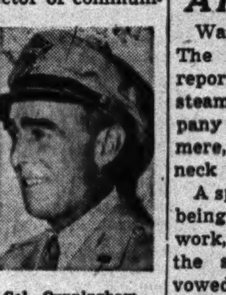
Col. J. R. Cunningham resumed his position as director of communications for United Air Lines at Chicago headquarters of the company yesterday after more than two years of active duty with the army air forces. He spent four months in England as liaison officer to the British air ministry. United also announced the filing of an application with the civil aeronautics board for authority to make Cedar Rapids, Ia., an intermediate stop in its system.



Col. Cunningham.

Edward L. Pardee, passenger traffic manager of the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha railway at St. Paul, has been appointed passenger traffic manager of the North Western railroad effective July 1, R. L. Williams, North Western president, announced yesterday. Pardee also will retain his post with the Omaha line, which is part of the North Western system, but will make his headquarters in Chicago. He succeeds Robert Thomson, who is retiring. Pardee started with the Omaha line in 1896 as an office boy.

Edward L. Pardee.

J. J. Martin, of Henri, Hurst & McDonald, advertising agency, has been elected president of American Marketing association. G. H. Brown of the University of Chicago, and W. C. Eldridge of Radio Corporation of America, became first and second vice presidents, respectively.

The American Brake Shoe company announced election of Fred P. Biggs as vice president in charge of sales of the Brake Shoe and Castings division and the Southern Wheel division.

Charles A. Powel of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, was elected president of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers.

STRIKE IMPOSES A BOTTLENECK AT ALCOA PLANT

Washington, D. C., June 26 (AP).—The navy's labor relations branch reported today a work stoppage of steamfitters at the Aluminum Company of America plant at Glassmere, Pa., had produced a bottleneck affecting war production.

A spokesman said every effort was being made to get the men back to work, but national headquarters of the steamfitters union had disavowed the strike and the conciliation service would not refer it to the war labor board because of the jurisdictional nature of the dispute.

Meanwhile, WLB's strike section said it was informed that 58 die sinkers employed at the aluminum company's New Castle, Pa., plant were on strike. The board said an investigator reported the New Castle strikers claim membership in an independent union. Bargaining agent for the plant is the CIO United Automobile workers, the board said.

Packers Return to Jobs.

St. Louis, Mo., June 26 (AP).—Approximately 1,000 AFL union employes of the Krey Packing company, second largest independent packing plant in the St. Louis area, returned to work today after a two day absence when an arbitrator was agreed upon in a dispute which arose when the company transferred two women to a new department and then fired them for inefficiency.

PRODUCERS' AID IN DISPOSAL OF SURPLUS ASKED

Army Officer Urges Sale at Best Price.

War materials manufacturers yesterday were asked by Lt. Col. Robert C. Downie, chief of the Pittsburgh ordnance district, to make every effort to assist the government in disposing of surplus materials and obsolete equipment.

Downie, speaking to delegates attending the 25th conference of the National Association of Cost Accountants in the Palmer House, said these goods should be turned back to the government only as a last resort. He said that before this is done private industry should attempt to sell the equipment or material at the best price obtainable or convert it to its own use.

Should Be Last, He Says.

"If property is not retained by the contractor and cannot be disposed of, the policy is to take title in the government," he said. "But taking title in the government should be the last step and not the first in the settlement of claims. Contractors should make every effort themselves to use the property or dispose of it if they cannot use it.

"If a determined effort is made to find other uses for the property and if only that property which cannot be disposed of or scrapped is turned back to the government, settlements will be expedited and great economic waste avoided. Let us hope that this job does not degenerate down to merely taking title in the government. It can very quickly unless industry and those of us in government give more than lip service to the world 'courage.'

Appeals to Industry.

"If those of us on the government side are going to have courage to authorize sales of property at sacrifice prices, and not take the easy way by taking title in the government, we expect industry to do its share in obtaining the best prices obtainable."

The best approach to termination of war contracts is acceptance of the responsibility involved, courage to make decisions on a realistic and practical basis, getting down to details, and a clear understanding of policies and procedures, he said. Experience shows that claims are being settled at about 75 per cent of the amount originally filed, he asserted.

When Lincoln Was Nominated

by the Republicans in the "Wigwam" at Lake and Market Streets, in 1860, Greenebaum had already been in the mortgage banking business for 5 years. ◆ Today, as we did nearly 90 years ago, this company offers funds for first mortgage loans.

MERGER OF FOUR COLUMBIA GAS UNITS APPROVED

Philadelphia, Pa., June 26 (AP).—The securities and exchange commission granted today the application of Columbia Gas & Electric corporation for the merger and consolidation of four operating subsidiaries in the Pittsburgh area and dissolution of a fifth.

Under the plan, Manufacturers Light and Heat company, which also operates in eastern Ohio and northern West Virginia; Manufacturers Gas company; Pennsylvania Fuel Supply company, and Greensboro Gas company would merge into a new company to be known as the Manufacturers Light & Heat company. The new company would acquire also the assets and liabilities of Fayette County Gas company, which would dissolve.

The new Manufacturers Light would issue 581,645 shares of $50 par value common stock to Columbia Gas and 15 shares to the minority interests in Manufacturers Light in exchange for the outstanding stocks of the four constituent companies which have an aggregate par value of $35,058,400.

PRICES OF HOGS ARE HIGHER AS RECEIPTS SLIDE

Hog prices were higher in the Chicago stock yards yesterday on active buying as marketing by farmers thruout the country dipped below a year earlier for the first time on a Monday this year. Farmer-owned stock was completely cleared and for the first time in many weeks some buying orders both on local and eastern account were unfilled.

Altho weights supported at $13.75 a hundred pounds were the last to sell, clearing at steady prices, the majority of others sold quickly at steady to 10 cents higher prices. The average rose 5 cents, to $12.75, the highest level since June 7.

Packers received 18,000 sheep and lambs in direct shipments, but commission men were able to get only 3,000 head, hardly enough to establish a dependable list of quotations in all branches of the trade.

Steady prices were paid for most classes of cattle. The majority of steers ranged from $14.50 to $17, with top loads at $17.50.

GRAINS STRONG AT CLOSE AFTER EARLY DECLINE

Grain markets turned strong yesterday after an early decline of about ½ cent a bushel, advancing 1 cent or more from the low on short covering and professional buying based on a belief the government would be forced to start a cotton buying program if the President signed the new price control bill.

Altho the movement of cash wheat is heavy, there was no hedging pressure of consequence on the Chicago Board of Trade and futures at the close gained ½ to 1 cent. Oats showed independent strength and closed 1⅛ to 1⅜ cents higher, high temperatures being regarded unfavorable for the best development of the new crop. Rye was ⅝ to ⅞ cent higher, and barley gained ¾ cent.

FEA PURCHASES IN THREE MONTHS TOP 265 MILLION

Washington, D. C., June 26 (AP).—Deliveries of strategic commodities bought in foreign countries with government funds under the foreign economic administration procurement program amounted to approximately $265,800,000 in the first three months of 1944, FEA Administrator Crowley disclosed today.

Included were $146,200,000 of metals and minerals; $52,500,000 foodstuffs; $49,500,000 fibers and hides; and $17,200,000 general commodities.

REPUBLIC STEEL.

Kindly provide a report on Republic Steel corporation.—E. G.

Answer: Republic, third largest steel producer, is completely integrated with operations ranging from mining of ore to the manufacture of finished steel products. Output includes most steel products except rails and heavy structural shapes. Principal customers ordinarily are the automobile, railroad, food, container, and oil and gas industries.

More than 52 million dollars was spent from 1940 to 1942 for new plants and improvements, necessitating an increase in debt, but by the end of 1943 the company had reduced its funded debt to $72,231,523, from more than 110 millions at the end of 1936. Republic bonds recently were refunded at a lower rate of interest.

Capital stock consists of 282,144 shares of 6 per cent prior preference, 47,066 shares of 6 per cent convertible preferred [both $100 par], and 5,669,922 shares of no par common.

Net income for 1943, after deducting a $4,750,000 reserve for contingencies, was reported at $12,011,057, equal to $1.77 a share on common stock, compared with 1942 net of $17,154,578, after a 3 million dollar reserve, equal to $2.67 a share.

Per share net for other recent years was: 1941, $3.37; 1940, $3.30; 1939, $1.46; 1938, deficit; 1937, $1.19. Common dividends were resumed in 1940 after a nine year lapse with a distribution of 40 cents a share, followed by $2 in 1941, $1.25 in 1942, and $1 in 1943.

—REAL ESTATE—FARM LANDS—

Michigan

This Prize 278 acre Farm could not have been purchased at any price if the owner were living. Therefore the Widow, Mrs. Gertrude S. Petschulat, has decided to sell this very desirable farm at

PUBLIC AUCTION
SATURDAY, JULY 8
on the Premises at 3 P. M.
J. CLINTON BOWDEN

EVERY FARMER KNOWS that soil which will produce tremendous yields of Alfalfa, Red Clover, Oats, Wheat and Corn is just the farm to own.
IT'S a DAIRY FARM TO PERFECTION. There isn't any wonder why this splendid farm produces such marvelous crops. The soil has been completely limed, and, better still, there is a Marl pit worth hundreds of dollars on the farm, which has supplied enough Marl to cover this soil many times in the past, and there is ample supply for years to come. There is a great field of Alfalfa, 25 acres of Red Clover—the best you have ever inspected.
MANY THOUSAND DOLLARS' WORTH OF STANDING TIMBER that affords splendid pasture.
ALL FISH STORIES ARE TRUE about the Wonderful Lake on this farm. Bass by the thousands are in this lake, including other fish, plenty of wild duck, boating and bathing. Handsome Grove of large trees adjoins the lake. It's a Paradise as you will agree when you make inspection.
YOU WILL LIKE THE BUILDINGS. House has 10 rooms; just been re-
